INTRODUCTION.

The Sarum Missal selected for translation in these volumes is the folio printed edition of 1526.

A perfect copy of it may be seen in two of our largest public libraries, under the following (present) press-marks:

Oxford, Bodleian Library, Gough Missals, 23;
Cambridge, University Library, Vel. A. 52. 3.

There are three other copies known, one in the Chapter Library at York; one at Maynooth College; and one (imperfect) the property of the late F. H. Dickinson, Esq. There is not a copy in the British Museum, where, however, there is a nearly perfect copy of the very similar folio edition of the Sarum Missal printed by Regnault at Paris in 1531.

The only modern reprint of the Sarum Missal (Burntisland, 1861-83) is a reprint of the 1526 edition. It was therefore, obviously, the most convenient edition to take from which to make the present translation.

It is desirable to give a description of its arrangement, and an outline of its contents, especially as its scheme of signatures and foliation (not pagination) is complicated, and not at all clear for purposes of reference. References to pages in the present reprint cannot be given here, because this Introduction is being prefixed to the first volume before the whole of the text of both volumes has been set up; but such pages will for the most part be easily found by reference to Indexes 2 and 3.

1 With the exception of the Kalendar, which for some unexplained reason was printed from the 1497 edition. There are some, though not many, variations. The Kalendar in this volume is from the 1526 edition.

² Commencing, Presbyter in mensa Christi quid agis bene pensa, etc.
³ Cautele misse.
It has not been found possible to preserve the above order of contents in the present translation. For purposes of pagination and cross-reference it was found necessary to re-arrange the order in the following way:

1. Kalendar
2. Ordinary and Canon of the Mass
3. Proper of Seasons
4. Common of Saints
5. Votive Masses
6. Proper of Saints.

1 The words in italics are printed in red.
INTRODUCTION.

Votive Masses differ so much in different editions of the Sarum Missal, and of other early missals, that it may be useful to append a complete list of them as they occur in the 1526 edition of the Sarum Missal.

INTRODUCTION.

The Psalm after the Office, the Gradual and its Verses, the Offertory, the Communion and the Tracts, are printed in smaller type. This feature has been preserved except in the case of the Tracts which are printed in the larger type like the Sequences. The rubrics printed in red are represented by italics. The titles and head-lines also printed in red are represented by capitals.

The following portions of the 1526 edition have been omitted:

1. Tables for finding common and bisextile years, Sunday letters, etc. (sig. a i v).

2. Three lines at the top of each month in the Kalendar, with two additional lines at the top of January, and four lines or more at the bottom of each month, giving the lengths of months, days, and nights, the two unlucky days in each month, directions for feeding, bleeding, bathing etc. These are of astronomical and antiquarian, rather than of liturgical, interest or importance. Also hexameter lines at the bottom of each page from June to November, inclusive, giving the order in which the books of Holy Scripture are to be read.

3. The Cautela missae, or directions of a minute character for the preparation of the celebrant, and for all possible accidents and contingencies at mass (foll. cliv v—clvi v).¹

4. A short table of contents, and an index of the Common of Saints and Votive Masses only (fol. H iii v). Fuller and more modern indexes have been substituted for these, partly in this Introduction, partly at the conclusion of these volumes.

5. An accentuarium. For explanation see table of Contents in Introduction, p. iii.

6. The introductions frequently prefixed to Epistles and Gospels, e.g., “Thus saith the Lord,” or “At that time, Jesus said unto the multitude” or “to his disciples,” have been generally omitted, for the purpose of making the identification of passages of Holy Scripture more easy at first sight; and for the same reason the similar class of sentences or words sometimes, but less frequently, introduced at the end of Epistles and Gospels, has been omitted also.

¹ These have been translated and printed by Dr. F. G. Lee in the “Directorium Anglicanum,” 4th edit., London, 1879, pp. 106-118.
INTRODUCTION.

On the other hand, the Sarum Processional and the Sarum Gradual have been utilized in order to present a more complete picture of the elaborate services on Maundy Thursday, Good Friday, Easter Even, and Easter Day.

Quotations and references have, throughout, been taken from and made to the Authorized Version of Holy Scripture, except in the case of the Psalms, which are quoted from the Version in the Book of Common Prayer.

Anglican nomenclature has been used in titles, in the text, and in the running titles at the heads of pages, except in the case of Palm Sunday, and the first of the three last days of Holy Week. Here "Maundy Thursday," "Good Friday," and "Easter Even" have been used instead of "The Supper of the Lord" (Cæna Domini), "The Day of Preparation" (Dies Parasceues), and Holy Saturday (Sabbatum Sanctum).

The English form of a name has sometimes been used in the case of well-known saints, as in the case of St. Jerome (September 30th); and a more correct Latin form has sometimes been substituted for a less correct form as in the case of St. Chrysogonus (November 24th), but in such cases the Latin form, or the less correct Latin form, has generally been indicated below in a footnote.

The original, even though erroneous, orthography has been retained in the case of some words, e.g., Kyrie eleison, Alleluya, Osanna, Paraclyte.

The Prayer Book orthography, and form or use of words, although now antiquated, has been retained in some cases, e.g., "quire," "even," "prevent," "memory."
INTRODUCTION.

As the last-named word has been used throughout, as it is used in the Anglican Eucharistic Prayer cf Consecration, instead of the more usual and modern word “memorial,” it may be worth while to quote one or two examples of this usage.

In the “Injunctions of King Edward VI.” in 1547 it is ordered that:

“At evensong-time the responds with all the memories shall be left off for that purpose.”

In the “Device for Alteration of Religion” in 1558 it is directed that:

“Where there be more chaplains at the Mass, that they do always communicate with the executor in both kinds. And for her highness’ conscience, till then, if there be some other devout sort of prayer or memory, and the seldomer mass.”

In the use of capital letters the English Bible and Prayer Book have been followed, in the case of quotations from those books; but in the bulk of the text the 1526 edition has been followed, even where the text is capricious. Thus, both “Altar” and “altar” will be found in a rubric preceding the Nicene Creed. The only exceptions are in the case of such words as “Christus” and “Ecclesia,” which are almost invariably so printed, and which we have always presented as “Christ” and almost always as “Church,” though occasionally a small initial “c” or “e” makes its appearance, obviously through printers’ inadvertence, or failure of fount of type.

In the Offertory for the Twelfth Sunday after Trinity the first ten Latin words are repeated. This has been concluded to be a printer’s error, and the repetition has not been reproduced in the English translation. In the Offertory in the “Mass for the inspiration of divine wisdom” a similar repetition has been retained.

3 Part II., page 110.
INTRODUCTION.

In addition to the usual abbreviations used in kalendars, which need not be set out at length, or explained here, the following abbreviations have been made use of in the text or the notes:

- A.V. for Authorised Version
- H.S. for Holy Scripture
- P. or p. for page
- Ps. for Psalm
- R. for Roman Missal or Use
- R. for Response
- S. for Sarum Missal or Use
- Vulg. for Verse
- Vulg. for Vulgate.

R. and Vulg. have sometimes been printed before a Verse and Response for the sake of clearness, although they do not appear in the printed Sarum Missal.

It would be impossible within the limits of an Introduction to describe the origin and growth of the Sarum Use and its gradual spread throughout the greater part of England, Ireland, and Scotland; or to discuss the many solved and unsolved problems which exist in connection with its text and ritual.

Those who wish to pursue these points are referred to the Introduction to W. H. Frere's "Use of Sarum," Cambridge, 1898, vol. i., pp. xi.-lxxi., and to J. Wickham Legg's "Introduction to the Westminster Missal," London, 1897, in vol. xii. of the publications of the Henry Bradshaw Society; Fasciculus iii., pp. 1404-1441.

Information about services and ceremonial will be found in Index III. to the present volumes. We append here, as being too long for insertion in that Index, the classification of Festivals, Sundays, and Ferias (i.e., non-festal weekdays) according to the Use of Sarum. It is very elaborate, and the rules to be observed in the case of the occurrence or concurrence of any two days were contained in an Ordinale or Directorium Sacerdotum, commonly called the Pie, which the treatise "Concerning the Service of the Church” at the beginning of the Book of Common Prayer describes thus:

“The number and hardness of the Rules called the Pie, and the manifold changings of the Service, was the cause, that to turn the Book only was so hard and intricate a matter, that many times there was more business to find out what should be read, than to read it when it was found out.”

The Pie has been reprinted with Introduction and Notes, under the auspices of the Henry Bradshaw Society, vol. i., London, 1901, vol. ii., 1902. Persons interested can examine it for themselves, and decide whether Archbishop Cranmer’s description of it in the Book of Common Prayer is justifiable or not.

Festivals were divided into two classes, Doubles and Simples. Doubles were divided into four classes:

i. Principal Doubles.

2. Epiphany (Jan. 6).
3. Easter Day.
5. Whitsunday.
7. Patron Saint.
8. Dedication Festival.

ii. Greater Doubles.

1. Purification of B.V.M. (Feb. 2).
2. Trinity Sunday.
3. Corpus Christi.
4. Visitation of B.V.M. (July 2).
5. Name of Jesus (Aug. 7).
7. All Saints’ Day (Nov. 1).
8. Feast of Relics.

iii. Lesser Doubles.

1. Conception of B.V.M. (Dec. 8).
6. Circumcision (Jan. 1).
8. Monday in Easter-Week.
9. Tuesday in Easter-Week.
10. Wednesday in Easter-Week.
11. Low Sunday.
12. Monday in Whitsun-Week.
13. Tuesday in Whitsun-Week.
14. Wednesday in Whitsun-Week.
15. Invention of the Holy Cross (May 3).
17. SS. Peter and Paul (June 29).
INTRODUCTION.

Also, though not so marked in the 1526 Kalendar:

20. Translation of St. Thomas of Canterbury (July 7).

iv. Inferior Doubles.

1. St. Andrew (Nov. 30).
2. St. Thomas (Dec. 21).
7. SS. Philip and James (May 1).
10. St. Matthew (Sept. 21).
16. SS. Simon and Jude (Oct. 28).

Also, though not so marked in the 1526 Kalendar:

St. Peter's Chair (Feb. 22).
St. Augustine of Hippo (Aug. 28).
St. Erkenwald (Apr. 30).
All Souls (Nov. 2).

Simple Feasts, though of nine varieties, form three classes:

1. Simple Feasts with nine lessons, or three lessons with rulers, and triple invitatory.
2. Simple Feasts with nine lessons, or three lessons with rulers, and double invitatory.
3. Simple Feasts with three lessons, no rulers, and double or simple invitatory.

Long lists of these are given in Procter (F.) and Wordsworth (Chr.), "Breviarium ad Usum Sarum," fasciculus iii., Cambridge, 1886, index ii., pp. xl.-xliii., and another list of simples of nine lessons and simples of three lessons. Ib., p. xlv.

These distinctions and others, such as "With Nocturn," affect the Breviary more than the Missal, and therefore are not more fully described here.

There are variations among the Sarum Kalendars, some of which appear to be merely due to the carelessness of the scribe or the printer; for this remark applies to the Kalendars prefixed both to the earlier MS. and the later printed Sarum Missals.
INTRODUCTION.

Sundays were divided into four classes. This is in addition to those Sundays which rank as Doubles in the list of Feasts.

1. Principal Sundays.
   First Sunday in Advent; fifth Sunday in Lent; Palm Sunday.

2. Greater Sundays.
   Second, third, and fourth Sundays in Advent; all Sundays from Septuagesima to the fourth Sunday in Lent inclusive.

3. Lesser Sunday.
   Fifth Sunday after Easter, or Rogation Sunday.

4. Inferior Sundays.
   All other Sundays throughout the year.

Ferial days, i.e., week days, were divided into four classes:

1. Principal Ferias.
   Ash Wednesday; Maundy Thursday; Good Friday; Holy Saturday; Vigil of Pentecost.

2. Greater Ferias.
   All week days from Monday after fifth Sunday in Lent to Wednesday in Holy Week inclusive.

3. Lesser Ferias.
   All weekdays from Thursday after Ash Wednesday to Saturday after fourth Sunday in Lent inclusive; Rogation Monday and Wednesday; the third week in Advent.

4. Inferior Ferias.
   All other weekdays in Advent.
INTRODUCTION.

There were also Vigils and Unoccupied Ferias, at other times of the year, which were few in number, and are not placed among the above four classes.

In conclusion the editor has to thank J. T. Bennett-Poe, Esq., the owner of the copyright, for permission to use the English translation of the Sequences which were printed in the Rev. C. B. Pearson's "Sequences from the Sarum Missal," London, 1871, and in Mr. A. H. Pearson's translation of the "Sarum Missal," 2nd edit., London, 1884. The labour, and in many cases the difficulty, of making a fresh translation would have been great. Some of them are written in rugged and almost untranslatable Latin.

Also the Rev. W. C. Green, Rector of Hepworth, Suffolk, and late Fellow of King's College, Cambridge, who has been the translator in the five following cases:

Easter Even: "Thou leader kind, whose word called forth," etc.
Easter Even: "Thou the holy angels' king," etc. (a Litany).
St. Sebastian: "Let us all with voiceful ring," etc.
St. Roch: "Let us to the Saviour's glory," etc.
St. Anthony: "This our day of holy joy," etc.

Also the proprietors of Hymns Ancient and Modern for permission to use two translations in their collection:

Good Friday: "Sing, my tongue, the glorious battle" (eight verses).
Easter Day: "Hail, festal day," etc.

He has also to thank the Very Rev. Provost Vernon Staley, the General Editor of "The Library of Ecclesiology and Liturgiology for English Readers," of which these volumes form a part, for looking through the proof sheets, and for many useful suggestions.

EXORCISM OF WATER.

Blessing of Salt and Water.

Blessing of salt and water.—On all Sundays throughout the year, after prime and the chapter, the blessing of salt and water shall take place, at the step of the quire, by a priest, after the following manner.

I exorcize thee, O creature of salt by the living + God, by the true + God, by the holy + God, by the God who commanded thee to be cast into the water by Elisha the prophet that the barrenness of the water might be healed, that thou mayest become salt [Here shall the priest look at the salt] exorcized for the salvation of them that believe, and that thou mayest be salvation of soul and body to all that take thee; and from that place where thou shalt have been sprinkled, let every delusion and wickedness, or craft of devilish cunning, when adjured, flee and depart. Through him who shall come to judge the quick and the dead and the world by fire. Amen.

The next collect follows without “The Lord be with you,” and only with “Let us pray.”

Collect.

Almighty everlasting God, we humbly implore thy boundless loving-kindness [Here the priest shall look at the salt] that of thy goodness thou wouldest deign to bless and sanctify this creature of salt, which thou hast given for the use of mankind; that it may be unto all who partake of it health of mind and body; that whatsoever shall have been touched or sprinkled with it may be freed from all uncleanness, and from all assault of spiritual wickedness. Through our Lord Jesus Christ, thy Son, who liveth and reigneth with thee in the unity of the Holy Ghost, God, world without end. Amen.

Here follows the exorcism of the water.

I exorcize thee, O creature of water, in the name of God + the Father almighty, and in the name of Jesus + Christ his Son our Lord, and in the power of the Holy + Ghost; that thou mayest become water exorcized for putting to flight all power of the enemy; that thou mayest have power to root out and transplant the enemy himself with his apostate angels, by the power of the same Jesus Christ our Lord; who shall come to judge the quick and the dead and the world by fire.

R. Amen.

The next collect follows without "The Lord be with you," but with "Let us pray."

Collect.

O God, who for the salvation of mankind has hidden [one of thy] greatest sacraments\(^1\) in the element of water, graciously hearken unto our invocations, and pour upon this element [Here shall the priest look upon the water] prepared for divers purifications the power of thy blessing, that this thy creature, serving in thy mysteries, may acquire the effectual power of divine grace for casting out devils, and for driving away diseases; and that on whatsoever in the houses or dwelling places of the faithful this water shall have been sprinkled, it may be freed from all uncleanness, and may be delivered from hurt. Let no pestilential spirit, no corrupting air, linger there. Let all the insidious attacks of the lurking enemy be dissipated; and if there be aught which threatens the safety or the peace of the inhabitants, let it be driven away by the sprinkling of this water, so that saved by the invocation of thy holy name they may be defended from all assaults. Through our Lord Jesus Christ thy Son, who livest and reigneth with thee in the unity of the Holy Ghost, God, world without end.

Here shall the priest cast salt into the water in the form of a cross, saying thus, without inflection:

Let this mixture of salt and water alike be made in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

\(^1\) Maxima quæque sacramenta.
BLESSING OF SALT AND WATER.

V. The Lord be with you.

R. And with thy spirit.

Let us pray.

Collect.

O God, the author of unconquered might, and the king of unconquerable empire, who ever triumphest magnificently, who repressest the strength of adverse power, and overcomest the rage of the roaring adversary, and by thy might subduest the onslaughts of iniquity; with fear and humility we entreat and beseech thee, O Lord, that thou wouldest deign to accept [Here shall he look upon the salt mixed with water] this creature of salt and water; graciously illumine it, and by thy love and by thy pity sanctify it; that whenever it shall have been sprinkled, by the invocation of thy holy name, every attack of the unclean spirit may be parried, and dread of the venomous serpent may be driven far away; and may the presence of the Holy Ghost be vouchsafed to be with us, as we ask thy mercy in every place, through our Lord Jesus Christ thy Son.

While the water is being sprinkled the following Anthem shall be sung:

Thou shalt purge me, O Lord, with hyssop, and I shall be clean; thou shalt wash me, and I shall be whiter than snow.

Ps. Have mercy upon me, O God, after thy great goodness.¹

Thou shalt purge me, etc.

V. And according to the multitude of thy mercies, do away mine offences.

Thou shalt purge me, etc.

V. Glory be to the Father, etc. As it was, etc.

To be repeated. Thou shalt wash me, and I shall be whiter than snow.

This Anthem is said at the sprinkling of holy water on all Sundays throughout the year, except from Easter to the Feast of Trinity. It shall be said even on Palm Sunday and Passion Sunday with “Glory be to the Father,” etc., and “As it was,” etc.

From Easter to the Feast of Trinity the following Anthem should be said at the sprinkling of holy water, the precentor\(^1\) commencing the Anthem.

I saw water issuing out of the temple on the right-hand side, alleluya. And all to whom that water came were made whole,\(^2\) and shall say, alleluya, alleluya.\(^3\)

Ps. O give thanks unto the Lord, for he is gracious: because his mercy endureth for ever.\(^4\)

The Anthem shall be repeated: I saw water, etc. Glory be to the Father, etc. As it was, etc. And all, etc.

After the sprinkling of the water, the priest standing at the step of the quire shall say this Verse:

\(\checkmark\). Shew us thy mercy, O Lord.

\(\mathbf{R}\). And grant us thy salvation.

Then shall the priest say thus:

Let us pray.

Hear us, O Lord, holy Father, almighty everlasting God, and vouchsafe to send thy holy angel from heaven to keep, cherish, protect, visit, and defend all who dwell in this habitation, through Christ our Lord.

\(\mathbf{R}\). Amen.

If the bishop be the Officiant on any simple Sunday, then he himself, vested in a silk cope, with mitre and pastoral staff, together with all the above-mentioned Ministers, is wont to enter the quire for the blessing of salt and water; and while the blessing of salt and water is being performed by a priest vested for that purpose, as described above, the bishop betakes himself to his episcopal throne. There, after the high altar has been sprinkled by the aforesaid priest, the bishop will sprinkle both the canons and the other clerks, approaching the throne itself for that purpose, in the manner and order previously described; and in the same place he says both the Verse, and the Collect after the Anthem: Thou shalt purge me, etc. But if the bishop be not the Officiant, then vested in his quire habit, with only gloves and pastoral staff, he shall sprinkle the clerks, as above; the aforesaid priest always saying the Verse, and the Collect after the Anthem, Thou shalt purge me, etc., in the accustomed manner.

Blessing of Bread on Sundays.

First of all the priest shall say the Gospel following,

Gospel St. John, i., 1-14.

In the beginning . . . . . grace and truth.

And afterwards he shall say this Verse:

V. Blessed be the name of the Lord.
R. From this time forth for evermore.
V. Let us bless the Lord.
R. Thanks be to God.

Then shall he say:

V. The Lord be with you.
R. And with thy spirit.

Let us pray.

Bless, O Lord, this creature of bread, as thou didst bless the five loaves in the wilderness, that all who partake thereof may receive health both of body and soul. In the name + of the Father, and + of the Son, and of the Holy + Ghost. Amen.

The holy water shall be sprinkled over the bread, and it shall be distributed.

Prayer to be said by the priest before Mass.

O God, who makest worthy of the unworthy, just and holy of sinners, and clean of the unclean, cleanse my heart and body from all taint and defilement of sin, and make me a worthy and strenuous minister at thy holy altars; and mercifully grant that on this altar, to which I unworthy make approach, I may offer a sacrifice acceptable and pleasing to thy lovingkindness, for my sins and offences, and for my innumerable daily transgressions, and likewise for washing away the sins of all Christian people. And may my desire be acceptable to thee, through him who offered himself a sacrifice for us to thee his God and Father. Who liveth, etc.

* The following prayers before Mass are placed in the 1526 edition between Easter Even and Easter Day. It has been thought better to print them in this volume in their natural and appropriate position before the commencement of the Ordinary and the Canon of the Mass.

Prayer to be said by the priest before Mass.

Lord, I am not worthy that thou shouldest come under my root, but trusting in thy lovingkindness I approach thine altar; sick I come to the physician of life, blind to the light of eternal brightness, poor to the lord of heaven and earth, naked to the king of glory, a sheep to the shepherd, a thing formed to him that formed it, desolate to the kind comforter, miserable to the pitiful, guilty to the bestower of pardon, unholy to one that justifieth, hardened to the infuser of grace; imploring the abundance of thy boundless mercy that thou wouldest vouchsafe to heal mine infirmity, to wash my foulness, to enlighten my blindness, to enrich my poverty, to clothe my nakedness, to bring back the wandering, to console the desolate, to reconcile the guilty, to give pardon to the sinner, forgiveness to the wretched, life to the accused, justification to the dead; that I may be deemed worthy to receive thee, the bread of angels, the king of kings, and lord of lords, with such chastity of body and purity of mind, such contrition of heart and flow of tears, such spiritual happiness and heavenly joy, such fear and trembling, such reverence and honour, such faith and humility, such determination and love, such prayer and thanksgiving, as are becoming and thy due, so that I may profitably obtain eternal life, and the remission of all my sins. Amen.
A devout prayer concerning the sacrament of the altar.

Almighty and merciful God, behold I approach the sacrament of the body and blood of thy only-begotten Son, our Lord Jesus Christ. I approach, I say, sick to the physician of life, unclean to the fount of pity. I implore, therefore, the abundance of thy boundless majesty, that thou wouldest vouchsafe to heal my infirmity, to enrich my poverty, so that I may receive the bread of angels, the king of kings, with such reverence and trembling, such contrition and love, as is expedient for the welfare of my soul. Grant unto me, I beseech thee, not only to receive the sacrament of the Lord’s body and blood, but also the virtue of the sacrament. O sweetest God, grant unto me so to receive the body of thy only-begotten one, our Lord Jesus Christ, which he took of the virgin Mary, that I may be found worthy to be incorporated into his mystical body, and to be numbered among its members. O most loving Father, grant that I may one day see thy beloved Son with open face, whom now I prepare to receive beneath a veil. Who liveth, etc.

ORDINARY OF THE MASS.

At the saying of Mass, while the priest is putting on the sacred vestments, he shall say the Hymn following:

Hymn.

Come, Holy Ghost, our souls inspire,
And lighten with celestial fire.
Thou the anointing Spirit art,
Who dost thy sevenfold gifts impart.

Thy blessed unction from above,
Is comfort, life, and fire of love.
Enable with perpetual light
The dulness of our blinded sight.

Anoint and cheer our soiled face
With the abundance of thy grace.
Keep far our foes, give peace at home:
Where thou art guide, no ill can come.

Teach us to know the Father, Son,
And thee, of both, to be but One.
That through the ages all along,
This may be our endless song;

Praise to thy eternal merit,
Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.

℣. Send forth thy Spirit, and they shall be made.
℟. And thou shalt renew the face of the earth.

Collect.

O God, unto whom all hearts be open, all desires known, and from whom no secrets are hid; cleanse the thoughts of our hearts by the inspiration of thy Holy Spirit, that we may perfectly love thee, and worthily magnify thee. Through, etc.

*This beautiful, but not very close, translation is taken from the service for the Ordering of Priests in the Book of Common Prayer.

*Ps. civ. 30.
Then shall follow the Anthem: I will go unto the altar of God.\(^1\)

Ps. Give sentence with me, O God, and defend my cause, etc.\(^2\)

The whole of the Psalm is said, together with Glory be to the Father, etc. Then is said the Anthem:

I will go unto the altar of God, even unto the God of my joy and gladness.

Lord, have mercy.
Christ, have mercy.
Lord, have mercy.\(^3\)

Our Father, etc.
Hail, Mary, etc.\(^4\)

This done, and the Office of the Mass having been commenced, when at the conclusion of the Office, Glory be to the Father, etc., is begun, the priest with his ministers is to approach to the step of the altar, and himself to say the confession, the deacon assisting on his right hand and the sub-deacon on his left hand, beginning thus:

\(\text{V.}\) And lead us not into temptation,
\(\text{R.}\) But deliver us from evil.
\(\text{V.}\) O give thanks unto the Lord, for he is gracious,
\(\text{R.}\) Because his mercy endureth for ever.\(^5\)

Confession.

I confess to God, to blessed Mary, to all the saints, and to you, that I have sinned exceedingly in thought, word, and deed, by my fault: I pray holy Mary, all the saints of God, and you, to pray for me.

\(^1\) Ps. xliii. 4.
\(^2\) Ps. xliii.
\(^3\) Here, as elsewhere, represented by the transliterated Greek words, Kyrie eleyson, Christe eleyson, Kyrie eleyson.
\(^4\) The full form in 1526 would be: "Hail, Mary, thou that art highly favoured, the Lord is with thee. Blessed art thou among women and blessed is the fruit of thy womb, Jesus," with possibly the addition, dated by Gavantus in 1508, "Holy Mary, mother of God, pray for us sinners," and the Franciscan addition of 1525, "Now and in the hour of our death," Thesaur. Saer. Rit., edit. 1738, tom. ii., part 1, p. 235.
\(^5\) Ps. cxviii. 1.
May almighty God have mercy upon you, and forgive you all your sins; deliver you from all evil; preserve and strengthen you in goodness, and bring you to everlasting life.

Priest. Amen.

Afterwards the ministers shall say the Confession, and the priest shall say, May almighty God have mercy, etc., as above. Then shall the priest say:

The almighty and merciful God grant unto you absolution and remission of all your sins, time for true repentance, and amendment of life, and the grace and consolation of the Holy Ghost.

The ministers shall reply, Amen.

And be it known, that whatever priest is the Officiant, if the bishop be present, the bishop shall always say, standing at the step of the altar, the Confession, May almighty God have mercy upon you, etc., and the Absolution.

Then shall the Priest say:

V. Our help is in the name of the Lord,
R. Who hath made heaven and earth.
V. Blessed be the name of the Lord,
R. From this time forth, now, and for evermore.

Let us pray.

Then, having finished his prayers, the priest shall kiss the deacon, and afterwards the subdeacon, saying thus:

Receive the kiss of peace and love, that ye may be fit for the holy altar for the performance of divine offices.

This shall be observed always, throughout the whole year, except in masses for the dead, and on the three days next before Easter.

This done, the candlebearers shall set down their candlesticks with candles at the step of the altar; then the priest shall approach the altar, and say in the midst of the altar, silently, and with inclined body and joined hands:

Let us pray.

* This preliminary kiss of peace is not in R.
ORDINARY OF THE MASS.

Take away from us, we beseech thee, O Lord, all our iniquities, that we may be found worthy to enter into the holy of holies with pure minds. Through, etc.

Then shall the priest raise himself, and kiss the altar in the midst, and sign himself on his face, saying thus:

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

Then shall the deacon place incense in the censer, and say first to the priest:

Bless.

And the priest shall say:

The Lord. May this incense be blessed by him in whose honour it shall be burned. In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost.

Then the deacon, handing the thurible to the priest, shall kiss his hand, and the priest himself shall cense the midst of the Altar and either side of the Altar, first on the right hand, then on the left hand, and in the meanwhile in the midst.

Then shall the priest himself be censed by the deacon, and afterwards the priest shall kiss the Text, brought to him by the subdeacon.

These things having been thus done, with deacon and subdeacon on the right side of the Altar, the priest shall proceed with the Office of the mass as far as the Collect, or as far as Gloria in Excelsis, when it is said.

After the Office and the Psalm, the Office is to be repeated; after which Glory be to the Father, etc., and As it was, etc., are said. Then the Office is to be repeated a third time. And this is to be observed throughout the whole year, on Sundays, and on the feasts of saints, and on Octaves, and within [Octaves] when the quire is ruled, and at all masses of saint Mary; except from Passion Sunday and after, until Maundy Thursday, that is to say, at the Mass of the season only; for then the Office is to be recommenced directly after the Psalm which is said after the Office, without Glory be to the Father, etc., after the repetition of the Office.

The principal ruler of the quire ought to ask for the Office of the mass from the precentor, and then intimate it to his companion, and afterwards they shall begin it together. In the same way the Kyrie, the Sequence, the Offertory, the Sanctus, the Agnus, and the Communion should be asked for, intimated, and begun.

Cornu. Textus, i.e. the Book of the Gospels.

This done, and the Office of the Mass having been commenced, when Glory be to the Father, etc., is begun at the conclusion of the Office, then the ministers should approach the Altar in order: first, the candlebearers walking two and two, then the thurifers, after them the subdeacon, then the deacon, after him the priest. The deacon and subdeacon are to be vested in chasubles, that is to say, daily throughout Advent, and from Septuagesima till Maundy Thursday, when the mass of the season is said, except on vigils and on Ember days, but they are not to hold their hands in the same way as the priest. The other ministers, that is to say, the candlebearers, the thurifers, and the acolytes, are to be vested in albs with amices.

At all other times of the year, when the mass of the season is said, and on feasts of saints throughout the whole year, the deacon and subdeacon shall use dalmatics and tunicles, except on vigils and Ember days, and on the vigils of Easter, Whitsunday, and Christmas Day, if it fall on a Sunday, and except at the Ember fast which is celebrated in Whitsun-week; then they should be vested in dalmatics and tunicles. On Good Friday and on Rogation days, at the mass of the fast, and at the procession, and at Sunday masses, and at the masses of the saints which are said in chapter, then they should use albs with amices.

In Easter-tide; whatever the mass may be, except on the Invention of the holy Cross, the ministers of the altar should use white vestments at Mass, as likewise on the feasts of the Annunciation of the blessed Mary, and of her Conception, and on both feasts of St. Michael; and on the feast of St. John the Apostle in Christmas week, and throughout the octaves, and on the octaves of the Assumption and the Nativity of blessed Mary, and in commemoration of her throughout the whole year, and throughout octaves, and on the octave of the Dedication of a church.

But they are to use red vestments on all Sundays throughout the year, outside Easter-tide, when the Mass is of the Sunday, and on Ash Wednesday, and on Maundy Thursday, and on both feasts of the Holy Cross, and on all feasts of martyrs, apostles, and evangelists outside Easter-tide.

On all feasts of one or many confessors they are to use vestments of a yellow colour.

This being done, the priest and his ministers shall betake themselves to the seats prepared for them until Gloria in excelsis, which is always to be begun in the midst of the Altar, whenever it is said.

Here follow varieties of intonations for the four opening words of Gloria in excelsis Deo, viz.:

Three*; for all Sundays in the year when Gloria in excelsis is said, one of them to be always selected by the precentor.

Two; for all feasts which are greater doubles.

Two; for all other double feasts.

One; for both feasts of St. Michael, and for the feast of St. Dunstan.

Two; for all feasts and on octaves when the Invitatory is sung by three persons.

Two; for all other simple feasts, whether of three or of nine lessons, when the quire is ruled.

Two; for all feasts of three lessons, and on octaves when the quire is not ruled.

One; in commemoration of blessed Mary throughout the whole year, when "Gloria in excelsis" is said.

Except when the service of Saint Mary occurs for the last time before Advent, and before Septuagesima, and on the octaves of the Assumption and the Nativity of blessed Mary; for then the following chant is said both by the quire, and by the Priest and his ministers at the altar, together with its farsings, that is to say, in the quire: it is also said, with its prose, in the daily masses in the chapel of blessed Mary on every Saturday.

Glory be to God on high, and in earth peace, goodwill towards men. We praise thee. We bless thee.
We worship thee. We glorify thee. We give thanks to thee for thy great glory, O Lord God, heavenly King, God the Father almighty.

O Lord, the only-begotten Son, Jesu Christ, Spirit, and kind comforter of orphans; O Lord God, Lamb of God, Son of the Father, First born of Mary virgin mother, Thou that takest away the sins of the world, have mercy upon us. Thou that takest away the sins of the world, receive our prayer, To the glory of Mary. Thou that sittest at the right hand of the Father, have mercy upon us.

For thou only art holy, sanctifying Mary, Thou only art
the Lord, governing Mary, Thou only art most high, crowning Mary, Jesu Christ, with the Holy Ghost, in the glory of God the Father. Amen.

At all other masses, when Gloria in excelsis is to be said, it is said without the prose.1 After it has been commenced, the priest should turn himself to the right side of the altar, the ministers also following with him, the deacon on his right, and the subdeacon on his left, and they should repeat the same in a low tone. On double feasts, when Gloria in excelsis ought to be said, the principal rulers of the quire should ask for it from the precentor, and enjoin it to the priest.

Be it noted that all clerks are bound to stand at Mass, except when the Epistle is read, and the Gradual, and Alleluya, or Tract is sung. But on double feasts they are bound to stand while Alleluya is sung by the quire. Boys are always to be standing at Mass while the quire is singing. The rulers of the quire, when there are only two of them, should

1 Prose. The word evidently refers here to the farsings.
follow in all points the regulations as to clerks of the second grade, at Vespers, Matins, and at Mass; except that they are always bound to stand while the quire is singing Alleluya; and at the commencement of chants at Mass they should turn to the Altar. On double feasts all rulers of the quire should follow the above directions in all points.

It is also to be noted that all clerks, turning to the Altar, are bound to stand while Gloria in excelsis is begun at Mass until the quire commence singing; and, in the course of the same hymn, at the words, We worship thee, and at the words, Receive our prayer, and at the end of the same hymn, when the words occur, Jesu Christ, with the Holy Ghost, in the glory of God [the Father] as far as the Epistle or Lesson.

When the Gradual, Alleluya, or Sequence, or Tract, has been said privately by the priest and his ministers, the sub-deacon shall receive the bread and wine and water with the chalice, and shall prepare them for the administration of the Eucharist; a blessing of the water having first been demanded from the Priest in this form, Bless, the priest to answer thus: The Lord. May [this water] be blessed by him out of whose side flowed forth blood and water. In the name of the Father, etc.

In the meanwhile the priest will be seated in his own seat.

At the end of the Gradual, or Tract, or Alleluya, or Sequence, the quire shall bow towards the Altar before they turn towards the reader of the Gospel; and at Glory be to thee, O Lord, the reader of the Gospel shall always turn to the Altar, and, likewise, all the clerks shall sign themselves with the sign of the cross. This sign is to be made publicly thrice during Mass, namely, at the Gloria in excelsis, when the words, In the glory of God the Father, Amen, are said; and at Glory be to thee, O Lord; and after the Sanctus, when the words, Blessed is he that cometh, are said. The quire is to bow towards the altar at the beginning of I believe in one, etc., until the quire sing; and again thrice; firstly, while this clause is said, and was incarnate by the Holy Ghost of the Virgin Mary; secondly, at the words, and was made man; thirdly, at the words, and was crucified also for us under Pontius Pilate; and at the end [of the Creed] at the words, and the life of the world to come. Amen. From this point until the Offertory is begun, and after the Offertory until the whole office of the mass is finished, the quire should adopt the above gesture on every feast throughout the year. But Gloria in excelsis is not said through the whole of Advent, whatever the mass may be, nor from Septuagesima up to the vigil of Easter.

This done, and having made the sign of the cross upon his face, the priest shall turn to the people and, slightly elevating his arms and joining his hands, shall say thus:

The Lord be with you.¹

And the quire shall respond,

And with thy spirit.

in the same tone. And the priest shall turn again to the Altar, and shall say thus:

Let us pray.

As often as The Lord be with you is said at Mass, it is always said with the same intonation, and likewise, Let us pray; except in the case of Prefaces, and in the Nuptial Mass, when the blessing is given over the bridegroom and bride, before the Peace of the Lord. Then a different intonation is provided for it, as well as for the concluding phrase of the Collect.

If any Memory is to be introduced the priest shall again say, Let us pray, as above. And when there are several Collects to be said, then all those which follow the first are said with one termination, and under one Let us pray, provided that the number of Collects is never to exceed seven, according to the use of the Church of Sarum.

² The musical intonations for the Salutation, etc., and for the Creed and Prefaces following, printed in the original text, are not reproduced here.
While the priest is standing for the office of the Mass, the deacon shall always stand directly behind him on the next step, and the subdeacon, in the same way, on the second step, directly behind the deacon. As often as the priest turns to the people, the deacon shall turn in a similar direction. The subdeacon in the meantime shall genuflect, and occupy himself in handling the priest's chasuble. If a bishop be celebrant all the deacons shall stand on the deacon's step, the principal deacon occupying the middle position among them. The subdeacons are to be ranged in the same way on their step, and all the rest of the deacons and of the subdeacons are to imitate the gestures of the principal deacon and the principal subdeacon; except that the principal subdeacon is to attend alone upon the priest when he turns to the people.

It is to be observed that whatever is said by the priest before the Epistle is to be said at the right-hand side of the altar, except the commencement of Gloria in excelsis. The same rule is to be observed after the reception of the sacrament. Everything else is to be done in the midst of the Altar, unless perchance there should be no deacon present. In that case the Gospel should be read at the left-hand side of the Altar. After the Introit of the Mass one of the candlebearers shall bring the bread, and the wine, and the water, which are arranged for the administration of the Eucharist, another [candlebearer] shall carry a basin with water and a towel.

The quire may be entered up to the end of the first Collect.

The rest of the service as far as the Creed is said in accordance with the directions laid down for the first Sunday in Advent.

Nicene Creed.

I believe in one God, the Father almighty, Maker of heaven and earth, and of all things visible, and invisible.

And in one Lord Jesus Christ, the only-begotten Son of God, And begotten of his Father before all worlds: God of God, Light of Light, very God of very God, Begotten not made, being of one substance with the

Here the quire shall incline while they say,

And was incarnate by the Holy Ghost of the virgin Mary,

The quire shall again incline while they say:
And was made man.

The quire shall incline a third time while they say:
He was crucified also for us under Pontius Pilate, he suffered and was buried. And the third day he rose again according to the scriptures, and ascended into heaven, he sitteth on the right hand of the Father, And he shall come again with glory to judge the quick and the dead, Whose kingdom shall have no end.

And in the Holy Ghost the Lord and giver of life, Who proceedeth from the Father and the Son, Who with the Father and the Son together is worshipped and glorified, Who spake by the prophets. And in one holy Catholic and Apostolick Church. I acknowledge one baptism for the remission of sins, and I look for the resurrection of the dead,

The quire shall incline at the end, while they say:
And the life of the world to come. Amen.

After the commencement of the Creed, the ministers having returned from the pulpit to the altar, the deacon shall present the book of the Gospel to the priest to kiss; or, otherwise, receiving the Text from the hand of the subdeacon, he shall present it to the priest, on his right hand, to kiss; the acolyte then waiting on the subdeacon, and the subdeacon on the deacon himself.

Afterwards there shall follow, The Lord be with you, and, Let us pray. Then shall be said the Offertory.

After the Offertory the deacon shall present the chalice with the paten and the sacrifice, to the priest, kissing his hand each time. And the priest receiving the chalice from him, shall carefully place it in its proper place in the midst of the altar, and with an inclination shall raise it slightly with both hands, offering the sacrifice to the Lord, and saying this Prayer.
ORDINARY OF THE MASS.

Receive, O Holy Trinity, this oblation, which I an unworthy sinner offer in thy honour, and in that of blessed Mary and all thy saints, for my sins and offences, and for the salvation of the living, and for the repose of all the faithful departed.

May this new sacrifice be acceptable to almighty God, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost.

When this prayer has been said, the priest shall replace the chalice, and cover it with the corporals, and shall place the bread upon the corporals, decently, before the chalice containing wine and water; and he shall kiss the paten, and replace it on the right of the sacrifice on the Altar, covering it somewhat under the corporals. This done, he shall take the censer from the deacon, and shall cense the sacrifice, that is to say, thrice in the form of a cross over [the paten], and [thrice] in a circle, and on both sides of the paten and sacrifice, and thrice the space between himself and the altar. And while he is censing, he shall say this verse following:

Let my prayer be set forth, O Lord, in thy sight as the incense.¹

After this the priest himself shall be censed by the deacon, and the subdeacon shall bring to him the Text to be kissed. Then the acolyte shall cense the quire, beginning with the rulers of the quire; next the upper grade on the decani side, beginning with the dean himself, or, in the dean’s absence, with the stall nearest to him; next, the upper grade on the cantoris side; then the second grades, then the lowest grades, in the same order. The boy is to bow to the clerks, one by one, as he censes them, the subdeacon following him with the Text for all to kiss.

If a bishop be celebrant, and if it be a double feast, two boys shall come with censers, and two subdeacons with two Texts, or with relics. But if it be a double feast, and a bishop be not celebrant, one acolyte shall carry the Text on the cantoris side.

The precentor is to be censed first, who stands in the midst of the quire with the other rulers of the quire, that is to say, on greater double feasts only; then the principal rulers of the quire on each side of him; then the two secondary rulers; afterwards the quire in the usual manner; and the Texts shall follow in the same order.

When, however, the Creed is not said, then immediately after “Let us pray” and the Offertory the deacon shall advance, and offer the chalice with the paten to the priest. The rest shall be done in the accustomed manner, and the priest shall cense the sacrifice as usual; but the quire shall not be censed. For the quire is never censed after the Gospel at mass except when the Creed is said, and then always.

This done, the priest shall go to the right side of the Altar, and wash his hands, saying:

Cleanse me, O Lord, from all pollution of mind and body, that being cleansed I may be able to perform the holy work of the Lord.

The deacon in the meantime will cense the Altar itself on the left side, and the relics, round about them, in the accustomed manner.

After he has washed his hands the priest shall return to the Altar to execute the divine office, and the deacon and subdeacon shall dispose themselves in order on their own steps, in the manner previously described.

Then having returned, and standing before the Altar, with head and body inclined, and with joined hands the priest shall say this Prayer:

In the spirit of humility and with a contrite heart may we be accepted, O Lord, of thee; and may our sacrifice be in such wise in thy sight, that it may be accepted of thee this day, and be pleasing unto thee, O Lord my God.

Then raising himself he shall kiss the Altar on the right of the sacrifice; and giving the blessing over the sacrifice he shall afterwards sign himself, saying:

In the name of the Father, etc.
Then shall the priest turn to the people, and say in a low voice:

Brethren and sisters, pray for me, that my and your sacrifice may be alike acceptable to the Lord our God.

Response to be made by a clerk privately:

May the grace of the Holy Ghost illuminate thy heart and thy lips, that the Lord may deign to accept this sacrifice of praise at thy hands, for our sins and offences.

In masses for the dead, after he has washed his hands, the priest with hands joined in the midst of the Altar and facing the Altar, shall begin to say:

We offer to thee, O Lord, sacrifices and prayers.

And the quire shall chant in reply:

Do thou receive them for those souls whose memory we keep this day; make them, O Lord, to pass from death unto life.

And meanwhile the priest shall say:

In the spirit of humility.

Then shall he say forthwith, turning to the people, in a low voice:

Brethren and sisters, pray for the faithful departed.

Response to be sung by a clerk:

Grant them, O Lord, eternal rest, and let perpetual light shine upon them, which thou didst promise to Abraham and to his seed of old.¹

It is to be noted that the words “We offer to thee, O Lord,” etc., with the verse “Grant them eternal rest,” etc., and “Which thou didst promise . . . of old,” etc. are to be said in all masses for the dead when the body is present, and in all anniversaries and trentals; but at other masses for the dead they are not to be said, nor on All Souls’ day.

Then returning to the Altar, the priest shall say the Secrets,

in number and order corresponding to the Collects said before the Epistle, commencing thus:

Let us pray.

This done, the priest shall say with a loud voice [at the end], "World without end"; not raising his hands till he come to the words "Lift up your hearts." Then shall the subdeacon take the offertory-veil and the paten from the hand of the deacon, and give the paten covered with the offertory-veil to the acolyte to hold until Our Father, etc., is said, the acolyte standing the while on the step behind the deacon. This order is to be observed at every mass which is celebrated at the high altar throughout the whole year, except only in masses for the dead. Nevertheless it shall be observed on All Souls' day.

Here follow the Prefaces. First of all, the Preface for Christmas Day. This Preface is said at all masses on Christmas Day, and daily throughout the week, and on the day of the Circumcision; and at all masses of St. Mary, from this day until the Purification, and also on the day of the Purification itself. It is also to be said at masses of Corpus Christi, and on the feast of Corpus Christi, and on its octave, and within the octave, when the service is of that feast, and in commemorations of the same. But "In communion with," etc., is said only up to the Circumcision, and on the day of the Circumcision.

. . . everlasting God. Because by the mystery of the incarnate Word the new light of thy brightness hath shone upon the eyes of our mind, so that while we acknowledge him to be God visibly, we may by him be caught up into the love of things invisible. And therefore with Angels, etc.

Note, that within the Canon, at the first mass in the night of Christmas Day, the words to be used are "In communion with and celebrating the most holy night," etc., whereas at all other masses the words are "the most holy day," etc.

1 Offertorium.  2 Autenticum altare.
Within the Canon.

In communion with and celebrating the most holy day on which the immaculate virginity of the blessed Mary, brought forth a Saviour for this world; and reverencing etc.

The following Preface is said on the day of the Epiphany, and throughout its octave, and on the octave day thereof; and “In communion with” etc., is said in a similar way.

. . . everlasting God. Because when thy only-begotten One appeared in substance of our flesh, he restored us into the new light of his immortality. And therefore with angels etc.

Within the Canon.

In communion with and celebrating the most holy day, on which thy only-begotten One, co-eternal with thee in thy glory, was visibly made manifest in the body in the verity of our flesh; and reverencing etc.

The following Preface is said on Ash Wednesday, and at every mass of the fast from that day till Maundy Thursday, Sundays excepted.

. . . everlasting God. Who by the fasting of the body restrainest vice, liftest up the understanding, bestowest virtue and its rewards, Through Christ our Lord, By whom etc.

Note, that on Sundays throughout Lent, and on Maundy Thursday the ferial Preface is said.

On Maundy Thursday the following are also said:

Within the Canon.

In communion with and celebrating the most holy day, in which our Lord Jesus Christ was betrayed for us; and reverencing etc.
Also,

This oblation, therefore, of our service, and that of thy whole family, which we offer unto thee because of the day on which our Lord Jesus Christ delivered unto his disciples the celebration of the mystery of his body and blood, We beseech thee, O Lord, etc.

Also,

Who the day before he suffered for our salvation, and for that of all men, that is, to-day took bread into his holy and adorable hands, and lifting up his eyes to heaven unto thee his God and Father, etc.

The following Preface is said on [Easter Even] Easter Day, and throughout the whole week, up to Ascension Day, whenever the mass is of the Sunday or of Easter. On Easter Even only, the words in the Preface are “But most chiefly on this night”; at every other time “But most chiefly on this day”; but “In communion with,” etc., and “This oblation, therefore,” etc., are only said throughout Easter week, and on the octave of Easter. In the former, the expression “the most holy night” will be employed on Easter Even only; on Easter Day, and at other times the expression will be “the most holy day.”

... everlasting God. And thee indeed at all seasons, but most chiefly on this day ought we to praise more gloriously, since Christ our Passover is sacrificed for us. For he is the very lamb which hath taken away the sins of the world, who by his death hath destroyed death, and by his rising again hath restored life [to us]. And therefore with angels, etc.

Within the Canon.

In communion with and celebrating the most holy day (or most holy night) of the resurrection of our Lord Jesus Christ according to the flesh; and reverencing etc.
Also,

This oblation, therefore, of our service, and that of thy whole family which we offer unto thee, on behalf of those also whom thou hast deigned to regenerate by water and the Holy Ghost, granting unto them the remission of all their sins, We beseech thee, O Lord, etc.

The following Preface is said on Ascension Day, and throughout the octave, and on the octave, and on the Sunday within the octave, when the mass is of the Sunday; also the “In communion with” etc.

. . . everlasting God. Through Christ our Lord Who after his resurrection manifestly appeared to all his disciples, and in their sight was taken up into heaven that he might make us partakers of his divinity. And therefore with angels, etc.

Within the Canon.

The following Preface is said on Whitsunday and throughout the week and at all masses of the Holy Ghost. “In communion with” etc., and “This oblation, therefore,” etc., are saia only on Whitsunday, and from that day onward till Trinity Sunday.

. . . everlasting God. Through Christ our Lord, Who ascending above all heavens, and sitting at thy right hand, shed forth to-day the promised Holy Ghost on the children of adoption. Wherefore the whole world rejoiceth with exceeding joy and both the heavenly hosts and the angelic powers unite in hymning thy glory, ever-more saying,
Within the Canon.

In communion with and celebrating the most holy day of Pentecost, on which the Holy Ghost appeared to the apostles in likeness of fiery tongues, and reverencing etc.

Also,

This oblation, therefore, of our service and that of thy whole family, which we offer unto thee on behalf of those also, whom thou hast deigned to regenerate by water and the Holy Ghost, granting unto them forgiveness of all their sins, We beseech thee, O Lord, etc.

The following Preface is said on Trinity Sunday, and on all the Sundays following up to Advent, when the mass is of the Sunday, although it is said in chapter;¹ and on all commemorations of the Holy Trinity throughout the year, and at every nuptial mass.

... everlasting God. Who with thy only-begotten Son and the Holy Ghost art one God, art one Lord, not one only Person, but three Persons in one substance. For that which we believe of thy glory, which thou hast revealed, the same do we think of thy Son, and of the Holy Ghost, without any difference or inequality; that in the confession of a true and everlasting Godhead, both distinction in Persons, and unity in essence, and equality in majesty might be adored. Which Angels and Archangels praise, Cherubin also and Seraphin, who cease not to cry with one voice, saying:

The following Preface is said on all feasts of apostles and evangelists and through the octaves of the apostles Peter and Paul, and Andrew, when the mass is of the octave; except on the feast of saint John, apostle and evangelist, in Christmas week. It shall be said however on the octave of that feast, and on his feast in Easter-tide.²

And therefore with angels, etc.

The following Preface is said on both feasts of the Holy Cross, and on commemorations thereof throughout the whole year.

... everlasting God. Who hast established the salvation of mankind by the wood of the cross, that so whence death arose, from thence life might arise again, and that he who by a tree had gained a victory might by a tree be also overcome. Through Christ our Lord. By whom, etc.

The following Preface is said on every feast of the blessed Virgin Mary, except on her Purification. _all Prefaces at Mass, throughout the whole year, both on ferial and festal days, shall be begun in the following manner_: . . . world without end. Amen.

_then the priest shall raise his hands, saying:_

V. The Lord be with you.

R. And with thy spirit.

V. Lift up your hearts.

R. We lift them up unto the Lord.

V. Let us give thanks unto our Lord God.

R. It is meet and right so to do.

The following is the ferial Preface, and it is said daily, except on feasts, and throughout the octaves of feasts, for which proper Prefaces are assigned; provided that all Prefaces throughout the whole year, whether proper or otherwise, both on ferial days and feasts, are said under this one tone according to the use of the Church of Sarum.

[ii] Ferial Preface.

It is very meet and just, right and available for our salvation,1 that we should at all times and in all places give thanks unto thee, O Lord, holy Father, almighty everlasting God.

Through Christ our Lord. By whom angels praise thy majesty, dominions adore, powers tremble, the heavens, and the heavenly hosts, and the blessed Seraphin unite in one glad voice in extolling thee. Together with whom, we pray thee, that thou wouldest command that our voices should have entrance, humbly confessing thee and saying:

Here followeth the Sanctus.

While the priest is saying the Sanctus he shall raise his arms slightly, and join his hands as far as the words "In the name of the Lord." At that point he shall always sign himself on his face.

Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God of Hosts; heaven and earth are full of thy glory. Osanna in the highest. Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord. Osanna in the highest.

When the service of St. Mary is said for the last time before Advent, and before Septuagesima, and on the octaves of the Visitation, Assumption, and Nativity of blessed Mary, then the words shall run thus:

Blessed be the son of Mary that cometh etc.

Then immediately, with hands joined and eyes raised, the priest shall begin "Therefore, O most merciful Father," etc., inclining his body until he come to the words "and entreat."
Canon of the Mass.

Here followeth the Canon.

Therefore, O most merciful Father, we humbly pray thee, through Jesus Christ thy Son our Lord,

The priest shall incline his body until he say, and entreat thee

Here the priest shall raise himself and shall kiss the altar on the right of the sacrifice, saying:
to accept and bless

Here shall the priest make three crosses over the chalice and bread, saying:
these gifts, these presents, these holy un- spotted sacrifices,

Having made the signs over the chalice he shall raise his hands, saying thus:
which we offer to thee, in the first place, on behalf of thy holy Catholic Church, which do thou vouchsafe to keep in peace, to guard, to unite, and to govern, throughout the whole world; together with thy servants our Pope N. and our Bishop N.

That is to say, the bishop of the diocese only, and our King N.

The above persons are mentioned by name. Then shall follow:
and all who are orthodox, and who hold the catholic and apostolic faith.
Remember, O Lord, thy servants and thy handmaidens N. and N.
in praying for whom a due order dictated by charity ought to be observed. The priest prays five times: firstly, for himself; secondly, for his father and mother, that is to say both carnal and spiritual, and for his other relations; thirdly, for his special friends, parishioners and otherwise; fourthly, for all persons present; fifthly, for all Christian people; and here the priest may commend all his own friends to God. I counsel, however, that no one should pause at this point too long, both on account of possible distractions of mind, and also on account of suggestions which may be made by evil angels, as well as on account of other dangers.

and all here present, whose faith is approved, and whose devotion is known to thee; on behalf of whom we offer unto thee, or who offer unto thee this sacrifice of praise, for themselves and for all pertaining to them, for the redemption of their souls, for the hope of their own salvation and security, and who are paying their vows unto thee, the eternal, living, and true God.

In communion with and reverencing the memory, in the first place, of the glorious and ever virgin inclining a little as he says,

Mary, mother of our God and Lord Jesus Christ; As also of thy blessed apostles and martyrs—Peter, Paul, Andrew, James, John, Thomas, James, Philip, Bartholomew, Matthew, Simon, and Thaddæus, Linus, Cletus, Clement, Sixtus, Cornelius, Cyprian.

1 Parentibus. A late Latin word in this sense.
2 An addition not found in many editions.
3 “Vel,” originally a rubric which has crept into the text.
4 It will be noticed that while Judas Iscariot is naturally omitted from this list of the twelve Apostles; St. Paul, and not St. Matthias, takes his place, and is named next to St. Peter.
Laurence, Chrysogonus, John and Paul, Cosmas and Damian, and of all thy saints; through whose merits and prayers do thou grant that in all things we may be defended by the aid of thy protection. Through the same Christ our Lord. Amen.

Here the priest shall regard the host with great veneration, saying:

We beseech thee, therefore, O Lord, graciously to accept this oblation of our service, and of thy whole family, and to dispose our days in thy peace, bidding us to be delivered from eternal damnation, and to be numbered among the flock of thine elect. Through Christ our Lord. Amen.

Here let him regard the host again, saying:

Which oblation, we beseech thee, O almighty God, that thou wouldest vouchsafe in all respects

Here he shall make three crosses over each [oblation], while he says, to ble+ss, ap+prove, rati+fy, and make reasonable and acceptable, that it may become to us

Here he shall make a cross over the bread, saying, the bo+dy

And here over the chalice, and the blo+od

And joining his hands he shall say, of thy most dearly beloved Son our Lord Jesus Christ.

Here shall the priest raise and join his hands, and afterwards wipe his fingers, and elevate the host;\(^1\) saying,

\(^1\) This elevation of the host before consecration is a peculiarity of the Anglican ritual (Sarum, York, and Hereford Uses)—see Simmons, T. F., Lay Folks Mass Book, London, 1879, p. 283.
Who on the day before he suffered took bread into his holy and adorable hands, and lifting up his eyes to heaven,

Here shall he raise his eyes,
to thee, O God, his almighty Father,

Here shall he incline, and afterwards raise himself a little,
saying,
gave thanks to thee, bles+sed it, brake it,

Here shall he touch the host, saying, and gave it to his disciples, saying, Take, and eat ye all of this. For this is my body.

These words ought to be said in one breath, and one utterance, without the interposition of any pause. After these words the priest should incline to the host, and afterwards elevate it above his forehead, so that it can be seen by the people, and then reverently replace it before the chalice, making the form of a cross therewith. Then he shall uncover the chalice, and hold it between his hands, not disjoining the thumb from the forefinger, except only when he makes the benedictions, saying thus:

Likewise, after supper, taking this most excellent chalice into his holy and adorable hands, and giving thanks to thee,

Here he shall incline, saying, he bles+sed it, and gave it to his disciples, saying, Take and drink ye all of this,

Here shall the priest elevate the chalice a little, saying thus:

For this is the cup of my blood of the new and everlasting testament, the mystery of faith, which shall be shed¹ for you and for many for the remission of sins.

Here he shall elevate the chalice as high as his chest, or above his head, saying,

As oft as ye shall do these things, ye shall do them in remembrance of me.¹

Here he shall replace the chalice, and rub his fingers over it, in case of any crumbs, and cover the chalice. Then he shall raise his arms in the form of a cross, with his fingers joined until the words "of thy gifts and bounties."

Wherefore also, O Lord, we thy servants, together with thy holy people, calling to mind both the blessed passion of the same Christ, thy Son, our Lord God, and also his resurrection from the dead, together with his glorious ascension into heaven, offer to thy most excellent majesty of thy gifts and bounties,

Here five crosses shall be made, the first three crosses over the host and chalice, at the words patriarch Abraham, and the holy sacrifice, the pure oblation, which thy high priest Melchisedech offered unto thee.

Here shall the priest incline his body and cross his hands, while he says, "We humbly beseech thee" as far as the words, "by partaking at this Altar." And then he shall raise himself, kissing the Altar on the right of the sacrifice, and shall make the sign of the cross over the host, and over the chalice, and on his face, while he says the words "all heavenly benediction."

We humbly beseech thee, almighty God, command these [gifts] to be borne by the hands of thy holy angel to thy altar on high, in the presence of thy divine majesty, that as many of us

Here shall he pray for the dead.

Remember also, O Lord, [the souls of] thy servants and handmaidens N. and N., who have gone before us with the sign of faith, and sleep the sleep of peace; to them, O Lord, and to all who rest in Christ, we pray thee that thou wouldest grant a place of refreshment, light and peace. Through the same Christ our Lord. Amen.

Here shall he strike his breast once, saying,

To us, also, thy sinful servants, who hope in the multitude of thy mercies, vouchsafe to grant some part and fellowship with thy holy apostles and martyrs, with John, Stephen, Matthias, Barnabas, Ignatius, Alexander, Marcellinus, Peter, Felicitas, Perpetua, Agatha, Lucy, Agnes, Cæcilia, Anastasia, and with all thy saints, into whose company do thou admit us, we beseech thee, not weighing our merits, but pardoning our offences. Through Christ our Lord.

"Amen" is not said here.

By whom, O Lord, thou ever createst,

Here the priest shall make the sign of the cross over the chalice thrice, saying, sancti + fiest, quick + enest, bles + sest, and bestowest upon us all these good things.

Here let the priest uncover the chalice, and make the sign of the cross [over it] five times with the host: firstly, beyond the chalice, on either side; secondly, level with the chalice; thirdly, below the chalice; fourthly, as firstly; fifthly, before the chalice.

Through + him, and with + him, and in + him, all honour and glory are unto thee, God the Father al + mighty, in the unity of the Holy + Ghost.

Here the priest shall cover the chalice, and keep his hands upon the Altar until “Our Father” etc., is said, saying thus,

For ever and ever. Amen.

Let us pray.
Admonished by saving precepts, and directed by divine institution, we are bold to say,

Here shall the deacon receive the paten, and hold it up uncovered, with his arm extended on high, on the right-hand side of the priest; until the words “Graciously give peace in our days” etc. Then shall the priest raise his hands, and say,

Our Father, which art in heaven, hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread; and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation,

The quire shall say,

But deliver us from evil.

The priest adding privately,

Amen.

Deliver us, we beseech thee, O Lord, from all evils, past, present, and future, and at the intercession of the blessed, and glorious, and ever-virgin Mary, mother of God, and of thy blessed apostles, Peter, and Paul, and Andrew, with all saints,

Here the deacon shall give the paten to the priest, kissing his hand; and the priest shall kiss the paten; afterwards he shall place it before his left eye, and then before his right eye; after which he shall make the sign of the cross with the paten over his head, and then he shall replace it in position, saying:

Graciously give peace in our days, that aided by the help of thy lovingkindness, we may both be ever free from sin, and secure from all disquietude.

Here he shall uncover the chalice, and take the body with an inclination, placing it over the bowl of the chalice, holding it between his thumbs and forefingers, and breaking it into three portions, saying at the first fraction,

Through the same our Lord Jesus Christ thy Son,

At the second fraction,

Who liveth and reigneth with thee in the unity of the Holy Ghost, God,

Here he shall hold the two broken portions in his left hand, and the third broken portion in his right hand on the top of the chalice, and shall say in a loud voice,

For ever and ever.

The quire answering,

Amen.

Here he shall make three crosses inside the chalice with the third portion of the host, saying,¹

The peace of the Lord + be with y + ou al + ways.

The quire replying,

And with thy spirit.

At the saying of “Agnus Dei,” the deacon and the subdeacon shall approach the priest, both of them on his right side, the deacon being the nearer, and the subdeacon the more remote, and shall say privately,

O Lamb of God, that takest away the sins of the world: have mercy upon us.

O Lamb of God, that takest away the sins of the world: have mercy upon us.

O Lamb of God, that takest away the sins of the world: grant us thy peace.

In masses for the dead it is said thus,

O Lamb of God, that takest away the sins of the world:

grant them rest.

with the addition of “eternal” [before “rest”] in the third repetition thereof.

Here, making the sign of the cross, he shall place the afore-said third portion of the host in the sacrament of the blood, saying thus:

Let this most + holy commixture of the body and blood of our Lord Jesus Christ be to me and to all who receive it health of mind and body, and a salutary preparation for worthily attaining unto eternal life. Through the same Christ our Lord. Amen.

Before the pax is given, the priest shall say:

O Lord, holy Father, almighty everlasting God, grant me so worthily to receive this most holy body and blood of thy Son our Lord Jesus Christ, that I may thereby be found fit to obtain remission of all my sins, and to be filled with thy Holy Spirit, and to have thy peace; because thou art God alone, and there is none other beside thee, whose kingdom and glorious dominion abideth for ever, world without end. ¹ Amen.

Here the priest shall kiss the corporals on the right side, and the top of the chalice, and afterwards the deacon, saying:

V. Peace be to thee and to the Church of God.

R. And with thy spirit.

The deacon on the right side of the priest shall receive the pax from him, and shall hand it to the subdeacon. Then the deacon himself shall carry the pax to the rulers of the quire at the step of the quire, and they shall carry the pax to the quire, each to his own side, beginning with the seniors. But on feasts and week-days, when the quire is not ruled, the pax shall be carried from the deacon to the quire, by the two end members of the second rank; the rest as before.

After the pax has been given, the priest shall say the following prayers privately, before he communicates himself, holding the host in both hands:

O God the Father, fount and source of all goodness, who, moved by thy lovingkindness, hast willed that thine Only-begotten One should descend to this lower world for our sakes, and take flesh, which I unworthy here hold in my hands,

Here the priest shall incline towards the host, saying:

I adore thee, I glorify thee, I laud thee with the whole intention of my mind and heart, and I beseech thee that thou wouldest not forsake us thy servants, but that thou wouldest forgive our sins; that so we may be enabled to serve thee, the only living and true God, through the same Christ our Lord. Amen.

O Lord Jesu Christ, Son of the living God, who by the will of the Father and the co-operation of the Holy Ghost, hast given life to the world by thy death; deliver me, I beseech thee, by this thy most holy body and blood, from all my iniquities, and from every ill; and make me ever obedient to thy commandments, and suffer me not to be for ever separated from thee, O Saviour of the world.¹ Who with God the Father, and the Let not the sacrament of thy body and blood, O Lord Jesu Christ, which I although unworthy receive, be unto me for judgment and condemnation, but may it through thy goodness be profitable to my salvation both in body and soul. Amen.

Then shall he humbly say to the body before he receives it:

Hail for evermore, most holy flesh of Christ, to me before all things and above all things the greatest sweetness.

May the body of our Lord Jesus Christ be to me a sinner the way and the life.

In the na+me of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

Here he shall receive the body, having first made a cross with the body before his mouth.

Then let him [look] at the blood with great devotion, saying, person in the Trinity is likewise almost a certain sign of Gallican or Mozarabic origin.

1 cum humiliatione. Perhaps, with an act of prostration.

2 This is a Mozarabic salutation. Hammond (C. E.), Litt. E. and W., Oxford, 1878, p. 351.

3 Ibid., p. 353.
I give thanks unto thee, O Lord, holy Father, almighty everlasting God, who hast refreshed me with the most holy body and blood of thy Son our Lord Jesus Christ; and I pray that this sacrament of our salvation, which I, an unworthy sinner, have received, may not turn to my judgment or condemnation, according to my deserts; but to the preservation of my body and soul unto eternal life. Amen.

After this has been said, the priest shall go to the right side of the altar with the chalice between his hands, and his fingers still joined as before; and the subdeacon shall approach and pour wine and water into the chalice; and the priest shall rinse his hands, lest any relics of the body or blood remain on his fingers, or in the chalice.

When, however, any priest has to celebrate twice on one day, then at the first mass he ought not to take any ablution, but to place it in the aumbry, or in a clean vessel until the end of the second mass, when both ablutions should be taken together.

After the first ablution this prayer is said:

What we have partaken of with our mouth, O Lord, may we receive with a pure heart, and from a temporal gift may it be made to us an everlasting remedy.

Here he shall wash his fingers in the bowl of the chalice with wine poured in by the subdeacon, and after it has been drunk this prayer shall follow.

Let this communion, O Lord, cleanse us from sin, and make us to be partakers of heavenly healing.

After receiving the ablution, the priest shall place the chalice on the paten, so that if anything remain [in the former] it may drain off [on to the latter]. And afterwards, inclining himself, he shall say,
Let us adore the sign of the cross: whereby we have received the sacrament of salvation.

Then the priest shall wash his hands, the deacon in the meanwhile folding the corporals. After the priest has washed his hands, and returned to the right side of the Altar, the deacon shall hold the chalice to the mouth of the priest, for him to drink, if there remain anything therein to be consumed. Afterwards the priest shall say the Communion with his ministers; then making the sign of the cross on his face, he shall turn to the people, and slightly raising his arms, and joining his hands, he shall say:

The Lord be with you.

And again returning to the altar, he shall say,

Let us pray.

Then he shall say the Postcommunion, after the same number and order as the Collects said before the Epistle. When he has finished the last Postcommunion, and has made the sign of the cross upon his forehead, the priest shall turn himself again to the people, and shall say:

The Lord be with you.

Then shall the deacon say,

Let us bless the Lord.

But at other times the words used are,

Depart, the mass is finished.

Whenever “Depart, the mass is finished” is said, it is always said turning to the people, and whenever “Let us bless the Lord” or “May they rest in peace” is to be said, it is said turning to the altar. When these have been said, the priest, inclining his body and joining his hands, standing in the midst before the altar, shall say this Collect, silently.

Ite, missa est.” The exact translation is uncertain. It may be, “Depart, the congregation is dismissed.”
Let the obedient performance of my bounden duty be pleasing unto thee, O Holy Trinity, and grant that this sacrifice, which I unworthy have offered in the presence of thy majesty, may be acceptable unto thee, and through thy mercy may be a propitiation for myself, and for all for whom I have offered it. Who livest and reignest God world without end. Amen.

This [Collect] ended, the priest shall raise himself, and, making the sign of the cross on his face, shall say:

In the name of the Father etc.

And so, after making an inclination [the clergy] shall retire, with the candlebearer[s] and the other ministers, in the same order, and so vested, as they approached the altar at the beginning of mass.

And immediately after "Thanks be to God," None shall be said in the quire, when it is said after mass.

While returning [from the altar], the priest shall say the Gospel, In the beginning etc.

[THANKSGIVING AFTER MASS.]

When the priest has put off his chasuble and his other sacerdotal vestments, he shall say the following Psalms, with the Anthem "Let us sing" etc.

Psalm. O ye priests of the Lord, etc.

As far as to the end of the Canticle.²

Psalm. O praise God in his holiness, etc.³

Psalm. Lord, now lettest thou [thy servant] etc.⁴ with Glory be to the Father, etc. and As it was in the beginning, etc.

¹ St. John, i. 1-14. ² Song of the Three Children, 62-66.
³ Ps. cl. ⁴ St. Luke, ii. 29-32.
Then the whole anthem is repeated.

Let us sing the song of the three children, which they sang in the furnace of fire as a thanksgiving unto the Lord.

Lord, have mercy.
Christ, have mercy.
Lord, have mercy.

Our Father etc.

V. And lead us not into temptation
R. But deliver us from evil.
V. Let us praise the Father, and the Son, with the Holy Ghost.
R. Let us praise and magnify him for ever.
V. Blessed art thou, O Lord, in the firmament of heaven; and to be praised and glorified for ever.
R. May the Holy Trinity bless and keep us. Amen
V. Enter not into judgment with thy servant, O Lord:
R. For in thy sight shall no man living be justified.
V. Turn us, O Lord God of hosts;
R. And shew the light of thy countenance, and we shall be whole.
V. Lord, hear my prayer.
R. And let my crying come unto thee.
V. The Lord be with you.
R. And with thy spirit.

Let us pray.

Collect.

O God, who for the three children didst assuage the flames of fire, mercifully grant that we thy servants may not be consumed by the flame of our sins.

Collect.

Kindle our reins and our hearts, O Lord, with the fire of the Holy Ghost, that we may serve thee with a chaste body, and please thee with a clean heart.

1 This V. and R. are not separated in the Latin text; but their non-separation is probably accidental.
Collect.

Prevent us, O Lord, we beseech thee, in all our doings with thy favour, and further us with thy help, that all our works may be begun, continued, and ended in thee.

These three Collects are all to be concluded thus:
Through Christ our Lord. Amen.

PRAYERS IN PROSTRATION.

Be it known that at every ferial mass, prostration is to be made by the whole quire directly after the "Sanctus" up to "The peace of the Lord," throughout the whole year except from Easter to the first Sunday after Trinity.¹

Note, that from the second Sunday after the Epiphany² up to Maundy Thursday, and from the first Sunday after Trinity to Christmas Eve the following prayers are said at mass only on ferial days and on feasts of three lessons without ruling of the quire, and on octaves, and within octaves when the quire is not ruled. And they are said after "For ever and ever" and "Our Father etc." between "For ever and ever" and "The peace of the Lord etc." After the priest has said "For ever and ever" and the quire has responded "Amen," the Prayers in prostration shall be immediately begun by the quire in this manner.

Psalm.

O God, the heathen are come into thy inheritance,³ with Glory be to the Father, etc.

Psalm.

God be merciful unto us, and bless us,⁴ with Glory be to the Father, etc.

¹ Called "Deus Omnium" from the opening words of the first Respond after the first Lesson in the first Nocturn at Matins. This rubric may throw light upon the duration of Easter-tide.
² Called "Domine ne in ira" for the same reason.
³ Ps. lxxix.
⁴ Ps. lxvii.
Psalm.

The king shall rejoice in thy strength, O Lord, etc.; with Glory be to the Father, etc.

Anthem.

Thine is the power, thine the kingdom, O Lord; thou art above all nations; give peace, O Lord, in our time.

Lord, have mercy.

Christ, have mercy.

Lord, have mercy.

Our Father, etc.

All the above are said without inflection of voice both by the clerks in the quire, and by the priest with his ministers.

Then shall the priest say with inflection:

V. And lead us not into temptation,
R. But deliver [us from evil].

V. Let God arise and let his enemies be scattered.
R. Let them also that hate him flee before him.

V. Not unto us, O Lord, not unto us.
R. But unto thy name give the praise.

V. Let us pray for those in affliction and captivity.

R. Deliver Israel, O God, out of all his troubles.

V. Send unto them, O Lord, help from the holy place,

R. And defend them out of Sion.

V. Be unto them, O Lord, a strong tower.

R. From the face of their enemy.

V. O Lord, save the king.

R. And hear us in the day in which we call upon thee.

V. Lord, hear my prayer,
R. And let my crying come unto thee.

Collect.

O God, who in thy wonderful providence orderest all things, we humbly beseech thee that thou wouldest restore back to Christian worship, out of the hands of the enemies of the cross of Christ, the land which thy Only-begotten Son consecrated with his own blood; mercifully directing the prayers of the faithful who plead for its liberation into the way of eternal peace. [Through etc.]

Collect.

Guide, we beseech thee, O Lord, thy servant our bishop, and through the intercession of the blessed mother of God, the ever virgin Mary, and that of all thy saints, multiply the gifts of thy grace in him, that he may be delivered from all offences, and that being not without thy help in this world, he may rejoice in the ordinances of life everlasting. [Through etc.]

Collect.

Grant, we beseech thee, Almighty God, unto thy servant our king health both of mind and body; that by ministering in good works he may ever deserve to be defended by thy strong protection. Through the same Christ our Lord. Amen.

Then shall follow:

The peace of the Lord be with you always.

2 Here follow 27 various ways of intoning "Ite missa est" or "Benedicamus Domino"; and one way of intoning "Requiescant in pace. Amen." in masses for the dead, with musical notes, which have not been reproduced here.
PRAYERS TO BE SAID AFTER MASS.

Prayer to be said by the priest after mass.

Almighty and everlasting God, saviour of souls, and redeemer of the world, most graciously look upon me thy servant prostrate before thy majesty; and of thy great lovingkindness behold this sacrifice, which in honour of thy name I have offered for the salvation of the faithful both quick and dead, and also for our sins and offences. Put away thine anger from me, grant me thy grace and mercy, open unto me the door of paradise, and deliver me by thy might from all evils; whatsoever guilt I have personally committed do thou pardon; and make me so to persevere in thy commandments in this world, that I may be found worthy to be joined to the flock of thine elect. Grant this, O my God, whose blessed name, and honour, and dominion, abideth for ever and ever. Amen.

Prayer to be said by the priest after mass.

Almighty and everlasting God, Jesu Christ [our] Lord, be merciful unto my sins through the partaking of thy body and blood; for thou hast spoken, saying, Whoso eateth my flesh and drinketh my blood, dwelleth in me and I in him. Wherefore, I humbly beseech thee, to create a clean heart in me, and to renew a right spirit within me; deign to establish me with thy free spirit, and cleanse me from all the snares and vices of the devil, that I may be worthy to be a partaker of heavenly joys. Who livest etc.

Prayer to be said by the priest after mass.

I give thanks unto thee, O Lord God, Father almighty, who hast vouchsafed to feed me with the body and blood of thy beloved Son, Jesus Christ our Lord. I beseech thy boundless goodness, almighty and merciful Lord, that this holy communion may not be unto me for judgment or condemnation, but that it may be unto me an earnest of faith and a shield of good will, to cast out of my mind all the frauds of the enemy, to root out the plague of pride, the lust of appetite, and the wantonness of tongue; and that I may enter into that banquet where are the true light and the everlasting joys of the just. Also I beseech thee, O Lord, that this holy communion may be my guide and viaticum to the haven of eternal salvation. Let it be consolation unto me when I am troubled in my thoughts; most sweet delight in [every] good purpose; patience in tribulation and difficulties; medicine in sickness. Through these most holy mysteries which I have received, grant unto me a right faith, a firm hope, and a perfect charity; renunciation of the world, purification of desire, sweet contentment of mind, ardent love of thee, remembrance of the passing of thy dear Son, and bowels of compassion; let it fulfill my life with virtue, and preserve it in thy praise and faith unfeigned; and grant that in the hour of my departure I may receive the grace of so great a mystery with true faith, firm hope, and sincere charity, so that I may behold thee for ever. Amen.'

What thou doest at Christ's table,
   Presbyter, think well;
Life eternal is prepared
   There for thee, or hell.

As the sacred taper burning
   Dwindles in its size,
So the presbyter, if guilty,
   Celebrating, dies.

Think of these—the death of Jesus,
   Thine own death as well,
Earth's deceptions, heaven's glories,
   And the pains of hell.

MASS IN REMEMBRANCE OF THE FEASTS OF THE BLESSED VIRGIN MARY.

Office.

Let us all rejoice in the Lord, celebrating this festal day in honour of the virgin Mary; in whose festivals angels rejoice, and together praise the Son of God.

Ps. My heart is inditing of a good matter: I speak of the things which I have made unto the King.¹

Glory be to the Father, etc.

Collect.

O God, who causest us to rejoice in recalling the joys of the conception, the nativity, the annunciation, the visitation, the purification, and the assumption of the blessed and glorious virgin Mary; grant to us so worthily to devote ourselves to her praise and service, that we may be conscious of her presence and assistance in all our necessities and straits, and especially in the hour of death, and that after death we may be found worthy, through her and in her, to rejoice in heaven with thee. Through etc.

Lesson. Song of Sol. ii. 13, 14; iv. 1, 2, 7, 8, 9, 11.

Gradual.

Thou shalt shine in glorious light, and all the ends of the world shall worship thee.

The nations from afar shall come to thee bearing gifts, and shall in thee adore the Lord, and shall account thy land holiness.

Alleluya. Blessed are all they that love thee, O virgin, and who rejoice in thy peace; blessed be the Lord who hath exalted thee, and hath set his dominion upon thee for ever and ever.

Sequence.

No messenger mean to the barren is sent, but an angel of might most refulgent in light from the lover of men.

She wonders, believes,
and in joy she conceives,
the blest mother of God,
whom exulting she bore,
most beloved of all.

The most excellent maid in seclusion abides, serving God in her heart,
sweetly singing apart,
born a blessing to man.

Her mind's pious intent with a vow she confirmed, angels associate best befit her estate who came us to restore.

From the city above
the archangel he sends;
to the message of love
the Maid meekly attends, believes and conceives.

Then the virgin with child rises up in her haste;
he whom none can declare doth the barren who bare his forerunner salute.

Undefiled she brought forth the redeemer of earth;
vast advantage to men,
angel-heralded birth—
to the vanquished a palm.
In her meekness the babe unto God she presents, and the gift offers there which the law bade prepare, while Symeon stood by.

Mistress she of the world in assumption is seen beyond angels to shine—
of the heavens the queen, favoured mother of God.

There the Son sets her down with himself on his throne, and the virginal crown to the glory of God
Deigns to put on her head.

These most marvellous acts
we thy people recite;
to thee sing in our hearts
in thy praises unite, whom the fatherless love.

O then for us obtain pardon, mother benign!
let our guilt melt away,
let that city divine be our dwelling for aye.  Amen.

mighty hath done to thee great things; and holy is his name.¹

Secret.

O Lord Jesu Christ, from whom all holy thoughts do come; who hast taught thy servants to honour thy glorious mother; mercifully grant us so to celebrate her on earth with the solemn sacrifice of praise and with due devotion, that by her intercession we may be found worthy to reign in joy in heaven. Who livest etc.

Preface of the blessed Virgin Mary.

Communion.

Bless the God of heaven with fear, and rejoice before him with trembling; for he hath shewed his mercy upon us, since he hath willed that his mother should be an advocate for us in heaven.

Postcommunion.

Grant, we beseech thee, almighty God, that we may keep with an immaculate heart the sacrament which we have received in honour of the blessed virgin mother Mary; so that we who celebrate her feast now, may be found worthy when we have left this life to pass into her company. Through etc.

1 Ipsius apparently a misprint for "ipsam."
3 Here follow lengthy "cautela: missae" or directions for the priest, referring to his preparation and conduct; and to various possible emergencies and accidents at Mass. They are not translated and reproduced here.
[The Proper of Seasons.]

FIRST SUNDAY IN ADVENT.

At Mass: Office.

Unto thee, O Lord, will I lift up my soul; my God, I have put my trust in thee: O let me not be confounded, neither let mine enemies triumph over me.\(^1\)

Ps. Shew me thy ways, O Lord: and teach me thy paths.\(^2\)

The Office shall be repeated, that is to say, Unto thee, O Lord, will I lift up etc. and afterwards there shall be said, Glory be to the Father, etc. and As it was etc. After this has been said, the Office shall be repeated again as before. And thus shall it be done throughout the whole year, as well on Sundays as on holy-days with ruling of the quire, and in all masses of saint Mary; except on Passion Sunday, and from that day till Maundy Thursday, at the mass of the season only. Then, after the Psalm the Office shall be repeated without Glory be to the Father etc.

"Kyrie eleison" shall follow.

"Gloria in excelsis" is not said throughout the whole of Advent, whatever the mass may be; nor from Septuagesima to the vigil of Easter.

When this has been done, and when the priest has made the sign of the cross on his face, he shall turn to the people, and slightly elevating his arms, and joining his hands, shall say thus, The Lord be with you. And the Quire shall answer, And with thy spirit, under the same tone, and the priest shall again turn to the altar, and say, Let us pray.

And whenever "The Lord be with you" is said at mass, it is always said under the same tone, as likewise "Let us pray," except in Prefaces, and except in a Nuptial mass, when the blessing is given over the bridegroom and bride before

\(^1\) Ps. xxv. 1.

\(^2\) Ib. 3.
“The peace of the Lord.” For then the words are said thus “The Lord be with you.” “Let us pray” “For ever and ever”. The reply is made “Amen,” and in similar cases with a like ending.

Then the following Collect shall be said:

Stir up, we beseech thee, O Lord thy power, and come; that we may be found worthy to be rescued by thy protection from the threatening dangers of our sins, and to be set free by thy deliverance. Who livest and reignest with God the Father in the unity of the Holy Spirit, God for ever and ever. Amen.

Again the priest shall say “Let us pray” as above.

Memory of saint Mary. Collect.

O God, who wast pleased that thy Word etc. as below.

And whatever mass is said there shall always be a memory of saint Mary till the vigil of Christmas Day. But when the mass is of any saint, even if it be a double feast, or when the mass “I am the salvation of the people etc.” is said, then there shall be a memory both of Advent and of saint Mary.

Note, that on all Sundays, and on feasts with ruling of the quire throughout the whole year this direction is to be generally observed, that as many Collects should be said at mass as were said at matins; except on Christmas Day; yet in such wise that an uneven number of Collects should always be preserved at mass save only in Christmas week. For if two or four Collects are for use, then a third or fifth Collect of all saints shall be introduced, to wit: Grant we beseech thee, almighty God, that the intercession of the holy mother of God etc. and this throughout the whole year, throughout Advent as well as in the Paschal season. Nevertheless, when

1 See Collect for the Annunciation of the B. V. M., March 25, in the Proper of Saints.
2 The votive mass generally known by the opening words of its Office “Salus populi,” assigned to Tuesday.
3 This Collect will be found among the Common Memories near the end of the Votive Masses, under the heading, “Of all Saints throughout the Year.”
mass is said on a feast day in chapter, if there is a memory of any saint appointed for use, memories also of other saints are said at the same mass at discretion. But if it be a Sunday mass which is said in chapter, then there shall be at the same mass of the Sunday a memory of the Trinity; but the other memories are to be said at high mass. But on Sundays, and on feasts with ruling of the quire from Easter to our Lord's Ascension, when Sundays occur on them, there should be no memory at the Sunday mass.

Besides, on all feasts of nine lessons, which occur on Ember Days, or on vigils, or throughout the whole of Lent, there shall be no memory of the fast at the mass of the feast. For after the mass of the feast, there should be a solemn mass of the fast, both of them at the high altar.

But on ferial days, and on feasts without ruling of the quire, and from the second Sunday after the Epiphany to the first Sunday in Lent, and from the first Sunday after Trinity to Advent, five Collects are wont to be said at mass; namely, the first the Collect of the day; the second the Collect of saint Mary; the third the Collect of all saints (viz., Grant, we beseech thee, almighty God, etc., and this same Collect of all saints is said throughout Advent as well as in Easter-tide, and also generally throughout the whole year); the fourth the Collect for the Church universal, viz., Mercifully receive, O Lord, the prayers of thy Church, etc.; the fifth, the Collect for peace, viz., O God, from whom all holy desires, etc.

On the octave of saint Andrew, or when the mass I am the salvation of the people is said, then the second Collect will be that of Advent; the third that of saint Mary; the fourth that of all saints; the fifth that for the Church universal.

Also on ferial days, and on feasts without ruling of the quire, and when the mass I am the salvation of the people is said, from the octave of the Epiphany to Ash Wednesday, five Collects are said, of which the first is that of the day; the second is that of saint Mary (viz., O God who by the fruitful virginity, etc., up to the Purification; but after the Purification the Collect, Grant, we beseech thee, O Lord God, that we, etc.); the third is that of all saints, as above; the fourth is for the Church universal; the fifth is for peace.

On Ash Wednesday, and on the three days following, these five Collects are said at the Mass of the fast: the first, of the day; the second, for penitents, viz., O Lord, we beseech thee, hear the prayers, etc.; the third, of saint Mary, namely, Grant, we beseech thee, etc.; the fourth, of all saints, namely, Grant, we beseech thee, almighty God, etc.; the fifth, for the Church universal, namely, Mercifully receive, O Lord, etc. No general Collect is said till Lent.

On the Monday of the first week in Lent, and thereafter until Maundy Thursday, seven Collects are said at the mass of the fast, of which the first is of the day; the second, for penitents; the third, of saint Mary; the fourth, of all saints; the fifth, for the Church universal; the sixth, for peace; the seventh, one of the general Collects taken in order, namely, the Collect, Of thy lovingkindness, etc., or the Collect, We beseech thee, almighty God, by the merits, etc., or the Collect, We beseech thee, O Lord, through the intercessions, etc., or the Collect, Almighty, everlasting God, who rulest, etc.

Note that according to the use of Sarum more than seven Collects are never said at mass, because God only appointed seven petitions in the Lord's prayer. But on Sundays in Lent only one Collect is said, a custom which should be observed through the whole of Lent.

On ferial days, and on feasts when the quire is not ruled, and when the mass, I am the salvation of the people is said, from the octave of Easter until Ascension Day, three Collects only are said; of which the first is that of the day; the second is that of the Resurrection, namely, O God, who through thy only-begotten Son, etc.; the third being that of all saints, as above. But on Sundays, when the Sunday mass is said, there should be no memory except only when the feast of some saint occurs. Yet in summer when there is a memory of any saint on any festival of three lessons (as within an octave, or on the feast of St. Sampson, when there is a memory of St. Pantaleon, and in similar cases), then let the third Collect be that of saint Mary, the fourth Collect that of all saints, and the fifth Collect for the Church universal. Also from the First Sunday after Trinity to Advent Sunday, on ferial days, and on feasts of three lessons without ruling of the quire, and on octaves, and within octaves, when the quire is not ruled, five Collects are said, of which the first is of the day; the second, of saint Mary; the third, of all saints; the fourth, for the state of the Church; and the fifth, for peace. On the feasts of SS. Processus and Martinianus, there should be, firstly, the memory of saint Swithin; next, of the Apostles; and afterwards of saint Mary, and then of all saints. But when the mass, I am the salvation of the people, etc., is said, then the second Collect will be of saint Mary; the third, of all saints; the fourth, for the Church universal; the fifth, for peace.

On the commencement of the last Collect before the Epistle, the subdeacon shall advance through the middle of the quire to the Pulpit, to read the Epistle. And the Epistle shall be read in the Pulpit on every Sunday, and whenever the quire is ruled, throughout the whole year, and on Maundy Thursday, and on the vigils of Easter and Pentecost, and on All Souls' Day. On all other feasts and ferial days, and on vigils and on Ember Days outside the week of Pentecost, it should be read at the Step of the quire, both in Lent and out of Lent.

The Epistle. Rom. xiii. 11—14.
And that knowing the time . . \ the Lord Jesus Christ.

While the Epistle is being read, two boys in surplices, having bowed to the Altar before the Step of the quire, shall go into the Pulpit through the midst of the Quire, and make themselves ready to begin the gradual and to sing their Verse.

Gradual. For all they, etc.

The quire is to follow up the same through the whole of it up to its conclusion; and this shall be done throughout the whole year at the mass of the day, except when it is begun by the Precentor, and in masses which are said in Chapter; and in Procession, only when a Station takes place.
Gradual.

For all they that hope in thee shall not be ashamed, O Lord.

Shew me thy ways, O Lord, and teach me thy paths.¹

After this verse the quire shall repeat the Gradual.

Note, that the Gradual is to be repeated after its verse at the mass of the day throughout the whole year, except on double feasts, and except on the fifth and sixth days of Easter Week, and at the Ember Seasons after the Lesson, when the Gradual occupies a position after the [Old Testament] Lesson, and when a Tract is said. It shall also be repeated at the second mass on Christmas Day; and in a similar way on Commemorations, namely, of the Trinity, of the Holy Spirit, and in the mass of the Cross, and in the mass I am the salvation of the people, and in that of Peace, and in other Commemorations, that is to say, between Septuagesima and Easter only; and in masses of saint Mary, when a Sequence cannot be used, nor a Chant in place of a Sequence. But in daily masses of saint Mary it is sufficient that the Chant be used in the place of a Sequence, that is to say, in her Chapel.

While the Verse of the Gradual is being sung, two clerks of superior rank shall put on silk cope, and advance through the midst of the Quire to the Pulpit for the purpose of singing the Alleluya. When the Verse of the Gradual has been said, the boys shall begin the Gradual again, and it shall be sung through by the quire, as has been directed above. Then shall follow Alleluya, the quire repeating it, and following it up with the pneuma.

Clerks. ¶ Shew us thy mercy, O Lord: and grant us thy salvation.²

And it is to be finished by the quire. Then shall the clerks begin the Alleluya without the pneuma, which order shall be observed through the whole year, when the Sequence is said only. But when there is no Sequence, then the pneuma is performed by the whole quire after the repetition of Alleluya. When Alleluya is finished, the Sequence shall follow.

² Ps. lxxxv. 7.
FIRST SUNDAY IN ADVENT.

Sequence.

Thou for ever our salvation,
thou the life of all creation, thou our hope of restoration,
    thou the never-failing light;
Grieving for man's loss impending,
    by the tempter's wiles pretending, camest down thine aid extending,
    leaving not the starry height.
In our flesh thy glory veiling,
    all on earth, in ruin failing, thou didst save by might prevailing,
    bringing joy to all our race.
Grant, O Christ, thine expiation, unto us thine own creation, take us for an habitation cleansed for thyself to grace.
By thy first humiliation grant us, Lord, justification;
    when again in exaltation
    thou shalt come, O set us free.
When in glory manifested thou the secret heart hast tested, in unsullied robes invested may we closely follow thee!

On no Sunday throughout the year is a Sequence said at mass, when the service is of the sunday, except throughout Advent and in Easter-tide and on the sixth day after Christmas Day. A sequence is said on saints' days when the quire is ruled, throughout the whole year, except from Septuagesima Sunday to Easter Day, and except on feasts of many confessors, and on the feast of St. Michael in the Mountain Tomb.
But from Septuagesima up to Maundy Thursday, on Sundays and on feasts of nine lessons, a Tract is sung by four Clerks of superior rank, in red silk copes, at the step of the quire, except on the feasts of the Purification and of the Annunciation of blessed Mary. But on the first sunday in Lent and on Palm sunday the Tract shall be sung in the quire by alternate verses from side to side.

At the end of Alleluya or of the Sequence, or of the Tract, before the deacon advances to announce the Gospel, he shall cense the midst of the altar only; for the lectern should never be censed either at mass or at matins before the Gospel is announced. Then he shall take the Text, that is to say the book of the Gospels, and bowing to the priest standing before the altar, and facing east, he shall say thus without note: Bid, Sir, a blessing. The priest shall reply: The Lord be in thy heart and in thy mouth, that thou mayest announce the holy Gospel of God. In the name of the Father, etc. But if the priest is celebrating by himself, he shall say privately: Bid, Sir, a blessing, and afterwards shall say to himself: The Lord be in my heart and in my mouth, that I may announce the holy Gospel of God. In the name of the Father, etc.

And thus the deacon shall advance through the midst of the Quire, solemnly carrying the Text itself in his left hand, with thurifer and taper-bearers preceding him, to the Pulpit. And if it be a double feast the cross shall precede him, which should be on the right hand opposite to, that is facing the reader of the Gospel, the face of the figure on the Crucifix being turned toward the reader. For whenever the Epistle is read in the Pulpit, the Gospel should be read in the same place also. And when they have arrived at the place for reading, the subdeacon shall take the Text itself, and hold it in the left hand of the deacon himself, being, as it were, opposite to him, while the gospel is being read, the taper-bearers standing by the deacon, the one on his right hand, the other on his left, and turning toward him. But the thurifer shall stand behind the deacon, turning towards him. And the gospel shall always be read by a reader facing north. And if a Bishop be the Officiant, all the ministers in the quire shall come forward to sing the Sequence, when there is a Sequence, except the principal deacon and the principal subdeacon. And the deacons and subdeacons, together with the rulers of the quire, shall remain in the middle of the quire until the principal deacon returns from the pulpit through the quire, after reading the Gospel. But when he begins the Gospel, after The Lord be with you, he shall make the sign of the cross over the book, then on his forehead, and afterwards on his breast with his thumb.

And when Jesus drew nigh . . . . Hosanna in the highest.

When the Gospel has been read he shall kiss the book; and the subdeacon shall immediately approach and hand the Text to the Deacon, which the latter shall carry upright on his breast. When the Gospel is finished, the priest standing in the midst of the altar shall begin, I believe in one God. Then the Creed shall be sung by the quire, not in alternate fashion, but by the whole quire. See below.

These are the feasts on which the Creed is to be said, according to the use of Sarum. On all sundays throughout the whole year at high mass, whether the mass is of the sunday or not. But it is not said in masses of vigils and of saints of three lessons, and in masses for the dead which are said in chapter on sundays. But if the sunday mass is said in chapter, then the Creed is said. The Creed shall also be said throughout the octaves of Christmas Day, Easter, and Pentecost, and on every double feast throughout the year, and on all feasts of Apostles and Evangelists, and on both feasts of the Holy Cross, and on the feast of saint Mary Magdalene, and on both feasts of saint Michael, and at a nuptial mass. It shall also be said at the mass of saint Mary, throughout the whole year (whenever it is to be said at the mass of the day), and at the mass of any saint in whose honour the church or the altar has been dedicated, but at the altar of that same saint only.

After the Creed the Priest shall say, The Lord be with you and Let us pray.

Offertory.

Unto thee, O Lord, will I lift up my soul; my God, I have put my trust in thee: O let me not be confounded, neither let mine enemies triumph over me, for all they that hope in thee shall not be ashamed.
Lead me forth in thy truth and learn me; for thou art the God of my salvation; in thee hath been my hope all the day long.

Look upon me and have mercy upon me; O Lord, keep my soul and deliver me, because I have put my trust in thee.

These two Verses are said alternately throughout the week, when the service is of the week-day and not of the Sunday. This custom is to be observed through the whole year, whenever there are Verses attached to the Offertory. Two Verses are never said with the offertory on one week-day; nor are they said after the offertory, except on week-days in Advent, and from Septuagesima to Maundy Thursday only.

Monday.

When the mass is ferial.

At Mass.

Unto thee, O Lord etc.

Ps. Shew me thy ways etc.

Glory be to the Father, etc.

The Office Unto thee, O Lord, is to be repeated.

The Office is always said in this way at mass, when the quire is not ruled, except in Passion-tide. This mass is said through the whole week, unless a feast of nine lessons, or the octave of St. Andrew intervene; and except when the mass I am the salvation of the people is said, or any commemoration shall have to be made of a holy place, or of saint Mary. And the Sunday mass is always said with its own Alleluya, a rule to be observed throughout the whole year when Alleluya is said. Alleluya shall also be said at every mass of the day throughout the year, except from Septuagesima to the vigil of Easter, and except on vigils which fall not on a Sunday, and not in Easter-tide; except also in the ember seasons which fall outside Whitsun week.

Wednesday.

Be patient, therefore . . . of patience.

Gospel. St. Mark i. 1—8.

The beginning . . . the Holy Ghost.

If any feast, the service of which ought to be used, should fall on this Wednesday, the above epistle and gospel should be used on Thursday, if that day is vacant; otherwise, they shall be altogether omitted in that year.

Friday.

Lesson. Is. li. 1—8.

Hearken to me . . . to generation.

Gospel. St. Mat. iii. 1—6.

If, however, Friday should not be a vacant day, the above Epistle and Gospel are altogether omitted. This applies to the whole of Advent and from the first Sunday after the octave of the Epiphany to Quinquagesima, and from the octave of Easter to the Sunday next before Ascension Day. But from the first Sunday after Trinity to Advent, if Wednesday or Thursday be not vacant, then the Wednesday Epistle and Gospel shall be read upon Friday, if it be a vacant day. Otherwise they shall be altogether omitted. For the Wednesday Epistle and Gospel should never be read on Monday or Tuesday, nor should the Friday Epistle and Gospel be read on Thursday; because a service ought never to be anticipated according to the use of Sarum.

SECOND SUNDAY IN ADVENT.

The Kyrie with its verses. Then shall Gloria in Excelsis follow, after the manner of a double feast.

Note, that Gloria in Excelsis is always said at mass, when Te Deum is said at Matins, except where there shall be chanted the mass I am the Salvation of the people, or the mass of the Cross, or the mass of a Sunday on some feast of three Lessons, or within an octave, without ruling of the quire. But when any mass of a vigil or of a feast of three Lessons, is said in chapter on Sunday, then also the chant is used for the Kyrie and Gloria in Excelsis, when the Sanctus, Agnus Dei, and Ite Missa est are said, as on a feast of three Lessons. The same rule shall be observed when the sunday mass is said in chapter on Sunday, when the Creed shall also be said.

Collect.

O God, who hast caused this most holy night to shine with the illumination of the true light; grant, we beseech thee, that as we have known the mysteries of this light on earth, we may also attain to the full enjoyment of it in heaven, Who with thee etc.

Two clerks, of the second rank, in silk cope, shall chant the following lesson together in the pulpit.

I will sing praises to God for ever, who hath formed me in his right hand, and hath redeemed me on the cross with the purple blood of his Son.

Then shall there be sung in alternate sentences:
The lesson of Isaiah the prophet,¹
In which the glorious birth of Christ is foretold.
Thus saith the Lord.
Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, by whom all things have been created in heaven and in earth.
The people that walked in darkness,
Whom thou hast created; whom the enemy expelled from paradise by subtle fraud, and led captive with him to hell,
Have seen a great light,
And at midnight great light shone upon the shepherds,
On them that dwell in the region of the shadow of death, the light Everlasting, and truly our redemption,
Hath shined on them.
O marvellous birth!
For unto us a child is born,
He shall be great, Jesus, the Son of God.
And a Son,
Of the Father in the highest,
Unto us is given.
So it had been foretold from the highest heaven.
And the government shall be upon his shoulder,

¹ Is. ix. 2, 6, 7, with numerous interpolations or farsings.
That he may rule over heaven and earth,
And his name shall be called,
Messias, Sother, Emmanuel, Sabaoth, Adonai, Wonderful,
The Root of David,
Counsellor,
Of God the Father,
God,
Who created all things,
Mighty,
Overthrowing the most horrible gates of hell,
The everlasting Father,
King almighty, and Ruler over all,
The Prince of peace,
Now and for ever,
Of the increase of his government,
In Jerusalem, Judæa, and Samaria,
And of his peace there shall be no end,
For ever and ever.
He shall sit upon the throne of David and upon his kingdom,
And there shall be no bound to his kingdom,
To order it,
With the pledge of faith,
And to establish it with judgment and with justice,
When he shall come as Judge to judge the world.
From henceforth
To him are due glory, laud, and shouts of joy,
Even for ever.

Here shall they chant together to the end,

From the rising of the sun to the going down of the same let meet praise resound to the Creator, through all climes to the ends of the whole world. Let everything say Amen.

Where there is no chanting this Lesson from Isaiah the prophet shall be read.

Sequence.

All hosts, above, beneath,
Sing the incarnate Lord,
With instruments and pious breath
Attune each measured word.
This is the hallow'd morn
When on our fallen race
In full effulgence rose the dawn
Of new-born joy and grace.
Glory to God on high,
On this renouned night
Was thundered forth in harmony
By angel legions bright.
Amazing splendours shone—
A strange unwonted sight—
Upon the shepherds biding lone
Under the veil of night.
Sudden, while peacefully
They watch'd their sheep-folds still,
Good tidings wafted from on high
Their ears attentive fill.

CHRISTMAS DAY.

Who was before all time
Is born of purest Maid;
Glory to God in heights sublime,
Peace comes the world to aid.
E'en thus the choir on high
Sings praises jubilant,
From pole to pole their voices fly,
Heaven echoes to their chant.
Let all with thrilling voice
Give back the glorious lay,
Let the wide universe rejoice,
That God is born this day.
Burst are the iron chains
Which held the world in thrall;
The cruel foe no longer reigns,
Peace is restored to all.
For lo! an order new Doth the glad world adorn;
Let all things render praises due Unto the Virgin-born.
He all upholds alone,
He all alone did frame;
May he who hath such pity shown
Blot out our sin and shame.

And it came to pass . . . toward men.

Unto the King new-born new praises sing,
Whose Father by his word did frame the worlds,

Begotten of the Father, God of God,

Word of the Father ere the world was made,
In the full time forth from his mother’s womb
He issues in a human body veil’d.
O wonderful, mysterious generation!
O most astonishing nativity!
O glorious child! O Deity incarnate!
So had the prophets, by thy Spirit moved,
Declared thou should’st be born, thou Son of God!
So, at thy dawning, angels sing thee praises,
And to the earth glad tidings bring of peace.

The hallowed day hath shone upon us: come ye nations, and adore the Lord, for to-day a great light hath descended on the earth.¹

Sequence.

This day celestial melody
Resounded o’er the earth,
What time the virgin bare a Son,
Seraphs proclaimed his birth.
What aileth thee, thou world below?
Haste thee with them to sing;
In pastoral charge the shepherds watch,
Hark! angel voices ring,
Chanting their strains of holy joy,
With glory fraught and peace,
To Christ they render homage due,
To us they sing of grace.
Not unto all such gifts are given,
But to the good of heart,
Not irrespectively bestowed,
But measured by desert.
Affections must be weaned from sin,
So shall we gain that peace within Reserved for pure in heart;
Lo! earth is join’d with things divine,
In this respect their lays combine,
But fitly fall apart.
O man, rejoice, and ponder this accord;
O flesh, rejoice, associate with the Word.

This verse shall be repeated thrice.

His rising by the stars is told
With indicating light;
Lo! star-lit chiefs to Bethlehem
Follow that planet bright.
The King of heaven is cradled found
Amid the beasts he made,
In a rude manger’s narrow bed
The Lord of all is laid.

* Source unknown.

That our redemption doth no longer tarry,
Looking up steadfastly he saw heaven opened,
And cried aloud, full of the Holy Ghost,

Unwedded didst Messiah follow, drinking
Pure streams of wisdom from his holy breast.

The saints do look only in life eternal.
To thee, Christ, triumphing upon the cross,
In charge his [holy] Mother did commit,

With filial care should’st minister protection.
In prison cast, and torn with cruel scourges,
Thou didst rejoice to bear Christ’s testimony.
Thou, too, didst raise the dead, and deadly poison
Didst drink, and take no harm, in Jesu’s name.

Let children sing high melodies,
The Innocents’ triumphant lay,
Whom Christ, the holy child, did bear to heaven to-day.
These for no crime, in cruel fraud,
Herod in madness and in rage,
In Bethlehem and all its coasts,
From two years old and under slew.
Herod, unhappy king, alarmed
Lest Christ the new-born king should reign,
Is filled with wrath, and seizes arms
With haughty hand and troubled mind,
And seeks the King of light and heaven,
Bent to destroy with murderous dart
The life of him who giveth life.
Unable with his clouded mind
To look on that bright light he seeks,
Fierce Herod weaves his dark designs
To slay the band of infant saints.
The wicked king his troops prepares,
Pierces with sword the tender limbs;
Babes at the breast he slays, ere yet
The milk can curdle into blood.
The murderous unnatural foe
Infants new-born in pieces tears;
Ere their frail limbs have gathered strength
Under his feet he tramples them.
O blessed Innocents! O blest
The little ones that Herod slew!
O blessed mothers! ye who there
Such pledges of your love did bear.
O sweet array of children dear!
O holy fight of babes for Christ!
Thousands of tender age lie slain around;
Their mother’s milk flows from them in their throes.
Angelic hosts to welcome stand
The little white-robed martyr band.
A marvellous victory they win,
Gaining the prize of life, ere yet the strife begin.
O Christ, thee we devoutly pray,

The following Sequence is always to be said on this day, whether it be a Sunday or not.

Sequence.

Let us celebrate this day, Christ the Lord's nativity; Let the heavenly army's cry ring in praise incessantly, Giving thanks, and honouring the wedding banquet of their king. Now new light illumes the land, darkness flees at its command, Grace descending opens wide the courts long shut on every side, O happy mother, undefiled virgin, who hast borne a Child! Great with thy holy burden, lo! yet a man thou didst not know. Lady, of thee a suppliant crowd doth crave, Procure from us escape from bands of sin, O virgin, blessed of all generations; For thou alone wast worthy found to bear Within thy womb him who bare all our sins, Who ruleth things above and things beneath. Him they above do magnify, rejoicing In that good state of being which he gave them; We, lowly multitude, give him due reverence, Beseeching favour of his clemency, That, granting quiet times and present peace, He will be pleased to give us holy lives, Bestowing on his servants meet endowments; Heal our divisions left behind at death, And lead us where no sin or death is known, Where at the Father's own right hand he sitteth, And reigneth co-eternal over all,

Let us devoutly pay
   With joy and praises meet,
Our reverence to this holy day,
   Which dawns with radiance sweet.
Darkness hath passed away,
   The mist of night retires,
The day star of the sea to-day
   With health the world inspires.
He of her womb is born
   Before whom hell doth shake,
And conscious of his empire shorn
   Grim death himself doth quake.
Despoiled the serpent mourns,
   Who wrought the world’s annoy;
Fall’n man, the erring sheep, returns,
   Restored to endless joy.
With songs the angelic host

That the tenth piece, which once was lost,
   This day is safely found.

2 Heb. i. 1, 2.
O offspring highly blest,
  Redeeming man forlorn,
God, maker of the world confest,

What marvel passing strange
  This nature doth enfold!
Taking the new without a change,
  Retaining still the old.
The very Godhead is
  In human flesh arrayed:
What ear of earthly witnesses
  Hath heard such things essayed?
To seek that which was lost
  The shepherd good came down;
Like warrior armed at his post
  A helm his head doth crown.
On his own darts the foe
  Himself doth headlong thrust;
Stripped of his arms he lieth low,
  Wherein he put his trust.
Divided is the spoil,
  The captor captive ta’en;
Christ’s valiant fight the foe doth foil,
  And sure salvation gain.
Then to his home on high
  Our champion led the way,
Triumphant in his victory,
  Where thou art praised for aye.

To the Child of God to-day
Wise men rightful homage pay.
Whom, immeasurably great,
Chaldee sages venerate,
To whose coming, man to save,
All the prophets witness gave:
His majestic throne on high,—
Such his great humility,—
He refused not to forsake,
And a servant's form to take;
God from all eternity,
Ere the world began to be,
He was man of Mary made:
Whom predicting Balaam said,—
Out of Jacob, seen from far,
There shall come a flaming star,
Which with power shall smite the host
Of Moab to his utmost coast.
Him their costly offering,
Gold, myrrh, incense, wise men bring.
God, sweet incense; precious gold
A king; myrrh doth a man unfold:
Angel-warned, no word they bring Back to Herod, ruthless king,
Fearing much, in rage and hate,
He should lose his royal state.
Lo! the star before them went,
Homeward on their journey bent,
Glad they seek their native land,
Heeding not the king's command.
Maddened with exceeding ire
Forth he sends the mandate dire Throughout Bethlehem's coasts to seek
And to slay the infants meek.
Now the choir their voice unite,
Organs swell with mystic rite,
Bringing to the King of kings,
Praise and costly offerings.
O'er all kingdoms, o'er all lands
May he spread his sheltering hands
Ever present to defend,
Unto worlds that never end.

Note, that the service of this day is not to be transferred on account of any feast, except when the Purification of blessed Mary or the dedication of the Church occurs on this day. Then it should be transferred to the third day of the week, and the Tract Out of the deep should be omitted. Because no Tract is said on weekdays before Ash Wednesday, save only in masses for the Dead, and on feasts with ruling of the quire. Whatever other feast occurs on this Sunday, or on any Sunday up to Passion Sunday, should always be transferred even although it be a double feast: and the service should be the service of the Sunday, without any memory of the feast, unless it be a feast of three lessons, which is not to be transferred. In that case let a memory of it be made up to the beginning of Lent only. But from Ash Wednesday to the morrow of the octave of Easter, no notice should be taken of feasts of three lessons, not even a memory being made of them.

ASH WEDNESDAY.

After sext, first shall the sermon, if there be one, be addressed to the people. Then shall the clerks prostrate themselves in the quire, and say the seven penitential Psalms, with Glory be to the Father etc., and As it was etc., and with the Anthem Remember not etc. The superior priest, having put on his priestly vestments, being in a red silk cope, with the deacon on his right hand, and the subdeacon on his left, and with the rest of the ministers of the altar vested in albs and amices, in prostration before the altar, shall say by themselves the seven penitential Psalms with the anthem Remember not etc.

1 Ib. 1, 2. 2 Adapted from ib. 22. 3 Ps. lxxviii. 30. 4 These are the proper Psalms for Ash Wednesday in the Book of Common Prayer, if the Commination Service is included.
Anthem.

Remember not, Lord, our offences, nor the offences of our forefathers, neither take thou vengeance of our sins.¹

Lord, have mercy.
Christ, have mercy.
Lord, have mercy.
Our Father, etc.

All the above are said, without chanting, both by the priests and by the whole quire, a boy meanwhile holding a sackcloth banner near the left side of the altar. Then the priest shall rise, with the deacon and subdeacon, and turning himself to the east, and standing in front of the right side of the altar, shall say over the people as follows, alone:

And lead us not into temptation.

The quire shall answer:

But deliver us from evil.

O my God, save thy servants and thy handmaids: that put their trust in thee.
Send them, O Lord, help from thy holy place: and defend them out of Sion.
Turn thee again, O Lord, at the last: and be gracious unto thy servants.
Help us, O God of our salvation: and for the glory of thy name deliver us, O Lord, and be merciful unto our sins for thy name's sake.

Lord, hear my prayer.
And let my crying come unto thee.
The Lord be with you.
And with thy spirit.

Let us pray.

O Lord, we beseech thee, hear our prayers, and spare all those who confess their sins unto thee, that they whose consciences by sin are accused by thy merciful pardon may be absolved. Through etc. R. Amen.

All these Collects are said with Let us pray and are to be concluded after the manner of a Lesson. The Lord be with you is said before the first Collect only.

Collect.

Inspire, we beseech thee, O Lord, thy servants with thy saving grace, that their hearts being melted by plenteousness of tears may be so softened and subdued that the working of thy anger may be turned away by a fitting satisfaction. Through etc.

Collect.

Grant, we beseech thee, O Lord our God, unto these thy servants that by repentance they may continually work out the conditions of their purification; and that to enable them more effectually to fulfil the same the grace of thy visitation may prevent and follow them. Through etc.

Collect.

Let thy merciful kindness, O Lord, we beseech thee, prevent these thy servants, that all their iniquities may be blotted out by thy speedy forgiveness. Through etc.

Collect.

Be favourable, O Lord, to our supplications, and let not the pitifulness of thy mercy be far from thy servants; heal their wounds, and forgive their sins, that being separated from thee by no iniquities, they may ever hold fast to thee their Lord. Through etc.

Collect.

O Lord our God, who art not overcome by our transgression, but dost graciously accept satisfaction, look, we beseech thee, upon thy servants who confess that they have grievously sinned against thee; to thee it appertaineth to give absolution from offences, and to grant pardon to sinners; thou hast said that thou wouldest rather the repentance than the death of sinners; grant, therefore, O' Lord, to these thy servants, that they may keep unto thee the vigil of penitence, and amending their ways may rejoice that everlasting joys have been conferred on them by thee. Through etc.

Collect.

O God, whose pardon every man needeth, remember thy servants and thy handmaidens; and because through the uncertain frailty of their mortal bodies, they are despoiled of virtue, and in many things have done amiss, we beseech thee that thou wouldest give pardon to them as they confess their sins, and spare thy suppliants, that they who are accused by their own deserts may be saved by thy pity. Through etc.

At this point neither The Lord be with you nor Let us pray are said; but the priest shall turn to the people, and extending his hand shall say over them, without chanting, but audibly, as follows:

We absolve you in the place of blessed Peter, prince of the Apostles, to whom there hath been granted by the Lord the power of binding and loosing; and so far as self-accusation appertaineth to you and remission to us, may almighty God be unto you life and salvation, and the gracious pardoner of all your sins. Who liveth etc.

Here shall all rise from prostration, kissing the earth or the stalls, while the priest is saying Who liveth etc. Then shall take place the blessing of ashes, without either The Lord be with you or Let us pray, the priest turning to the east.

Collect.

Almighty and everlasting God, who hast compassion upon all men, and hateth nothing that thou hast made, passing over the sins of men because of their repentance; who also succourestr them that labour in necessity, vouchsafe to bless and sanctify these ashes, which thou hast ordered that, after the manner of the Ninevites, we should bear upon our heads, for the sake of humility, and of our holy religion, and for the cleansing away of our offences; and grant that by calling on thy holy name, all those who have thus borne ashes on their heads may be thought worthy to receive from thee pardon of all their sins, and so to-day commence the observation of their holy fasts, that on the day of Resurrection they may be found worthy to approach the holy Paschal feast with minds purified, and hereafter to share in glory everlasting. Through etc.

Here holy water shall be sprinkled over the ashes. Then is said The Lord be with you and Let us pray.

Collect.

O God, who desirest not the death but the repentance of sinners, most graciously look upon the frailty of our human condition, and vouchsafe for thy lovingkindness to bless + and sanctify + these ashes which as a token of humility and for the obtaining of pardon, we have determined to have placed upon our heads; that we whom thou hast warned that we are but ashes, and who know that we shall return to the dust as the recompense of our depravity, may be mercifully found worthy to receive the pardon of all our sins and the rewards which have been promised anew to them that repent. Through etc.

Afterwards the ashes shall be distributed on the heads of the clergy and laity by the higher dignitaries, making the sign of the cross with the ashes, and saying thus:

Remember, O man, that thou art ashes, and unto ashes shalt thou return. In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

In the meanwhile the following anthems shall be sung:

Hear us, O Lord, for thy lovingkindness is comfortable: according to the multitude of thy mercies look thou upon us, O Lord.¹

*Ps. Save me, O God; for the waters are come in, even unto my soul.*²

Only the first verse of the Psalm is said; then shall follow

immediately Glory be to the Father etc., after which the anthem Hear us, O Lord etc., shall be repeated.

Another anthem.

Let the priests and Levites, ministers of the Lord, weep between the porch and the altar, saying, Spare thy people, O Lord, spare them, and turn not away the faces of them that call upon thee, O Lord.

Another anthem.

Let us change our garments for sackcloth and ashes; let us fast and weep before the Lord, for our God is very merciful to put away our sins.

When this office is ended, the priest, standing at the step of the quire, shall say: The Lord be with you. And with thy spirit. Let us pray.

Collect.

O God, who art justly angry, and dost mercifully pardon, accept the tears of thy afflicted people and graciously turn away thy wrathful indignation, which they righteously deserve. Through etc.

Another collect.

Let us pray.

Grant unto us, we beseech thee, O Lord, so to commence and protect our Christian warfare by holy fasts, that we who are about to fight against spiritual wickedness may be fortified by the aid of continence. Through etc.

After the penitents have been ejected, in the way shewn by the office in the processionals, Mass shall be begun in the following manner.

Office.

Thou hast mercy upon all, O Lord, and hates no thing that thou hast made; and winkest at the sins of men, because they should amend. But thou sparest all, because thou art the Lord our God.

1 Partly from Joel ii. 17. 2 Partly from Wisdom xi. 23, 24, 26.
Ps. Be merciful unto me, O Lord, be merciful unto me, for my soul trusteth in thee.¹

The office is not to be repeated, but Glory be to the Father is to follow immediately. When Kyrie eleyson is finished, the Priest shall say The Lord be with you and Let us pray. Afterwards the deacon shall say Let us kneel, whereupon all shall kneel. Then shall the deacon say Rise, and all shall rise, and kiss the stalls.

Collect.

Grant, we beseech thee, O Lord, unto thy faithful people, that they may both enter upon the holy solemnities of the fast with befitting piety, and pass through them with undisturbed devotion. Through etc.

From this day till Maundy Thursday, at all masses of the fast, there shall be a memory for penitents, with this Collect, O Lord, we beseech thee, hear the prayers etc.² On this day and on the three days following, five Collects are said, as has been laid down in the directions for the first Sunday in Advent.

His faithfulness and truth shall be thy shield and buckler: thou shalt not be afraid for any terror by night.

On the next day much people . . . gone after him.

The Gospel ended the blessing of flowers and leaves shall follow by a priest, vested in a red silk cope, standing on the third step of the altar, turning towards the south; palms with flowers for the clergy having first been placed on the altar, but for others on the step of the altar on the south side.

I exorcise thee, O creature of flowers and leaves, in the name of God the Father almighty, and in the name of Jesus Christ his Son our Lord, and in the power of the Holy Ghost. Henceforth all power of the adversary, all the host of the devil, all the strength of the enemy, all assaults of demons, be uprooted and transplanted from this creature of flowers and leaves, that thou pursue not by subtlety the footsteps of those who hasten to the grace of God. Through him who shall come to judge the quick and dead, and the world by fire. R. Amen.

Then shall be said these Collects without The Lord be with you, but only with Let us pray.

Collect.

Almighty everlasting God, who in the effusion of the deluge didst announce to Noe thy servant the restoration of peace to the earth by a dove bearing an olive branch in her mouth, we humbly beseech thee, that thy truth may sanctify this creature of flowers and leaves, and branches of palms, or leaves of trees, which we offer before the presence of thy glory, so that thy devout people taking them in their hands may be worthy to obtain the grace of thy benediction. Through etc.

All these Collects are said under the tone of a lesson, and with Let us pray.

O God, whose Son descended from heaven to earth for the salvation of the human race, and who when the hour of his passion was approaching willed to come to Jerusalem sitting on an ass, and to be called a king, and to be praised by the people, increase the faith of those that hope in thee, and mercifully hear the prayers of thy suppliants. We beseech thee, O Lord, let thy benediction come upon us, and vouchsafe to bless these branches of palms and of other trees, that all who shall bear them may be fulfilled with the gift of thy blessing. Grant, therefore, Lord, that as the children of the Hebrews met the same thy Son our Lord Jesus Christ with branches of palms and crying Hosanna in the highest; so we, bearing branches of trees, may go to meet Christ with good works, and may attain to everlasting joy. Through etc.
Collect.

O God, who gatherest together that which is scattered, and preservest that which is gathered together; who didst bless the people carrying branches of palms to meet Christ Jesus, bless also these branches of palms and other trees, which thy servants bear faithfully for the blessing of thy name; that into whatsoever place they shall be brought, all the inhabitants of that place may obtain thy blessing; so that every adverse power having been put to flight, thy right hand may protect those whom it hath redeemed. Through etc.

Here shall the flowers and leaves be sprinkled with holy water and censed. Then is said

The Lord be with you, and Let us pray.

Collect.

O Lord Jesus Christ, Son of the living God, maker and redeemer of the world, who for the sake of our deliverance and salvation, didst deign to come down from the highest heaven, to take our flesh, and to endure thy passion; and who of thine own free-will, when approaching the place of that same passion, didst will to be blessed and praised by the crowds coming to meet thee with branches of palms, and to be called in a clear voice the blessed king coming in the name of the Lord; do thou now deign to accept our confession of praise, and to bless and sanctify these branches of palms and of other trees and flowers; so that whosoever shall bear anything hence in obedience to thy power, being hallowed with thy heavenly benediction, may be found worthy to receive remission of his sins, and the reward of everlasting life; through thee, O Jesu Christ, our Saviour, who livest etc.

This done, the palms shall be distributed forthwith; and meanwhile the following Anthems shall be sung, the Precentor beginning the Anthem.
The children of the Hebrews, carrying olive branches, went to meet our Lord, crying out and saying, Hosanna in the highest.

Another Anthem.

The children of the Hebrews spread their garments in the way, and cried saying, Hosanna to the Son of David; Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord.

While the palm-branches are being distributed a shrine with relics is to be prepared, in which the Body of Christ should hang in a pyx. It is to be borne by two clerks of the second rank, who shall advance to meet the procession at the place of the first station, instead of following the procession to that point. There should be no change of vestments. A lantern light, with an unveiled cross, and two banners should precede it. Then the procession shall advance to the place of the first station. The ministers in the procession shall be vested in girt albs, without tunicles or chasubles. The priest is to wear a red silk cope, the quire following him without any change of vestment. As they proceed the two following Anthems are to be sung.

Anthem.

Now on the first day of unleavened bread the disciples came to Jesus saying unto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare for thee to eat the passover? But Jesus said unto them, Go into the city to such a man, and say unto him, The Master saith, My time is at hand; I will keep the passover at thy house with my disciples. And the disciples did as the Lord appointed them, and they made ready the passover.

Anthem.

And when the Lord came nigh to Jerusalem, he sendeth forth two of his disciples, and saith unto them,

1 i.e., the Blessed Sacrament, reserved in one kind only, that of the consecrated Wafer or Host.

2 Only the catchwords of this and the following Anthems are given in the Missal. We have supplied the full texts from the "Sarum Processional," edit. W. G. Henderson: Leeds, 1882, p. 48.

3 St. Mat. xxvi. 17—19.
Go your way unto the village over against you, and ye shall find a colt tied whereon never man sat; loose him and bring him to me. If any man ask you, say ye, The Lord hath need of him. Loosing him, they brought the colt to Jesus, and cast their garments on him; and he sat upon him. And some spread their garments in the way, and some strawed branches in the way. And they that followed cried, Hosanna, blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord. Blessed be the kingdom of our father David. Hosanna in the highest. Have mercy upon us, O Son of David.¹

If these two Anthems are not sufficient to fill up the time occupied in reaching the first station, then the following anthems shall be used.

When the people had heard that Jesus was come to Jerusalem, they took branches of palm, and went out to meet him, and the children cried, saying, This is he who was to come for the salvation of the world; this is our salvation, the redemption of Israel. How great is he whom thrones and dominions go forth to meet! Fear not, daughter of Sion, behold thy king cometh unto thee riding upon a colt, the foal of an ass, as it is written, Hail, king, maker of the world, who art come to redeem us.²

Anthem.

Six days before the feast of the Passover, when the Lord came to the city of Jerusalem, children met him, both carrying in their hands branches of palms, and crying with a loud voice saying, Hosanna in the highest.

Anthem.

Six days before the passion the Lord came to the city of Jerusalem, and children met him, and they carried in their hands branches of palms, and they cried with a loud voice, saying, Hosanna in the highest. Blessed art thou who art come in the multitude of thy mercy. Hosanna in the highest.

² Partly from St. Mat. xxii. 5 or St. John xii. 15.
Here the first station shall be made, that is to say, in the extreme east of the north side of the church, and this Gospel shall be read:

And when Jesus drew nigh . . . Hosanna in the highest.

This Gospel is to be read by the deacon, vested for the procession, standing not close to the cross, but before the priest, a little apart from him, his position being somewhat altered according to the station. The deacon is to face to the north, and the Gospel is to be read as on a simple feast of nine lessons, the benediction having been previously received in the usual manner.

The Gospel being ended, three clerks of the second rank, without changing their vestments, shall turn to the people, and standing in front of and on the west side of the great cross, shall together chant the following anthem or verse:

Anthem.

Behold, thy king cometh unto thee, O Sion, mystical daughter, sitting on beasts, of whose coming the prophetic lesson hath now foretold.

After each verse the Officiant, turning to the relics, shall begin the Anthem:

Hail, thou whom the people of the Hebrews bear witness to as Jesus, coming to meet thee with palms, shouting words of salvation.

The quire shall take it up, kneeling and kissing the ground; the Officiant himself kneeling first, with the quire. Then the clerks standing before the relics shall sing the anthem:

Behold thy king etc.

After which the senior [clerk] shall say the anthem, Hail,

1 As on First Sunday in Advent, p. 75.
2 At the close of the Gospel, some Service books (i.e., the 1508 and 1517 editions of the "Sarum Processional") direct a boy vested like a prophet to stand in some conspicuous place and to chant the following prophetic Lesson: "O Jerusalem, look to the East and see; lift up thine eyes, O Jerusalem, and see the power of thy King." Compare Baruch iv. 36; v. 5.
thou to whom, etc., the quire rising and taking it up at the words bear witness to.

Then shall the clerks, standing before the relics, without change of position, say the Verse:

This is he that cometh from Edom, with dyed garments from Bozrah; this that is glorious in his apparel, travelling in the greatness of his strength; not on war horses, nor in lofty turrets.¹

Then the senior clerk, without change of position, shall say the verse:

Hail, light of the world, king of kings, glory of heaven, with whom abideth dominion, praise and honour, now and for ever.

The quire rising, and taking it up at the point king of kings. The Clerks also, in front of the relics, without changing their position, shall say the Verse:

This is he that cometh etc.

Also the senior Clerk, without changing his position, shall say the Anthem:

Hail, our salvation, our true peace, our redemption, our strength, who of thine own free will didst submit to the dominion of death on our behalf.

The quire rising and taking it up at the point our true peace.

Then shall the procession advance to the place of the second station; the shrine, with the receptacle for relics, together with a light in a lantern, being carried between the subdeacon and the thurifer, with the banners on either side of them, the precentor beginning the Anthem:

Thou art worthy, O Lord our God, to receive glory and honour.

And also this Anthem:

The multitudes come to meet the Redeemer with flowers and palms, and give meet reverence to the triumphant conqueror. The Gentiles proclaim with their mouths the Son of God, and their voices praising Christ resound through the skies with Hosanna.

If these two anthems do not suffice to bring the procession to the place of the second station, then shall one or both of the following Responsories be sung.

Responsory.

The Lord Jesus six days before the Passover came to Bethany, where Lazarus had died, whom Jesus raised from the dead.¹

V. But there assembled there many of the Jews, that they might see Lazarus, whom Jesus raised from the dead.²

Responsory.

But the chief priests consulted that they might put Lazarus also to death, because that by reason of him many came, and believed on Jesus.³

V. Therefore the people which was with him, when he called Lazarus out of the grave, and raised him from the dead, bare record.⁴

Here the second station shall take place, that is to say, on the south side of the church, where seven boys, from a very elevated position, shall sing:

V. All glory, laud, and honour
   To thee, Redeemer, King,
   To whom the lips of children
   Made sweet Hosannas ring.

The quire is to repeat this stanza after each verse:

V. Thou art the King of Israel,
   Thou David's royal Son,
   Who in the Lord's name comest,
   The King and blessed One.

V. The company of angels
   Are praising thee on high;
   And mortal men and all things
   Created make reply.

The people of the Hebrews
With palms before thee went;
Our praise and prayer and anthems
Before thee we present.¹

This station ended, the procession is to go through the middle of the cloister on the right hand as far as the west door of the church singing the Responsor.

Then gathered the chief priests and the Pharisees a council and said, What do we? for this man doeth many miracles. If we let him thus alone, all men will believe on him, and the Romans shall come and take away both our place and nation.²

Here the third station shall take place, in front of the aforesaid door, where three clerks of the upper rank, standing in the doorway itself, without changing their vestments, shall turn to the people, and chant this verse:

But one of them, named Caiaphas, being the high priest that same year, prophesied, saying, It is expedient for you that one man should die for the people, and that the whole nation perish not; lest the Romans shall come and take away both our place and nation.³

This done, they shall enter the church by the same door, passing under the shrine and the receptacle for relics, held transversely, for them to pass under, while they sing

Responsor.

As the Lord was entering into the holy city the children of the Hebrews proclaimed the resurrection of life, and with branches of palms, cried out: Hosanna in the highest.

Here the fourth station is to be made, namely, before the cross [rood] in the church. At the station itself, after the cross has been now unveiled, the Officiant should begin the Anthem:

Anthem.

Hail, our King, Son of David, Redeemer of the world, whom the prophets have proclaimed to be the Saviour of the house of Israel that is to come. For thee the Father sent into the world to be the saving victim, whom all the saints expected from the beginning of the world, and now expect. Hosanna to the Son of David. Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord. Hosanna in the highest.

The Officiant is to commence the above anthem, by repeating the word Hail thrice, saying it louder each time. Then the quire takes it up at the words our King, both the Officiant and the quire genuflecting, and kissing the earth, after which the rest of the anthem is sung standing. This done, they shall enter the quire. At the entry into the quire they shall sing:

Respnsory.

Lying men compassed me about; they scourged me without a cause. But do thou, O Lord, my defender, avenge me.

V. Deliver me from mine enemies, O Lord: defend me from them that rise up against me.¹

Collect.

Almighty and everlasting God etc.²

All being now finished in connection with the procession, Mass shall begin:

At Mass.

Truly God is loving unto Israel, even unto such as are of a clean heart. Nevertheless my feet were almost gone, my treadings had well-nigh slipped. And why? I was grieved at the wicked; I do also see the ungodly in such prosperity.²

Tract.

To be sung by the Quire in alternate verses.

My God, my God, look upon me: why hast thou forsaken me.

℣. And art so far from my health, and from the words of my complaint?

℣. O my God, I cry in the day-time, but thou hearest not: and in the night season also I take no rest.

℣. And thou continuest holy, O thou worship of Israel. Our fathers hoped in thee: they trusted in thee; and thou didst deliver them.

℣. They called upon thee, and were holpen: they put their trust in thee, and were not confounded.

℣. But as for me, I am a worm and no man: a very scorn of men and the outcast of the people.

℣. All they that see me laugh me to scorn: they shoot out their lips, and shake their heads, saying,

℟. He trusted in God, that he would deliver him: let him deliver him, if he will have him.

℣. They stand staring and looking upon me. They part my garments among them, and cast lots upon my vesture.

\(\text{V.}\) Save me from the lion's mouth: thou hast heard me also from among the horns of the unicorns.

\(\text{V.}\) O praise the Lord, ye that fear him: magnify him, all ye of the seed of Jacob.

\(\text{V.}\) They shall be counted unto the Lord for a generation. They shall come, and the heaven shall declare his righteousness.

\(\text{V.}\) Unto a people that shall be born, whom the Lord hath made.¹

Then followeth the Passion. And it is to be noticed that it is to be sung or recited in three tones—high, low, and middle. Because all the contents of the Passion are either the words of the Jews, or the disciples, or the words of Christ; or the words of the Evangelist who tells the story. Therefore know that where you find the letter (a) prefixed, the words following are the words either of the Jews or the disciples which are to be recited in a high [alto] tone. Where you find the letter (b) prefixed, the words following are the words of Christ, which are to be recited in a low [bass] tone. Where you find the letter (m) prefixed, the words following are the words of the evangelist, which are to be read or sung by a middle [tenor] voice. This rule is to be observed in all the recitations of the Passion.

\(m.\) \(\text{V.}\) The Lord be with you.

Maundy Thursday.²

In the first place, the reconciliation of penitents shall take place in the following manner. When None has been sung, the priest of the highest rank shall go to the west door of the church, having put on his priestly vestments and a red silk cope, attended by two deacons in albs and amices, but without the sub-deacon, and without the cross. A sackcloth banner is to precede him through the midst of the quire. The penitents, who are to be reconciled should be placed in the vestibule of the church. If the bishop be present, the principal archdeacon vested in a silk cope, and standing outside the door of the church is to read the following lesson on behalf of the penitents.

The accepted time is come, O venerable prelate, the day of divine propitiation and salvation of men; when death was abolished, and eternal life begun; when a planting of new vines is so to be made in the vineyard of the Lord of Sabaoth, that the blindness of the old man may be purged away. For, albeit no time is devoid of the riches of the goodness of God, yet now forgiveness of sins is more ample by reason of his indulgence, and the admission of those who are beginning a new life is more numerous by reason of his grace. By those to be regenerated we are increased in numbers, by those who return [to the unity of the church] we are increased in strength. Waters wash; tears wash; hence there is joy over the receiving of those that are called, and there is joy over the absolution of penitents. Hence it is, that thy suppliants, after that by neglect of the divine commandments, and by transgression of approved morals, they have fallen into divers kinds of sin, humble and prostrate cry unto God, in the words of the prophet, saying, We have sinned with our fathers; we have dealt wickedly; we have committed iniquity; have mercy, O Lord, upon us, who turn not a deaf ear to the gospel words, Blessed are they that mourn, for they shall be comforted. They have eaten, as it is written, the bread of affliction; they have watered their couch with tears; they have afflicted their soul with grief, and their body with fasting, that they might recover the health of their souls which they had lost. Accordingly, it is the singular privilege of penitence that it is both profitable to the individual and conduceth to the common welfare of all. Renew, therefore, in them, O apostolic prelate, whatsoever hath been decayed by the suggestion, or rage, or ravage of the devil; by the merits and patronage of thy prayers on their behalf, make these men near to God, through the grace of divine reconciliation; so that they who were before displeasing in their perverse ways, may now get the victory over the author of their death, and rejoice that they please the Lord in the land of the living.

² The Latin title is "Feria V. in Cena Domini."

This Lesson should not be read in the absence of the bishop.
The Lesson being finished, the bishop shall begin the anthem, Come ye, come ye, inside the aforesaid door, turning to the north, and making the sign of the cross with his hand, as it were beckoning: Then the deacon, on the part of the penitents outside the door shall say, Let us kneel. Another deacon, on the part of the bishop, shall say, Rise, and this shall be done thrice, in such way, however, that after the third repetition of the Anthem, 'Let us kneel' is not said, but the quire follows up the whole Anthem, the precentor beginning, Come, ye children, hearken unto me, I will teach you etc. Then shall follow the Psalm: I will alway, the whole Psalm being said with Glory be to the Father etc. and the Anthem is to be repeated after each Verse. While the Psalm and its anthem are being sung by the quire, the penitents are to be continually handed, one by one, by some priest of the quire, without any change of vestment, to the officiating priest, and by him they are to be restored to the bosom of the Church. This done, the procession shall return in the usual way to the quire. Then shall they all prostrate themselves, and the clerks in the quire shall say the seven penitential psalms, with Glory be to the Father etc. and As it was etc., and the Anthem Remember not with Lord have mercy upon us, Christ have mercy upon us, Lord have mercy upon us. Our Father. All this in front of the altar, as has been previously laid down for Ash Wednesday. Then shall the priest rise, and standing on right side of the altar, and facing south, say, without any inflection of voice:

And lead us not into temptation.

R. But deliver us from evil.
V. My God, save thy servants and thy handmaidens,
R. Which put their trust in thee.
V. Turn thee again, O Lord, at the last,
R. And be gracious unto thy servants.
V. Send unto them, O Lord, help from thy holy place.

R. And let my cry come unto thee.
V. The Lord be with you.
R. And with thy spirit.

Let us pray.

Collect.

Be favourable, O Lord, to our supplications, and graciously listen unto me, who first of all stand in need of thy mercy; and grant unto me, whom, not by election of merit, but by the gift of thy grace, thou hast appointed unto this ministry, confidence in fulfilling the duty which thou hast laid upon me, and do thou of thy loving kindness work in our ministration. Through etc.

All these Collects are to be intoned as Lessons. Let us pray is to be said before each, but The Lord be with you before the first Collect only.

Collect.

O God, most gracious creator, and most compassionate restorer of mankind, who by the blood of thine Only Son hast redeemed mankind, cast down by the envy of the devil from immortality, quicken these thy servants, whom thou desirest in no wise to die unto thee, and do thou who dost not leave them to stray, receive them back after correction. Let the sorrowful sighings of these thy servants, O Lord, we beseech thee, move thy loving kindness. Do thou heal their wounds, and stretch out thy saving hand to them as they lie before thee. Let not thy church be robbed of any part of her body. Let not thy flock suffer loss. Let not the enemy rejoice over the injury to thy family. Let not a second death get possession of those who have been born again in the laver of salvation. To thee, therefore, O Lord, we humbly offer our prayers; to thee we pour out the sorrows of our heart. Spare thou them that confess; that by thy aid they may so weep over their sins in this mortal life, that in the tremendous day of judgment they may escape the sentence of eternal damnation, and may never know, most loving Father, the terrors of darkness, and the gnashing of teeth in flames; but that returning from the errors of their way into the path of righteousness, they may be wounded no more; but let that which thy grace hath bestowed, and thy pity hath reformed, be made whole and entire, and abide with them for ever. Through etc.

Collect.

O Lord, holy Father, almighty everlasting God, who hast deigned to heal our wounds, we thy humble priests desire and beseech thee mercifully to incline thine ears to our prayers, and by our confession to be moved to repent thee; and that thou wouldest forgive all our sins, and pardon all our offences; and that thou wouldest give to these thy servants, O Lord, pardon for punishment, joy for sorrow, life for death: so that they who trusting in thy mercy have arrived at so great a hope of the heights of heaven, may be accounted worthy to attain unto the blessings of the reward of thy peace, and unto thy heavenly gifts. Through etc.

Then without saying Let us pray, the Priest shall turn to the people, and, with extended hand, say the Absolution in monotone.

We absolve you in the place of blessed Peter, prince of the apostles, on whom the power of binding and loosing was conferred by the Lord, and so far as accusation pertaineth to you, and remission to us, may almighty God be unto you life and health, and the gracious pardoner of all your sins, Who liveth etc.

When the Priest says the words Who liveth etc. all shall rise from their prostration, kissing the benches or the ground. And if a bishop be present, he shall pronounce the benediction.
Then solemn Mass shall be begun, without ruling of the quire.

At Mass. Office.

Tract.

Deliver me, O Lord, from the evil man; and preserve me from the wicked man.

Who imagine mischief in their hearts; and stir up strife all the day long.

They have sharpened their tongue like a serpent: adder's poison is under their lips.

Keep me, O Lord, from the hands of the ungodly: preserve me from the wicked men,

Who are purposed to overthrow my goings. The proud have laid a snare for me,

And spread a net abroad with cords: yea, and set traps in my way.

I said unto the Lord, Thou art my God: hear the voice of my prayer, O Lord.

O Lord God, thou strength of my health: thou hast covered my head in the day of battle.

Let not the ungodly have his desire, O Lord: let not his mischievous imagination prosper, lest they be too proud.

Let the mischief of their own lips fall upon the head of them: that compass me about.

The righteous also shall give thanks unto thy name, and the just shall continue in thy sight.¹

The Passion shall follow without The Lord be with you, and without title, thus:

Collect.

Almighty everlasting God, who wouldest not the death of sinners, but ever seekest their life, mercifully receive our prayer, and deliver them from the worship of idols, and gather them into thy holy Church, to the praise and glory of thy name. Through etc.
The Collects being ended, the priest shall put off his chasuble, and seat himself in his own seat by the altar, with the deacon and sub-deacon. Meanwhile, two other priests of higher rank, barefoot, and vested in albs, without apparels, solemnly holding aloft between them in their arms the veiled cross, shall take up their position behind the high altar, on the right side, and chant these verses:

O my people, what have I done unto thee, or wherein have I wearied thee? testify against me. Because I brought thee up out of the land of Egypt, thou hast prepared a cross for thy Saviour.

Two deacons of the second rank, in their black copes, standing at the step of the quire, and turning to the altar shall say:

Quire. Holy God, Holy etc.

Priests. What could I have done more unto thee that I have not done? I planted thee indeed, O my vineyard, with fair fruit, and thou art become very bitter unto me; for thou gavest me to drink in my thirst vinegar mingled with gall, and piercdest thy Saviour's side with a spear.

Deacons. Agyos O Theos, etc.
Quire. Holy God, Holy etc.

¹ These are Greek words, the translation of which is contained in the following response of the quire. They form the Trisagion.
GOOD FRIDAY.

Then the priests shall uncover the cross by the altar on the right side, and sing this Anthem:

Behold the wood of the cross, on which hung the salvation of the world. O come, let us adore.

The quire genuflecting, and kissing the benches, shall respond with the Anthem:

We adore thy cross, O Lord, and we praise and glorify thy holy resurrection; for, lo, by the cross joy hath come to the whole world.

Ps. lxvii.

God be merciful unto us and bless us; etc.

The whole Psalm is to be said by the whole quire, without Glory be to the Father etc., and after each verse the anthem shall be repeated in the same way by the whole quire, genuflecting. Meanwhile the cross shall be solemnly placed on the third step of the altar, two priests being seated close to it, one on the right hand, the other on the left.

Then shall the clerks proceed barefooted to adore the cross, beginning with those of highest rank.

When the psalm, with its anthem, is finished, the following hymn is to be sung by two priests, seated in the meantime close to the cross in the manner above mentioned. The first verse of the hymn is to be repeated after each verse of the hymn by the quire, who are to be in the meantime seated.

Hymn.

Faithful cross, above all other
One and only noble tree,
None in foliage, none in blossom,
None in fruit thy peer may be;
Sweetest wood, and sweetest iron,
Sweetest weight is hung on thee.

Faithful cross etc.
Sing, my tongue, the glorious battle;
   Sing the last, the dread affray;
O' er the cross, the Victor's trophy,
   Sound the high triumphal lay,
How, the pains of death enduring,
   Earth's Redeemer won the day.
   Faithful cross etc.

He, our Maker, deeply grieving
   That the first-made Adam fell,
When he ate the fruit forbidden,
   Whose reward was death and hell,
Marked e'en then this tree, the ruin
   Of the first tree to dispel.
   Faithful cross etc.

Thus the work for our salvation
   He ordained to be done;
To the traitor's art opposing
   Art yet deeper than his own;
Thence the remedy procuring
   Whence the fatal wound begun.
   Faithful cross etc.

Therefore, when at length the fulness
   Of the appointed time was come,
He was sent, the world's Creator,
   From the Father's heavenly home,
And was found in human fashion,
   Offspring of the Virgin's womb.
   Faithful cross etc.

Now the thirty years accomplished
   Which on earth he willed to see,
Born for this, he meets his passion,
   Gives himself an offering free;
On the cross the Lamb is lifted,
   There the sacrifice to be.
   Faithful cross etc.
GOOD FRIDAY.

There the nails and spear he suffers,
    Vinegar, and gall, and reed;
From the sacred body pierced
    Blood and water both proceed;
Precious flood, which all creation
    From the stain of sin hath freed.

Faithful cross etc.

Praise and honour to the Father,
Praise and honour to the Son,
Praise and honour to the Spirit,
    Ever Three and ever One;
One in might, and One in glory,
    While eternal ages run.¹

Faithful cross etc.

When the hymn is finished, the cross shall be carried through the midst of the quire by the two priests aforesaid to a spot where it may be adored by the people before some altar; and in the mean time this Anthem following, with its verse, shall be sung in the quire by the whole quire, seated, the precentor beginning it:

Anthem.

Whilst the maker of the world suffered the punishment of death upon the cross, and crying with a loud voice gave up the ghost, lo! the veil of the temple was rent, and the graves were opened, for there was a great earthquake, because the world cried aloud that it could not endure the death of the Son of God.

V. Therefore, the side of the crucified Lord being pierced by a soldier's spear, there came forth blood and water, for our redemption and salvation.

V. O admirable price! by the weighing of which the captivity of the world hath been redeemed, the infernal gates of hell have been broken asunder, and the door of the kingdom [of heaven] hath been opened unto us.

\[\text{\textbf{\textit{V.}}} \] Therefore the side of the crucified etc.\(^1\)

When the cross has been adored, and the aforesaid Anthem and its verses are finished, the priests shall carry the cross back again to the high altar, through the midst of the quire, with the same reverence with which they carried it forth.

Then shall all the clerks come together from the quire to the altar, and the priest shall again put on the chasuble, which he had previously put off, and approach to the step of the altar with deacon and subdeacon, and say the Confession, Almighty God have mercy etc., and the Absolution with the Suffrages, and the Collect, Take away from us, we beseech thee etc., but the kiss of peace is not to be given here.

Then after the sacrifice has been placed upon the altar in the accustomed way and censed, together with an infusion of water and wine in the chalice, after washing his hands, he shall say with reverence in front of the altar, In the spirit of humility etc., kissing the altar, and blessing the sacrifice. Then he shall turn himself and say, Brethren pray etc., in the accustomed way.

Immediately afterwards he shall say in a low voice without note, Let us pray. Admonished by saving precepts etc., with the Lord's prayer, Our Father etc. The quire shall respond, But deliver us from evil. Then shall the priest say, Deliver us, we beseech thee, O Lord, etc., and Graciously give peace etc. In this prayer while the words are said, Through the same etc., he shall break the body of the Lord, as is accustomed to be done on other days. Then shall he say in a low voice without note, World without end, the quire responding, Amen.

Afterwards he shall lower a particle of the host into the chalice as is usual.

The peace of God etc. and O Lamb of God etc. are not said, nor should the pax be given; but the priest should immediately communicate himself, saying, The body of our Lord etc., and at the reception of the body and blood, The body and blood of our Lord Jesus Christ protect us to everlasting life. Amen. with no previous prayer.

GOOD FRIDAY.

Then after washing of hands they shall say vespers, not chanting them, but saying them two by two privately before the altar, thus:

Anthem. I will receive the cup of salvation etc.¹

Psalm cxvi, 10. I believed, and therefore etc.²

and the other Anthems, with their Psalms, as on Maundy Thursday.

Anthem. And as they were eating etc.³

Psalm. My soul doth magnify etc.⁴

Then Our Father etc. is said standing, together with the Psalm Have mercy upon me, O God, etc.⁵ at the conclusion of which the priest shall say the Postcommunion audibly, but without note, and without The Lord be with you and Let us pray.

Postcommunion.

We beseech thee, O Lord, to behold this thy family, for which our Lord Jesus Christ was contented to be betrayed into the hands of wicked men, and to suffer death upon the cross. Who now etc.

Thus shall Mass and Vespers be finished together. Neither The Lord be with you nor Let us bless the Lord, nor Depart, the mass is finished, are to be said.

After Vespers are finished the priest shall put off his chasuble, and taking with him one of superior rank,⁶ both being in surplices and barefoot, shall replace the cross in the sepulchre, along with the Lord's Body in the pyx, himself alone commencing the Responsory:

I am counted as one of them that go down into the pit: and I have been even as a man that hath no strength, free among the dead.⁷

² Ps. cxvi. 10, forming first verse of Ps. cxv. in the Vulgate.
Thou hast laid me in the lowest pit, in a place of darkness, and in the deep.
I have been even etc.

Both shall genuflect at the beginning, and then rise, and similarly in the next Responsory; the quire taking it up with its verse, and kneeling continuously to the end of the service.

Then when the sepulchre has been censed, and the door shut, the same priest shall begin the Responsory:

The Lord being buried, the sepulchre was sealed: rolling a stone to the door of the sepulchre: setting soldiers to watch it.
Lest peradventure his disciples should come and steal him away, and say unto the people, He is risen from the dead.
Setting soldiers etc.

At each of these three following Anthems the two aforesaid priests shall kneel continuously. Then shall the priest begin the Anthem:

I will lay me down in peace and take my rest: for it is thou, Lord, only that makest me dwell in safety.

Also the following Anthem:
At Salem is his tabernacle, and his dwelling in Sion.

Also the following Anthem:
My flesh also shall rest in hope.

When these Anthems are finished, and prayers have been said at pleasure by all, secretly, with genuflection, all others shall go back, as they please, in no fixed order; but the priest shall put on his chasuble again, and depart in the same order with which he went up at the beginning of the service, attended by deacon and subdeacon, and the other ministers of the altar.

From that time one wax candle at least shall burn continually before the sepulchre, until the procession of the Lord's Resurrection on Easter Day, only to be extinguished when the Psalm, Blessed be the Lord God of Israel etc., and the rest which follows it, is sung on the next night. In the same way it is to be extinguished on the vigil of Easter, when the new fire is blessed, until the Paschal candle, thirty-six feet in height, is lighted.

Easter Even.

First of all, the blessing of the fire shall be performed, by the officiant, vested in his sacerdotal vestments, with a silk cope, the deacon being vested in a dalmatic, the sub-deacon in a tunicle, and the other ministers of the altar in albs and amices. They are to have neither light, nor candles, nor cross, nor fire in the censer. Also some one of the first rank, vested in a surplice, bearing an extinguished wax taper upon a spear, preceding the procession, walking after the bearer of holy water, shall advance processionally through the midst of the quire for the blessing of the new fire, the members of the quire following him without change of habit. They shall proceed to a pillar on the south side of the church, close to the font, where the officiating priest shall bless the fire which is there to be kindled, in the midst between two columns. On the way thither the Psalm, The Lord is my light and my salvation etc., is to be said, without note, and without Glory be to the Father etc.

The station at the fire is to be arranged thus. The priest is to stand close to the fire, facing eastwards, with the deacon on his left, and the subdeacon on the left of the deacon. One candle-bearer is to stand opposite the priest, and at the right of the candle-bearer, nearer to the priest, shall stand a boy, holding a book. Another candle-bearer shall stand behind the priest. The water-bearer shall stand at the right of the same candle-bearer, closer to the priest; and in the hindmost place of all, on the west, shall stand the bearer of the spear, with the wax taper. The thurifer shall stand at the south side of the fire, for the purpose of receiving fire in the censer after the blessing thereof; all these ministers facing the priest, while the quire is congregated together on the north side.

Then shall follow the solemn blessing of the fire by the priest thus:

The Lord be with you.
Let us pray.

O Lord our God, Father almighty, unfailing light, maker of all lights, hear us, thy servants, and bless this fire which is consecrated by thy sanctifying benediction; do thou, who lightest every man that cometh into this world, enlighten the consciences of our hearts with the fire of thy love; that we being inflamed by thy fire, and illuminated by thy light, and having the darkness of sin expelled from our hearts, may by thy guiding light be deemed worthy to come to light eternal; and as thou madest fire to shine for thy servant Moses by the pillar of fire advancing through the red sea, so enkindle our light, and let the candle which shall be lit thereat, ever remain blessed in honour of thy majesty; and whosoever shall bear light from it, let him be illuminated by the light of spiritual grace. Through etc.

All these Collects are said with Let us pray in the tone of a Lesson. At this point holy water shall be sprinkled over the fire. Then shall be said:

The Lord be with you.
Let us pray.

Collect.

O Lord, holy Father, almighty ever-living God, vouchsafe to bless and sanctify this fire, which we unworthy presume to bless, through the invocation of thy only-begotten Son, our Lord Jesus Christ. Do thou, most merciful Father, hallow it with thy blessing, and grant that it may conduce to the profit of the human race.
Through etc.

Collect.

Prevent us, O Lord, we beseech thee always, here and everywhere, with thy heavenly light, that we may both discern with clear vision and receive with worthy effect the mystery whereof thou hast willed us to be partakers.
Through etc.

Then shall follow the blessing of the incense

I exorcise thee, most unclean spirit, and every illusion of the enemy, in the name of God the Father-almighty, and in the name of Jesus Christ his Son, and in the power of the Holy Ghost, that thou shouldest depart and withdraw from this creature of frankincense or incense with all thy deceitfulness and guile; that this creature may be sanctified in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that all who taste, or touch, or smell it, may receive the virtue and aid of the Holy Ghost, that wheresoever this incense or frankincense shall be, there thou shalt in no wise dare to approach, nor presume to raise opposition;
but whosoever thou art, O thou unclean spirit, thou shalt flee far hence and depart, adjured by the name and power of God the Father almighty, and of his Son, our Lord Jesus Christ, who shall come in the Holy Spirit to judge the quick and the dead, and thee, the false accuser, and the world, by fire.

Collect.

We beseech thy everlasting and most righteous loving-kindness, O Lord, holy Father, almighty everlasting God,

1 Thymiamatis sive incensi.
that thou wouldest vouchsafe to bless and sanctify this species of frankincense or incense, that it may be an incense acceptable to thy divine majesty for a sweet savour; let this species be blessed by thee; let it be sanctified by the invocation of thy holy name, so that wheresoever the fumes thereof shall reach, every kind of evil spirit may be cast out and put to flight; even as with the incense of the fish’s liver, which the archangel Raphael shewed thy servant Tobias, when he went to set Sara free.1 Through etc.

Collect.

May thy blessing, O Lord, descend upon this species of incense or frankincense, as on that of which thy prophet David sang, saying, Let my prayer be set forth in thy sight as the incense;2 let it be unto us an odour of comfort, sweetness, and grace; that by its fumes every illusion of the enemy, of mind and body, may be put to flight; that we may be, in the words of the apostle Paul, a sweet savour unto God.3 Before the face of this incense or frankincense let every assault of devils flee away, as dust before the face of the wind, and as smoke before the face of the fire. And grant, most holy Father, that this incense of sweet savour may abide for ever for the aid of thy Church, and for the cause of religion, that by mystic signification the fragrant odour may shew forth to us the sweetness of spiritual virtues. Therefore, we beseech thee, almighty God, by the illimitable right hand of thy majesty, that thou wouldst deign to bless this creature compounded of a mixture of various things, that wherever the smoke of its sweet scent shall spread abroad, it may miraculously prevail, in virtue of thy holy name, to put to flight all phantastical assaults of unclean spirits, and to drive away all diseases, and to restore health, and with most fragrant odour to diffuse its sweet smell before thee for evermore. Through etc.

1 Tobit, vi. 7.
2 Ps. cxli. 2.
3 Eph. v. 2.
After the blessing of the incense a censer shall be filled with coals together with incense, and the new fire shall be censed. Then shall the taper on the spear alone be lit from the new fire, the other lights in the church having been first extinguished. Then the procession shall return to the quire in the accustomed order. While returning, two clerks of the second rank in surplices shall sing this Hymn, Thou leader kind, etc. The first verse is to be repeated by the quire after each verse. While the aforesaid clerks sing their verse they are to be standing still, while the quire moves on; and while the quire is singing the first verse the clerks are to be moving forward. The same rule is to be observed when Thou, the holy angels' king is sung with its verses.

Thou leader kind, whose word called forth the radiant light,
Who by set bounds dividest night and day,
When the sun set, in gloom rose chaos on our sight:
Give back, O Christ, Thy light, Thy servants pray.

Although, with countless stars and with the silvery tint
Of lunar lamp, thou dost the heavens dye,
Yet dost thou teach us how, by sudden stroke of flint,
The rock-born seed of light to vivify.

Thou leader kind, etc.

Lest man forget the hope for man of heavenly light,
That in Christ's body lies a hidden thing;
Who willed to be called the steadfast Rock of might,
Whence by our little sparks our race should spring.

Thou leader kind, etc.

So in that room, O Lord, Thou didst thy gifts display—
To wit, the flickering tongues that flame-like fall;
Till then obscur'd and lost, new light brings back the day,
And vanquished night withdraws her riven pall.

Thou leader kind, etc.
Through whom thy honour, praise, and wisdom all divine,
Majesty, goodness, mercy, shine and blend:
And to maintain thy realm in threefold might combine,
Knitting time now with time that cannot end.

Then shall follow the Blessing of the Paschal Candle by the deacon, vested as for a procession, facing north, and standing at the step of the quire, accompanied by two candle-bearers, one on his right hand, one on his left, both turning towards him, and holding unlighted candles. The sub-deacon shall stand opposite to him, and close to the subdeacon the bearer of the spear, turning towards him in the same way. The thurifer shall stand behind the deacon, while the deacon chants as follows:

Now let the angelic host of heaven exult, let the divine mysteries be celebrated with exultation, and let the trumpet of salvation sound for the victory of so great a King.

Let the earth rejoice, irradiated with so great brilliancy, and illuminated by the splendour of the eternal King, let it perceive the darkness of the universe to have been done away.

Let mother church also be joyful, adorned with the brilliancy of so great a light, and let this court resound with the mighty voices of peoples.

Wherefore, most dearly beloved brethren, as ye stand before the so wonderful brilliancy of this holy light, I beseech you invoke along with me the tender mercy of almighty God;

That he who hath deigned to enrol me, not for mine own merits, within the number of the Levites, pouring forth upon me the grace of his light, may cause me to declare fully the praise of this taper.

Through our Lord Jesus Christ his Son, who with him liveth and reigneth God in the unity of the Holy Ghost.

V. World without end.
R. Amen.
V. The Lord be with you.
R. And with thy spirit.
V. Lift up your hearts.
R. We lift them up unto the Lord.
V. Let us give thanks unto our Lord God.
R. It is meet and right so to do.

Because it is very meet and right to proclaim with full desire of heart and mind, and through the instrumentality of the voice, the invisible God almighty, the Father, and his only-begotten Son, our Lord Jesus Christ, together with the Holy Ghost.

Who paid for us the debt of Adam to the eternal Father, and blotted out the bond of the old sin by his holy blood.

For this is the Paschal feast, in which that true Lamb is slain, and the door-posts are consecrated by his blood.

This is the night in which thou first madest our fathers, the children of Israel, whom thou ledest up out of Egypt, to pass through the Red Sea dry-shod.

This, therefore, is the night in which he cleared away the shades of sin by the pillar of light.

This is the night which, as at this day, sets apart from the vices of this world and from the darkness of sin, and restores to grace, and unites in sanctity the believers in Christ throughout the whole world.

This is the night in which Christ burst the bonds of death, and rose a conqueror from the grave.

For it had advantaged us nothing to be born except we had the advantage of redemption.

O marvellous condescension of thy loving-kindness concerning us!
O inestimable tenderness of love! thou gavest up thy Son to redeem thy servant.
O truly necessary sin of Adam and of ourselves, which was blotted out by the death of Christ!
O happy guilt, the desert of which was to gain such and so great a Redeemer!
O truly blessed night, to the desert of which alone was granted to know the time and the hour in which Christ rose from the grave!
This is the night of which it was written, And the night is as clear as the day, and, Then shall my night be turned to day.
Therefore, the hallowing of this night putteth wickedness to flight, washeth away sins, and restoreth innocency to the fallen, and joy to the sorrowful; it banisheth hatred, and prepareth peace, and maketh sovereignties to yield.
Therefore, in favour of this night, receive, O holy Father,

Here the deacon shall put incense into the candle or into the candlestick in the form of a cross; and in the same way into the small candle, the bearer thereof approaching with it.

the evening sacrifice of this incense,

Which the holy church offereth to thee by the hands of her ministers in this solemn oblation of wax, the work of the bee.

But now we know the praise of this pillar, which the glowing fire kindleth to the honour of God.

At this point the candle shall be lit from the new fire, and not be extinguished till after Compline on the day following. And the Paschal candle shall burn continuously throughout Easter week at Matins, and at Mass, and at Vespers; and likewise on the Octave of Easter. But on all Sundays from the Octave of Easter until Ascension Day it shall be lit at 1 Ps. cxxxix. 11.

2 Ib. 10.
Mass only, as well as on the feasts of St. Mark the Evangelist, and of SS. Philip and James the Apostles. On the Annunciation of the Blessed Mary, and on the Invention of the Holy Cross it shall be lighted as on the Octave of Easter.

Then shall the candle-bearers light their candles throughout the church.

Which although it be divided into parts of borrowed light, knoweth not loss. It is fed by the liquid wax which the queen bee produced for the composition of this precious taper.¹

O blessed night, which spoiled the Egyptians, and enriched the Hebrews! Night in which heavenly things are united to earthly.

We beseech thee, O Lord, that this candle, consecrated to the honour of thy name, may last unfailing for dispelling the darkness of this night.

Being accepted for its sweet odour, let it be mingled with the lights above.

May the Morning Star find it burning,

That Morning Star, I say, who knoweth no setting;

He who returned from the grave and shone serene upon mankind.

We, therefore, pray thee, O Lord, that thou wouldest grant unto us thy servants, all the clergy, and the most devout people, together with our father pope N, and our king N, and also our bishop N, that in quietness of time we may keep our paschal joy,

Who ever livest, reignest, rulest, and also art glorified, God alone, alone the most highest, O Jesus Christ, with the Holy Spirit in the glory of God the Father.

When the blessing of the Paschal candle has been finished, the priest who is going to conclude the Office, vested in his chasuble, shall go to the high altar with his ministers, without saying the confession, but only Our Father, etc. Then having kissed the altar, he shall proceed, with his ministers, to sit down. The candle on the spear shall depart; but a minister shall bring another candle to the left side of the altar, and shall stand on the step, facing south, until the Seven-fold Litany is finished.

The candle-stick, with the Paschal candle, should be taken away on the Friday after Ascension Day.

Afterwards the lessons shall be read, without titles, by persons of higher rank, on the step of the quire.

First Lesson. Gen. i.—ii. 2.

In the beginning . . . which he had made.

All Collects are said without The Lord be with you and without Let us kneel. Rise is said, but only with Let us pray.

And it came to pass . . . and spake, saying.

All Tracts are said by the quire alternately, except the last Tract, namely, O praise the Lord, all ye heathen, etc.

Tract.

I will sing unto the Lord, for he hath triumphed gloriously; the horse and his rider hath he thrown into the sea. The Lord is my strength and my song, and he is become my salvation.¹

He is my God, and I will prepare him an habitation; my father's God, and I will exalt him.²

The Lord is a man of war; the Lord is his name.³

Let us pray.

Collect.

God, whose ancient miracles we perceive to cast their beams even on our age; because while thou didst stretch out the right hand of thy power to deliver one people from Egyptian persecution, thou dost turn it to the working out of the salvation of the gentiles through the water of regeneration; grant, we beseech thee, that the fulness of the whole world may become the sons of Abraham, and succeed to the dignity of Israel. Through etc.

Third Lesson. Is. iv.

And in that day . . . and from rain.

Tract.

My well-beloved hath a vineyard in a very fruitful hill.¹

Ye. And he fenced it, and gathered out the stones thereof, and planted it with the choicest vine, and built a tower in the midst of it.²

Ye. And also made a winepress therein; for the vineyard of the Lord of Hosts is the house of Israel.³

Let us pray.

Collect.

God, who in the pages of both testaments hast instructed us in the celebration of the Paschal sacrament, give unto us such a sense of thy mercies, that out of our reception of thy present gifts there may arise a firm expectation of gifts to come. Through etc.

Moses therefore wrote . . . they were ended.

Tract.

Give ear, O ye heavens, and I will speak; and hear, O earth, the words of my mouth.¹

My doctrine shall drop as the rain, my speech shall distil as the dew, as the small rain upon the tender herbs,²

Ascribe ye greatness unto our God. His work is perfect; for all his ways are judgment.⁴

A God of truth, and without iniquity; just and holy is the Lord.⁵

Collect.

God, who dost ever multiply thy Church by the calling of the gentiles, mercifully grant that those who are washed by thee in the water of baptism may be defended by thy continual protection. Through etc.

This Collect is not followed by a Lesson, but by a Tract.

Tract.

Like as the hart desireth the water-brooks, so longeth my soul after thee, O God.⁶

My soul is athirst for God, yea, even for the living God: when shall I come to appear before the presence of God?⁷

My tears have been my meat day and night; while they daily say unto me, Where is now thy God?⁸

Then shall follow two Collects, united under one Let us pray.⁹

¹ Deut. xxxii. 1. ² lb. 2. ³ lb. 2 (with difference), 3. ⁴ lb. 3, 4 (partly). ⁵ lb. 4. ⁶ Ps. xlii. 1. ⁷ lb. 2. ⁸ lb. 3. ⁹ The Rubric adds “sub uno Per Dominum,” which we have omitted, as it does not seem to be the case.
Collect.

Grant, we beseech thee, almighty God, that we who keep this Paschal feast may be kindled with heavenly desires, and may thirst after the fount of life, Jesus Christ, thy Son, our Lord. Who livest etc.

Almighty everlasting God, look graciously upon the devotion of thy people, as they are born again, and as, like the hart, they seek the fountain of waters; and mercifully grant that the thirst of their faith may sanctify their souls and bodies in the mystery of baptism. Through etc.

Then shall follow the Sevenfold Litany, which is said in the midst of the quire by seven boys in surplices; meanwhile, the priest shall put off his chasuble, and put on a red silk cope, still standing before the altar, until the Litany has been sung through.

In these two Litanies, neither Father of heaven, nor Son, Redeemer of the world, nor Holy Ghost, God, nor Holy Trinity, one God, are said.

Pope Gelasius assigns as a reason for these omissions that Christ lay in the grave until the third day.¹

The station at the font on the west side is to be made in this order until the Litany is sung through. The priest is to stand at the step of the font, on the west. Behind him are to stand five deacons singing the Litany. Then on another step of the font, on the east, will stand the boy carrying the book; then the deacon, then the subdeacon, then the oil and the chrism, ¹ This rubric has been abbreviated from the corrupt Latin text, which runs thus:

Item Gelasius Papa ostendit dicens; Quia ipse qui Pater et Filius et Spiritus Sanctus, una persona in Trinitate et tres personæ in Unitate, et in sepolcho se custodiri mittitur, omnino dicit adhuc surrexerat a mortuis qui voluit prophetiam implere, sed jacuit in sepolcho usque ad tertium diem, quod bene istæ predictæ quatuor clausulae in his Letaniis possent præterminniti.
then the bearer of the font candle, then the thurifer, then the oil; then the candle-bearer, then two acolytes carrying the cross, all alike facing east.

The position of the assistant ministers with reference to the celebrant, who is to face eastward in blessing the font, will be as follows. The deacon shall stand next to the priest on the right, the subdeacon on the left. The attendant bearing the chrism shall stand next the deacon, and the cross-bearer opposite the priest, but facing him. Next to him in the same way shall stand two candle-bearers, behind the candle-bearer and the thurifer. He who carries the candle (for the font) shall stand between the deacon and the chrism; and the boy who carries the book, between the sub-deacon and the oil. The bishop, if he be present, shall stand behind those who sing the Litany, occupying, as in other processions, the last place.

Then the officiant at the font shall begin as follows:

\( \textit{V.} \) The Lord be with you.
\( \textit{R.} \) And with thy spirit.

Let us pray.

Almighty everlasting God, be present at the mysteries of thy great goodness, be present at thy sacraments, and send forth the spirit of adoption, for the re-creation of the new people, whom the font of baptism brings forth for thee; that whatsoever is to be done by our humble ministry may be fulfilled by the effectual working of thy power.

\( \textit{He shall proceed as follows:} \)

Through our Lord Jesus Christ, thy Son, who liveth and reigneth with thee in the unity of the Holy Ghost, God, \( \textit{V.} \) World without end.
\( \textit{R.} \) Amen.

\(^1\) These words seem to be superfluous. The reading is probably corrupt.
\(^2\) \textit{cereferarium}, apparently an error for 'cross-bearer.'
The Lord be with you.
And with thy spirit.
Lift up your hearts.
We lift them up unto the Lord.
Let us give thanks unto our Lord God.
It is meet and right so to do.
It is very meet, right, and our bounden duty, that we should at all times and in all places, give thanks unto thee, O Lord, holy Father, almighty everlasting God, who by thy invisible power dost wonderfully work out the effect of thy sacraments.

And although we be unworthy to perform so great mysteries, yet do not thou leave us desolate of thy gifts of grace, but incline thy merciful ear to our prayers.

O God, whose Spirit moved upon the face of the waters at the very beginning of the world, so that even then nature conceived the power of the sanctification of water:

O God, who by washing away the crimes of a guilty world through water didst signify a kind of regeneration in the downpour of the deluge, so that by the mystery of one and the same element, there should be both an end of vice and a source of virtue:

Look down, we beseech thee, O Lord, upon the face of thy Church, and multiply thy acts of regeneration in her. Thou who by the power of thy grace outpoured dost gladden thy city, and openest the font of baptism for the calling in of the gentiles throughout the whole world, that at the command of thy majesty it may receive the grace of thy Only-begotten of the Holy Spirit:

Here he shall divide the water with his hand in the form of a cross.

May he fertilize this water prepared for the regeneration of man by the secret admixture of his light, that by a holy conception a heavenly offspring may come forth from the spotless womb of the divine font as a new creature, and may all who differ in sex or age be begotten by parent grace into one and the same infancy. Wherefore, at thy command, O Lord, let every unclean spirit depart far hence, let the whole malice and fraud of the devil stand afar off. Let the intermixture of the power of the enemy have no place here, nor creep in surreptitiously, nor corrupt and poison.

Let this creature be holy and innocent, free from all assault of the adversary, and justified by the departure of all wickedness. Let it be a living + font, a regenerating + water, a purifying + stream; so that all who are to be washed in this laver of salvation may obtain the favour of perfect purification, through the operation in them of the Holy Spirit.

Therefore, I bless thee, O creature of water, by the living + God, by the true + God, by the holy + God, by the God who in the beginning did divide thee by his word from the dry land, whose Spirit moved upon thee, who made thee to flow out of paradise, and commanded thee to water the whole earth in four rivers:

Here shall the priest cast water with his hand out of the font into the four quarters.

Who, when thou wast bitter in the wilderness, infused sweetness into thee, and made thee meet to drink, and brought thee forth from the rock for the thirsty people.

I bless thee through Jesus Christ, his only Son, our Lord, who in Cana of Galilee by a wonderful miracle through his own power changed thee into wine.

Who did walk upon thee with his feet, and was baptized in thee by John in the river Jordan. Who did bring thee forth out of his side together with blood, and commanded his disciples that believers should be baptized in thee, saying, Go ye, teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Here he shall change his tone, as it were, reading. Do thou, almighty and merciful God, be present with us as we keep these precepts; do thou graciously breathe upon us. _Here he shall breathe upon the font thrice in the form of a cross._ Do thou with thy mouth bless these clear waters, that beside their natural cleansing power over the bodies which may be washed therein, they may also be effectual to the purifying of souls. _Here he shall cause drops from the candle to fall into the font in the form of a cross, and then say:_ Let the power of the Holy Ghost descend into this font, and into the fulness thereof, and make the whole substance of this water fruitful in regenerating power. _Here he shall dip the candle into the midst of the font, making the sign of the cross, and then proceed:_ Here let the stains of all sins be blotted out; here let nature, formed after thine own image, and reformed to the honour of its author, be cleansed from all the filthiness of the old man, _here the candle shall be taken out of the font with these words:_ that every man that approacheth this sacrament of regeneration may be born again into a new infancy of true innocence. Through our Lord Jesus Christ, thy Son. Who livest and reigneth with thee, in the unity of the Holy Ghost, God for ever and ever. Amen.

_At the consecration of the font, no oil or chrism is to be poured in, unless there is someone to be baptized._ The blessing of the font being ended, three clerks of the higher rank, vested in silk copes, shall chant this Litany, and the quire shall repeat the first two lines after each verse.

_Thou, the holy angels’ king,_
Succour to the whole world bring.
Of the Branch thou virgin mother, thee for us we first bid pray,
Thee and those high angel orders, who the Father’s hest obey.
_Quire._ Thou, the holy angels’ king, etc.
_O ye armies apostolick, plead with Christ the royal Lord,_
Plead ye suppliant, mighty martyrs, plead ye by your blood outpoured.
Quire. Thou, the holy angels’ king, etc.
Make entreaty, meek confessors, and ye virgins swell the sound,
That for us by God’s free mercy, times of pardon may abound.
Quire. Thou, the holy angels’ king, etc.
All ye holy men and righteous, we with prayers before you fall,
That the guilt by your imploring may be purged of one and all.
Quire. Thou, the holy angels’ king, etc.
Christ, kind shepherd, hear thy people’s craving, thou who didst create,
Primal germ, in things created leaving power to generate.
Quire. Thou, the holy angels’ king, etc.
Holy Spirit, thou co-equal with the Father and the Son,
Make us love thee only ever while unending ages run.
Quire. Thou, the holy angels’ king, etc.

When the Litany Thou, the holy angels’ king, etc. is finished, Mass shall be begun, solemnly, by the precentor, without rulers of the quire, with Lord have mercy etc. in the chant O light, source of the highest light, etc.,1 without the verses. Meanwhile, having put on his chasuble, the priest shall say, at the altar, the Confession, May almighty God have mercy, and the Absolution, with the Suffrages, and the Collect, Take away from us, we beseech thee, O Lord, etc.,2 in the usual way, but without the kiss of peace. Then he shall cense the altar, and afterwards begin, Glory be to God on high, etc. Then shall all take off their black copes, and genuflect, and all the bells shall be rung together in a clash, while the quire sings the words, and in earth peace, etc. Then shall follow The Lord be with you and Let us pray.

The following Epistle is to be read in the pulpit:

Epistle. Col. iii. 1—4.

If ye then be risen . . . in glory.

After the Epistle has been read, two clerks of the second rank, in silk copes, shall sing the Alleluya in the pulpit. The quire shall repeat after them the Alleluya, and the clerks shall sing the verse, \(\psi\). O give thanks unto the Lord, for he is gracious: because his mercy endureth for ever.\(^2\)

The quire shall end it with the cadence.\(^3\) Then the clerks shall repeat the Alleluya without a cadence. Then shall follow the Tract, which shall be sung, whole and entire, by two clerks of the second rank, in black copes, at the step of the quire, the quire meanwhile remaining seated.

Tract.

O praise the Lord, all ye heathen: praise him, all ye nations.

\(\psi\). For his merciful kindness is ever more and more towards us: and the truth of the Lord endureth for ever.\(^4\)

Meanwhile the deacon shall proceed with the sub-deacon, through the midst of the quire, after the accustomed manner, without the cross, to read the Gospel, two candle-bearers preceding him with extinguished lights. And the Gospel shall be read in the pulpit, as on Sundays.

In the end of the sabbath . . . I have told you.

The Creed is not said, but after the Gospel there follow: The Lord be with you and Let us pray. No Offertory is said.

Secret.

Receive, we beseech thee, O Lord, the prayers of thy people with the oblation of these sacrifices, that being consecrated in the Paschal mysteries, they may by thy help avail to thy eternal welfare. Through etc.

Preface.

And thee indeed at all seasons, but most chiefly on this night; etc.

[Within the Canon.]

In communion with and celebrating the most holy night, etc. and This oblation therefore, etc.

This Preface is said through the whole of Easter week; and on all Sundays up to Ascension Day, when the Mass is of the Resurrection. But the In communion with etc. and This oblation therefore, etc. are only said throughout Easter week, and on the Octave of Easter Day. On this day the Sanctus is said solemnly, the priest saying, The peace of the Lord be with you always, and the quire responding And with thy spirit. The Agnus Dei is not said, nor is the Pax given; but after an interval festal Vespers shall be begun without rulers of the quire, without ringing of bells, and without O God, make speed to save us. One of the higher rank shall commence thus, on behalf of the quire:

Alleluya.

Psalm.

For his merciful kindness is ever more and more towards us: and the truth of the Lord endureth for ever.\(^1\)
Glory be to the Father, etc.
As it was in the beginning etc.

Anthem, in full.

After this, the Anthem to Magnificat shall be begun at once by one of the upper grade next in rank after the celebrant; but it is not to be chanted through by the quire before the Psalm is intoned. Neither the altar nor the quire is to be censed.

Anthem.

In the end of the sabbath, as it began to dawn toward the first day of the week, came Mary Magdalene and the other Mary to see the sepulchre.\(^2\) Alleluya.

Psalm. Magnificat.\(^3\)

After the Anthem has been repeated the priest shall say, The Lord be with you and Let us pray.

Collect.

Pour upon us, O Lord, the spirit of thy love, that they whom thou hast satisfied with the Paschal sacrament, may through thy goodness be made to be of one mind. Through etc.

Thus mass and vespers shall be finished together, the deacon saying, Depart, the mass is finished, with the tone of the Alleluya.

Easter Day.\(^4\)

On Easter Day before mass and the ringing of the bells the clerks shall assemble at the church, and all the lights shall be lit throughout the church. Two clerks of higher rank, with candle-bearers, thurifers, and the clergy around them, shall go to the sepulchre, and after first censing the sepulchre with great veneration, that is to say, with genuflection, they shall speedily and with privacy place the body of the Lord upon the altar. Then they shall take again the cross out of the sepulchre, and some person of superior rank shall begin the anthem, Christ being raised, etc. Therewith the procession shall advance by the south door of the presbytery through the middle of the quire. The cross which has been raised from the sepulchre is to be reverently borne on their arms by the two priests aforesaid, with thurifers and candle-bearers preceding them, through the north door of the presbytery to an altar on the north-side of the church, those of higher rank advancing first, and the quire not changing their dress. The Lord's body, which has been placed in a pyx on the altar, shall be left in the custody of the sub-treasurer, who shall suspend it in the aforesaid pyx within the tabernacle. Then all the bells shall be rung in a clash, and this anthem shall be sung.

Anthem.

Christ being raised from the dead dieth no more; death hath no more dominion over him; for in that he liveth, he liveth unto God. Alleluia. Alleluia.

Y. Now let the Jews declare how the soldiers who guarded the sepulchre lost the king when the stone was placed, wherefore they kept not the rock of righteousness; let them either produce him buried, or adore him rising, saying with us, (the quire shall answer thus) Alleluia, alleluia.

When the anthem with its verse has been finished by the whole quire, the person of highest rank, at the station, shall turn to the altar, and begin this verse:

Y. The Lord is risen from the grave.
K. Who hung for us upon the tree.

1 Rom. vi. 9, 10.
Let us pray.

O God, who didst will thy Son to suffer death upon the cross for us, that thou mightest cast out of us the power of the enemy, grant unto us thy servants that we may ever live in the joy of his resurrection. Through etc.

The Lord be with you is neither to precede nor follow this collect.

When the collect is finished all shall genuflect with joy in the same place, and adore the cross, especially those of higher rank, and then they shall return quietly, without procession, to the quire. After this all the crosses and all the images shall be uncovered throughout the church, and the bells shall be rung for matins, in the usual way. On this day there shall be no procession to the cross at matins, as on other days.

On Easter Day, and on all Sundays from now until the Feast of Trinity, this anthem shall be sung at the sprinkling of water, namely:

Anthem.

I saw waters issuing out of the temple on the right hand. Alleluia.

And all those unto whom that water shall come shall live. And they shall say, Alleluia, Alleluia.

Psalm.

O give thanks unto the Lord, for he is gracious: because his mercy endureth for ever.¹

I saw water etc.

Glory be to the Father, etc.

And all those etc.

On this day, after sext has been sung, and holy water sprinkled, a procession shall be ordered to the step of the quire, as on Christmas Day, with a water-bearer, three crosses, two candle-bearers, and two thurifers, and sub-deacon and deacon, each carrying a gospel-book; and the procession shall advance

through the midst of the quire and the church, going round both the church and the cloisters. First of all, three clerks of higher rank shall begin the prose in the quire, in the following way:

Hail, festal day, whose glory never ends,
Now hell is vanquished, Christ to heaven ascend.

The quire shall repeat these two lines after each verse, the precentor commencing with Hail, festal day. Whenever Hail, festal day is said, the first verse should be sung through by the clerks aforesaid in the midst of the quire, before the procession sets forward.

All nature, with new births of beauty gay,
Acknowledges her Lord's return to-day.

Hail, festal day, etc.

The Crucified is King; creation's prayer
To its Creator rises everywhere.

Hail, festal day, etc.

Let what thou promisedst, fair Power, be done;
The third day shines; arise, O buried One.

Hail, festal day, etc.

It cannot be that Joseph's sepulchre
Should keep the whole world's Ransom, prisoner.

Hail, festal day, etc.

No rock of stone his passage can withstand,
Who gathers all the world within his hand.

Hail, festal day, etc.

Leave to the grave thy grave-clothes; let them fall:
Without thee we have naught, and with thee all.

Hail, festal day, etc.

Bring back the day—thy dying made it night—
That ages in thy face may see the light.

Hail, festal day, etc.
Thy rescued are like sand beside the sea,
And where their Saviour goes, they follow free.
Hail, festal day, etc.

The law of death has ceased the world to blight,
And darkness quails before the face of light.
Hail, festal day, etc.¹

In returning as far as the cross in the church, by the same door by which the procession set forth, this anthem shall be said, the precentor commencing, in this manner:

An angel stood at the sepulchre of the Lord, clad in shining raiment: the women beholding him, filled with exceeding great terror, stood afar off. Then the angel spake, and said unto them, Fear not, I say unto you, for he whom ye seek among the dead now liveth, and the life of mankind hath risen with him. Alleluia.

Three clerks of higher rank, vested in silk copes, standing in the pulpit, and turning to the people, shall say this verse, in the following manner:

V. Praise him who was crucified in the flesh; and glorify him who was buried on our behalf, and adore him who rose from the dead.
Fear not, etc.

At the entrance to the quire the precentor shall begin the anthem, Christ being raised etc., and it shall be sung through with its verse, by the whole quire, as above.²

⁴ Ps. cxviii. 24. ⁵ Ib. 1. ⁶ ¹ Cor. v. 7.
This day the dawn glows bright above the sun,
Telling how Christ hath fought and glorious victory won.
Jesus hath triumphed o'er the haughty foe
In majesty, and his foul camp laid low.

Unhappy sin of Eve,
Of which all death do reap:
O happy Mary's child,
With whom now feast we keep.

Blest be the Queen, exalted high,
Bearing the King who puissantly
Despoiled hell and reigneth in the sky.
O King for ever, graciously
Accept our heralding of thee,
To thee at God's right hand on high,
Crying aloud incessantly.
Death's power in all lands o'erthrown,
Thou in triumph high art gone
To joys of heaven which are thine own.

O vast, O lovely clemency,
Light-giving boon of Christ on high,
Breathing on us benignantly.
Honour to thee and praise,
Who didst the load upraise
Which burdened our old days.
Brightly gleam the courts of God,
Purchased by the crimson flood

Of the Lamb's most precious blood.
By his mighty virtue he Cleansèd all our misery,
Granting gifts benign and free.
Awestruck, within myself I gaze
Upon the wonders of these days,
That before our unworthy eyes
Such mighty sacraments should rise.
From the root of David springing,
Of Judah's tribe the Lion, thou
Hast arisen, glory bringing,
Who didst seem a Lamb but now.
Thou who laidst the earth's foundations,
Seekest now the realms on high,
To eternal generations
Recompensing righteously.
Prince of evil, wicked fiend,
What avails thy impious lie?
In fiery chains thou art confined
By Christ's glorious victory.
Ye peoples! marvel at the tale!
Whoe'er such miracles hath heard?
That death o'er death should so prevail,
Such grace on sinners be conferr'd!
Judea, unbelieving land,
Look forth, and on the Christians gaze.
See how in joyous crowds they stand,
And chant the blest Redeemer's praise!
Wherefore, O Christ, our holy King,
Loose us from guilt, and pardon bring.
Grant that thy chosen bands with thee
May rise in blest felicity,
And of thy grace rewarded be.
The Holy Paraclete's blest comfort, Lord,
We look for, trusting to thy gracious word,
Soon as Ascension's holy day
In solemn joy hath passed away;
When thou, returning to the skies,
O'ershadow'd by a cloud, to endless praise dost rise.

Sequence.

Purge the old leaven out, that we May welcome with sincerity
   The resurrection new;
This is our hope's expected hour;
Behold this day of mighty power,
   By the Law's witness true:
This day hath spoiled th' Egyptian foe,
And let the Hebrew captives go
   From iron bondage free,
Who, toiling for deliverance, pined
'Midst clay and bricks and straw, confined
   In cruel slavery.
Now let the praise of God most high,
And voices shouting victory,
   Break forth in triumph free;
This is the day the Lord hath made,
This day hath all our grief repaid,
   The day of jubile.

The Law foreshadow’d things to come,
Christ, of all promises the sum,
Doth all things consummate;
The precious blood of Christ outpour’d
Hath wholly quenched the flaming sword,
Unguarded is the gate.
Jesus, who made us laugh for joy,
By Isaac is foreshown, the boy
For whom the ram was slain:
Forth from the pit doth Joseph rise,
So, breaking through death’s iron ties,
Jesus comes back again.
Free from the serpent’s deadly power,
He Pharaoh’s serpents doth devour,
Like Moses’ rod of yore;
To those by fiery serpent’s bite
Wounded, the brazen serpent’s sight
Doth life and health restore.
Piercing his jaw with mystic hook,
Leviathan Christ captive took;
In cockatrice’s den
He, the weaned child, puts in his hand,
Forthwith dismayed he quits the land,
Erst the world’s denizen.
To Bethel when Elisha went,
The mocking tribe, by she-bears rent,
Soon felt the bald-head’s wrath;
David escapes in subtilty,
The scape-goat swiftly speeds away,
The living bird flies forth.
With jaw-bone armed hath Samson slain
A thousand men, and doth not deign
In his own tribe to wed:
From Gaza’s gates he burst the bar,
And bearing posts and doors afar,
To the hill-top he sped;
So from the portals of the grave
The tribe of Judah’s Lion brave,
On the third day doth rise.
When roared the Father's voice on high,
He to our mother in the sky
Bare back the precious prize.
The whale doth Jonah fugitive—
Of Jonah true figurative—
After the third day forth alive
Out of his belly throw:
The clustered grape of Cyprus' vine
Doth swell and bring forth generous wine,
The synagogue's pale blossoms pine,
The Church doth bloom and grow.
'Twixt death and life the fight is done,
The Lord is risen, the victory won,
Witnesses with th' Anointed One,
Rise many saints beneath;
Let the new morning's joyous ray
Clear yester-even's tears away,
It is the time of holy-day,
For life hath vanquished death.
O Jesu! victor, life, we pray,
Jesu, of life the well-trod way,
Whose death hath death abolished,
Deign us with faith assured to lead
Unto the Paschal board.
O living bread! O welling spring!
True fruitful vine! to thee we sing,
Deign us to feed, to cleanse us deign;
From second death and bitter pain
Deliver us, O Lord. Amen.

And, behold, two ... breaking of bread.

Lost souls, that haunt Cocytus' dismal brink,

Smitten with fear and trembling, quake;
Deeply they sigh and wail aloud,
And much they marvel, who so bold

Attuned to proses fit.
For Christ is the meek victim made,
Who on the cross, our loss to aid,
Bare vileness infinite.
He, life abiding evermore,
The pains of death all meekly bore,
And drank the cup of gall;
Sharp words refused not to abide,
Nail-piercèd hands and riven side;
Unmurmuring suffered all.

Descended into hell beneath
And spoiled the ancient foe;

V. Blessed be the name of the Lord: from this time forth for evermore.²

In the same way to be finished by the quire. The Alleluya shall be repeated without the cadence.

Sequence.

Upon the week’s first dawning gray,
The Son of God that blessed day
Our hope and glory rose;
The king of evil and his crew
Vanquished, hell’s portals open threw,
   And triumphed o’er his foes.
He by his resurrection blest,
Throughout the world with joy confess,
   Doth consolation shed.
Harbinger of his rising then,
Right quickly Mary Magdalen
   With her glad tidings sped.
She to Christ’s brethren, grieving sore
That their dear Lord should be no more,
   Did joy long-looked-for bring;
O blessed eyes! which first did see
Set free from death’s captivity
   The world’s almighty King!
This is indeed that woman wailing
At Jesus’ feet, whose grace availing
   Did wash her sins away;

² Ib. 2.
While silent she doth pray and weep
For Christ her Lord, affection deep
   Her actions all display,
Not ignorant whom she worships there,
Nor yet for what should be her prayer,
   Her guilty soul is healed.
O Mary! mother of devotion!
Star thou art callèd of the ocean
   By merit of thy deed!
Made equal to Christ's mother, when
That name thou didst receive from men,
   Far lower is thy meed;
She, the world's mistress glorified;
The sinner, thou, beatified;
The church doth each one welcome in
Of happiness the origin.
The portal, she, through which the light
Upon our darkness dawnd bright:
Thou, herald of thy risen Lord,
Mad'st the world glad in full accord.
O Mary Magdalen! we pray,
Hear thou our joyful vows to-day:
To merit grace, before Christ's face,
   This company commend;
That so the fount of mercy great,
Which washed thee in thy lost estate,
May cleanse us too, his servants true,
And gracious pardon send.

The first day of the week . . . from the dead.

Devoutly worshipping;
Who deigned in flesh to shade
His glorious deity;

3 1 Cor. v. 7.
4 St. Matt. xxviii. 2.
Himself of no repute he made
Us lost ones to set free.
He in a manger lies,
Wrapp'd in his swaddling band,
Grieving o'er their lost Paradise,
Who brake God's high command.
He was to Simeon's sight
By Mary's arms conveyed;
And circumcision's holy rite
Unmurmuringly obeyed.
Cleansing he doth receive
By legal offering pure,
Who sinners doth himself reprieve
And of release assure;
Permits his servant's hands
His Master to baptize,
The glozing tempter's wiles withstands,
Stones cast in hatred flies;
God-man, most meek, most high,
Sleeps weary, hath no meat,
Pours forth sad tears in charity,
Washes his servants' feet.
Yet through these lowly signs
Of poor humanity,
Brightly by works and doctrine shines
His present deity.
To grace the nuptial board
Water he turned to wine,
To blinded eyes he light restored,
Clad with a light divine.
Touch'd by his finger fled
The leper's foul disease;
He from corruption raised the dead,
And gave the palsied, ease.
He with five loaves of bread
Five thousand satisfied,
On water, as on land, did tread,
The wild winds pacified.
The stammering tongue he freed,
The fevers drove away;
Ears, taught once more the voice to hear,
Attest his mighty sway.
When 'midst such wondrous signs
His days were gliding by,
He to vile hands himself resigns,
Condemned unrighteously.
Upon the cross to die
He patiently did brook,
But on his death with darkened eye
The sun refused to look.
The day the Lord hath made
Scarce on the world had shone,
When he to loving hearts conveyed
Tidings of victory won.
His voice first Mary hears,
Next, to th' apostles' hearts,
His word the opened scripture clears,
And hidden truths imparts.
Therefore with one accord
Creation doth rejoice,
And welcome back the risen Lord
With gratulating voice.

The flowers, the fruitful fields,
With new-born freshness spring,
Touched by new warmth, the keen frost yields,
And birds their paeans sing.
O'ercast with sudden shade
Of gloom at Jesus' death,
The sun and moon, now glorious made,
Illumine all beneath.
Fair earth from hill and dell
Doth Christ with joy accost,
Which trembled, threatening ruin fell,
When he gave up the ghost.
Exult we on that day
When Jesus rose again,
And opened wide the living way
   By which our life we gain.
Let stars, earth, heaven, rejoice,
   And all the quires on high
Upraise their glorifying voice,
   To praise the Trinity.

_At Mass._

As new-born babes, alleluya, as reasonable beings desire the sincere milk of the word.² Alleluya, alleluya.

_Ps._ Sing we merrily unto God our strength: make a cheerful noise unto the God of Jacob.³

_Neither Glory be to God on high etc. nor Depart, the Mass is finished are to be said on ferial days throughout the year when the Mass is of the feria._

_Collect._

Grant, we beseech thee, almighty God, that we who have fulfilled the Paschal feast, may by thy bounty hold it fast in our life and actions. Through etc.

¹ = _R._ Mass for Low Sunday, so called from being a reflection of the glories of Easter Day. The _R._ name is _Dominica in albis, i.e., in albis depositis_, it being the last day on which the white dresses of the newly-baptized were anciently worn.

² 1 Pet. ii. 2. ³ Ps. lxxxi. 1. ⁴ A curiously-placed rubric.
On all ferial days in the Paschal season, and on all feasts of three lessons without ruling of the quire, three Collects are said, as has been previously laid down under the first Sunday in Advent.¹

Epistle.  1 St. John, v. 4—10.
Whatsoever is born . . . witness in himself.

In the place of a Gradual shall be said the following:

Alleluya.  V. After eight days Jesus came, the doors being shut, and stood in the midst of his disciples, and said, Peace be unto you.²

Alleluya.  V. The angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled back the stone, and sat upon it.³

Another V.
The angel answered, and said unto the women, Whom seek ye? But they said, Jesus of Nazareth.⁴

These two verses are said alternately throughout the week, provided that the verse The angel answered etc. is said first at a ferial mass. If there should be no vacancy for a ferial mass throughout the week, then the last verse should be omitted altogether in that year.

And be it noted that throughout the same time two Alleluyas are said every day at mass, whatsoever the service may be, except on the Vigils of Easter, Ascension, and Pentecost, and except at masses which are said with a procession.

The same day . . . through his name.

Offertory.

It is to be observed that on all feasts with rulers of the quire from the Octave of Easter until Ascension Day, the second Alleluya shall be one of the following: after which those for Easter week shall be recommenced, viz., those for the third, fourth, and fifth days of the week in order. When these have

Alleluia. ¶. Christ being raised from the dead dieth no more; death hath no more dominion over him.³

Alleluia. ¶. The most high hath risen from the grave, who hung for us upon the tree.⁴

Alleluia. ¶. Christ hath risen, and hath shined on his people, whom he himself hath redeemed with his blood.⁵

Alleluia. ¶. Christ died for our sins, and rose again for our justification.⁶

Alleluia. ¶. Jesus our Lord rose, and stood in the midst of his disciples, and said, Peace be unto you.⁷

Alleluia. ¶. The Lord rose, and meeting the women, said, All hail: then they came and held him by the feet.⁸

Alleluia. ¶. On the day of my resurrection, saith the Lord, I will go before you into Galilee.⁹

If the service of any feast with rulers of the quire be held on this Sunday, or on any following Sunday [in Eastertide] then the second Alleluia at mass will not be that of the Sunday, but one of the nine aforesaid Alleluyas taken in order.

SECOND SUNDAY AFTER EASTER.

On this day, and on all Sundays up to Ascension Day, if it be not a feast with ruling of the quire, the mass of the Resurrection is to be said, as on Easter Day, with the exception of the Gradual, and of In communion with etc., and of This oblation, therefore, etc., but there is to be no memory of the Sunday at the mass of the Resurrection. Be it noted, that on all Sundays from Easter Day to Ascension Day, Alleluya. ¶ Christ our Passover will be said first, and secondly, the Alleluya of the Sunday, because it makes more mention of the resurrection, in the last place. Within the period aforesaid, whatever the mass may be, there shall be a memory of the resurrection with the prayer, O God, who through thy only-begotten Son, etc.,¹ except on the Invention of the holy Cross. But the Sunday mass is to be said throughout the week with the ferial Preface, and if there be no ferial day throughout the week unoccupied by a festival, then the mass is said on Sunday in chapter.

Alleluya. Ὑ. The Lord in the holy place of Sinai, when he ascended up on high, led captivity captive.³

Sequence.

The almighty King, victorious, on this day,
Having redeemed the world with puissant might,
Ascended to the skies from whence he came.
After his resurrection he confirmed
The apostles' hearts for forty holy days,
Leaving his pledge of love, the kiss of peace,
And gave them power of remitting sins,
And sent them to baptize in all the world,
In grace of Father, Son, and Holy Ghost;
Commanding, as he sat with them at meat,
They should not from Jerusalem depart,
But wait for gifts which had been promised.
"After not many days, the Paraclete,
The Spirit, I will send to you on earth;
Ye shall bear witness to me in Judæa,
And in Jerusalem, or in Samaria."

And when he had said this, it came to pass
While they beheld, lo! he was taken up,
And a bright cloud out of their sight received him,
As towards heaven steadfastly they looked.
And lo! two men, in white apparel clad,
Stood by them, saying, “Wherefore gaze ye so
Into the height of heaven? for this Jesus,
Who now from you to God’s right hand is taken,
Shall so come, in like manner as he goeth,
The intrusted talents’ usury to require.”

God of heaven, of earth, of sea!
Thou dost man—thy creature erst—
Whom by fraud and subtilty
Satan drave, like him accurst,
Out of Eden’s garden fair
Down to regions of despair:
Whom thou didst redeem again
By thy blood and bitter pain—
Bear to paradise once more,
Whence by sin he fell of yore.
Lord, when thou as judge shalt come,
All the universe to doom,
Grant us, we devoutly pray,
Thy beatitude for aye,
In that land of saints, where we
May alleluias sing to thee.

Afterwards he appeared . . . signs following.

O thou, who holy thoughts dost love,
Pour down thine unction from above.
Thou who all ill dost purify,

To speak of Christ thou didst inspire
The seers with prophetic fire;
Didst teach apostles without fear
Christ’s banner through the world to rear.
When God did by his word create
Heaven, earth, and sky, that fabric great,
Thou, brooding o’er the waters’ face,
Didst shed abroad thy mystic grace.
Thou quickenest with fostering breath
Water to ransom souls from death;
Thou dost revive the hearts of men
With spiritual life again.
The world by variance rent, O Lord,
Thou hast to unity restored;
Idolaters thou dost recall,
Best Master, to the God of all.
Thou, Holy Spirit, graciously
Hear us who lift our prayer to thee,
Without whom prayers are all in vain,
Nor can the ear of God attain;

The saints of every age and race,
And dost their energies inflame
By virtue of thy holy name;
A gift unwonted pouring out
On the apostles’ band devout,
Throughout all ages yet unknown,
Hast made this day of high renown.

Sequence.

Now let the sacred quire,
With holy symphony,
The promised joys sound forth
In fulness sent from heaven.
Assembled in one place,
The apostolic band
Awaits the glorious gifts.
Forthwith a voice divine,
Filling their hearts with power,
Atteststhe Comforter.
In every tongue they speak
Some mighty mystery
And wondrous works of God.
In canticles divine
His praises to rehearse
The assembly ceases not.
O God of all the earth,
Thee sun and moon do praise;

¹ Ps. lxxxii. 1. ² Ps. civ. 30. ³ From St. John, xiv. 26.
The universal host
Of heaven in concert join
Their voice with waters deep.
Thee sings the genial earth;
Thee all the glittering stars;
Thee ransom'd souls adore,
Rejoicing in thy love.
The Jews amazed declare, that cursed band
Is of new wine's inebriation full;
Counting those filled with grace as full of wine.
These holy mysteries receiving, Peter
Doth conquer and subdue those hardened hearts,
Affirming this to be foretold by Joel.

Now triumphing our soul
Doth utter songs devout,
That for the heavenly visitant
A place she may prepare.
Let every string proclaim
Thy holy praise abroad,
That we may entertain
Those hallow'd gifts of grace.
All this pure offering
Of melody accept,
That so we may attain
Thine heavenly seat on high,
Whence light for ever flows.
Thou who didst consecrate
Those hallowed feasts of old,
Fulfil us now with light:
Or in thy heavenly realms
Grant us perpetual joys.
O Holy Ghost, thanksgiving meet,
And glory in thy starry seat
Is ever due to thee.
Deign thou in stately happiness
Our souls and bodies to possess,
O Christ, eternally.

Sequence.

Now prompt, O muse, the fitting strain,
And let the organ lend its tempered might;
Swell, pipe and string, the joyous note of praise;
 Whilst we, with lifted heart and voice,
Devoutly sing the honour of this day;
For on this day descends the Paraclyte
Upon Christ's faithful ones, filling their souls with grace.
A sudden sound is heard, and tongues of fire are seen,
And lo! with accents not their own,
Untaught of man, they speak the wondrous works of God.
Yet carnal unbelief cries scornfully,
"Full of new wine are these:" misdeeming them
Whose hearts the blessed Spirit with love inflames.

It is the fiftieth day
From the great resurrection morn;
Into their heart of hearts down glides the mystic fire;
While to the city a clear sign is given.
Then forth they go, a light amid the gloom,
Dropping the word's good seed in every land
 With many a sign of power,
While the supernal dew
Blesses the thirsty new-sown field.

† Ps. civ. 30.  ‡ Source unknown.
And now, O Christ, thy servants waiting on thee
Here in thine house, would fain their voice attune
To that new song which saints in glory sing.
To him be endless glory, honour, power,
Who to all men that serve him faithfully,
In every clime, the Spirit's aid vouchsafes—
Meekly, with one accord, the wondrous gift we seek,
That he, the Holy Ghost, our inmost hearts
First cleansing, with all wisdom may enlighten. Alleluya.

Verily, verily, I say ... more abundantly.

Christ on this pentecostal day revisiting without delay
the bride, his promise sent;
After the honey's treasured worth,
the rock a store of oil gave forth,
the rock now permanent.
From Sinai's mount proclaimed the law graven on stone the people saw,
not sent in tongues of fire:
Newness of heart, and quickened mind,
with unity of tongue combined,
The chosen few inspire.
O happy, O most festive day!
whereon the early founders lay the Church's pediment;
The rising Church's first-fruits born to life anew this holy morn three thousand souls present.
The two loaves by the law ordained,
two people represent, retained
By faith's adoptive tie;
The head-stone of the corner, set between the two, together met, hath wrought out unity.

\textsuperscript{1} From Acts, ii. 11.
New bottles, not the worn and old,
new wine are suitable to hold;
   with oil Elisha fills
The widow's vessels not a few;
so on fit hearts his holy dew
   God graciously distils.
We are not worthy of this wine,
nor oil, nor of this dew divine,
   if discord reigns within:
His consolation cannot find a place in a divided mind, or heart obscured by sin.
Come, holy Comforter benign,
our tongues control, our hearts incline;
if on us thy blest presence shine,
   no poison harms, no gall;
There is no joy, no pure content,
no health, no calm stabiliment, sweetness hath no constituent,
   except thy grace do all.
Thou art the light, the oil to cure,
thou, working in the water pure, mysterious virtue dost assure to bless thy chosen race.
By new creation born again,
to praise thee now our hearts are fain;
by nature sons of wrath, we gain
   the privilege of grace,
Thou art the gift, the giver, too,
all good on earth to thee is due;
with gratitude our hearts endue, to praise thy name with accents true
   do thou our lips ordain;
Cleanse us, we pray, from all our sin,
of purity thou origin;
that we, renewed in Christ, may win perfect life, and bring us in where joys in fulness reign.
No man cometh . . . life of the world.

¹ From Tobit, xii. 6. ² Not in H. S. ³ Song of the Three Children, 32. ⁴ Ib. 36 (partly). ⁵ Ib. 29.
Blest be the holy Trinity,
eternal Godhead Thou;
Father, Son, Holy Ghost, one God
To whom all creatures bow.
Three Persons in one Godhead dwell,
One will have all the three in perfect harmony combined, nor ever disagree:
Godhead in Unity consists,
three Gods there cannot be;
So the right faith by Christ set forth confesses stedfastly.
This is the faith which souls enthralled doth from their sins release,
And leads them to the cloudless land of purity and peace.
There in one dulcet symphony
the hosts of heaven unite;
The steps of Christ enthroned on high they follow clad in white.
There, while this life's vicissitudes pass by and quickly fade,
In the changed raiment, which they yearn to win, they stand arrayed.
We likewise, as in duty bound,
would pay our debts to heaven,
Contracted in this lower world,
as grace to us is given;
That after death we with the blest
may full communion gain,
And when the righteous doom is fixed may heaven's high courts attain;
Where God in glory manifest pours forth undying light,
Where is the Saviour's face for aye,
that beatific sight;
That sight doth o'er the angel's breasts irradiating shine,
While their adoring gaze they fix on Christ the Lord divine.
Like thirst to theirs the holy saints in heart and flesh will feel,
When for their righteous deeds the judge a recompence shall deal.

Sion, lift thy voice and sing, praise thy Saviour and thy king, praise with hymns thy shepherd true;
Strive thy best to praise him well,
yet doth he all praise excel, none can ever reach his due.

See to-day before us laid the living and life-giving bread, theme for praise and joy profound;
The same which at the sacred board was by our incarnate Lord given to his apostles round.

Let the praise be loud and high,
sweet and tranquil be the joy felt to-day in every breast.
On this festival divine which records the origin of the solemn eucharist.

On this table of the king, our new Paschal offering brings to end the olden rite.
Here for empty shadows fled is reality instead;
   here, instead of darkness, light.

His own act, at supper seated,
Christ ordained to be repeated
   In his memory divine;
Wherefore now with adoration
we the host of our salvation consecrate from bread and wine.
Hear what holy church maintaineth that the bread its substance changeth into flesh, the wine to blood;
Doth it pass thy comprehending?
faith, the law of sight transcending, leaps to things not understood.

Here beneath these signs are hidden priceless things, to sense forbidden;
signs, not things, are what we see;
Flesh from bread, and blood from wine, yet is Christ in either sign all entire confessed to be.

They, too, who of him partake, sever not, nor rend, nor break,
but entire their Lord receive;
Whether one or thousands eat,
all receive the self-same meat,
Nor the less for others leave.

Both the wicked and the good eat of this celestial food, but with ends how opposite!
Here 'tis life, and there 'tis death,
the same, yet issuing to each in a difference infinite.

Not a single doubt retain,
when they break the host in twain, that in each part there doth remain
what was in the whole before;
Since the simple sign alone suffers change in state or form, the signified remaining one and the same for evermore.
Lo! upon the altar lies,
hidden deep from mortal eyes, bread of angels from the skies made the food of mortal man.
Children's meat to dogs denied,
in old types fore-signified,
in the manna heaven-supplied,
Isaac and the Paschal lamb.

Jesu, shepherd of the sheep, thy flock in safety keep;
living bread, thy life supply, strengthen us, or else we die;
fill us with celestial grace.
Thou who feedest us below,
source of all we have or know,
grant that with thy saints above, sitting at the feast of love
we may see thee face to face.

My flesh is meat . . . live for ever.

reaching to heaven, to earth, and to the lower dungeons of hell.

³ Gen. xxviii. 17. ⁴ Is. ii. 2 (Vulg.)
Doubt not my words, though marvellous they be, her from his side, endowed thus wealthily, As the God-man, a mighty mystery, himself brought forth.

That in such wise should be the Church's birth—the woman showed in figure upon earth, when she from Adam's side first issued forth, ill-omened Eve.

Eve was but step-mother to all her seed; to the elect this mother is indeed the port of life, and unto those in need a hiding-place.

Fair, wonderful in off-spring, great in might, as moon, as sun, she shines in beauty bright, more terrible than army for the fight set in array.

One and alone she is, yet manifold; receiving all, yet one unbroken fold; to multitudes, herself one, young and old she doth give birth.

This was by Jordan's parted waters shown, this she who came from distant lands makes known, attracted by the marvellous renown of Solomon's lore.

By divers types prefigured, this is she, in bridal vesture clad resplendently, above the heavenly hosts upraised to be with Christ conjoined.

O solemn festival of high delight! which doth with Christ himself the Church unite, wherein our own salvation's marriage rite we celebrate.
O entertainment sweet, assembly blest!
which to the fallen gives consoling rest;
to them that have lost hope, the sore distressed,
a breathing time.

There are rewards unto the righteous given,
there joy anew God's angels in the heaven,
there hearts are gladdened with the gracious leaven of charity.

The source of wisdom from eternity,
by gracious, all-disposing scrutiny, in the due course of things did this foresee should come to pass.

Therefore, when Christ his marriage-feast shall make,
may we with joy of true delights partake, and never the blest company forsake of his elect. Amen.

Between Septuagesima and Ash Wednesday the following
Tract is said on the Octave only of this feast.

Tract.

O how amiable are thy dwellings: thou Lord of hosts!
my soul hath a desire and longing to enter into the courts of the Lord.

My heart and my flesh rejoice in the living God.
Yea, the sparrow hath found her an house, and the swallow a nest where she may lay her young.
Even thy altars, O Lord of hosts, my king and my God.
Blessed are they that dwell in thy house: they will be alway praising thee.

In Easter-tide the second Alleluya of the Resurrection shall be said daily throughout the Octave, and on the eighth and also on the first day.

1 Ps. lxxxiv. 1, 2.  2 Ib. 2.  3 Ib. 3.  4 Ib.  5 Ib. 4.
And Jesus entered ... that which was lost.

Offering.
O Lord God, in the uprightness of mine heart I have willingly offered all these things: and now have I seen with joy thy people which are present here: O God of Israel, keep the imagination of the heart of thy people. ¹

In Easter-tide shall be said Alleluya.

Secret.
Favourably answer our prayers, we beseech thee, O Lord; that whosoever of us are met together within the circuit of these temple walls, in which we celebrate the anniversary of their dedication, may please thee with full and perfect devotion both of body and soul; so that while we pay these our present vows, we may by thy help be made worthy to attain unto the reward everlasting. Through etc.

Ferial Preface.²

Communion.
My house shall be called the house of prayer, saith the Lord: in it whosoever asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and unto him that knocketh it shall be opened.³

In Easter-tide there shall be added Alleluya, alleluya.

Postcommunion.
O God, who hast deigned to call the Church thy spouse, that she who obtained grace through her devout faith should also obtain dignity from that name; grant that all this people, who serve thy name, may be found worthy to have a share in that title. Through etc.

If this feast fall between Septuagesima and Easter, there shall be said at the end of mass, Let us bless the Lord.

³ From St. Matt. xxi. 13, and vii. 8.
But if it fall at any other time of the year, mass shall be concluded with, Depart, the mass is ended. This same mass of the Dedication shall be said throughout the whole Octave, whenever this feast shall fall (that is to say, from the Octave of the Epiphany up to Septuagesima, and from the Octave of Easter up to Ascension Day, and from the Feast of the Holy Trinity up to the Advent of our Lord), unless a feast of nine lessons shall intervene; but without Sequence and Creed; except that on Sunday the following Sequence is said:

Sequence.

Now let the faithful quire their serenade to high heaven sing;
The chamber of the queen is ready made for glory's king.
The lowly burr doth thus with lily wed, with sun a star;
To God the soul, in mystic union led, a shrine doth rear.
Christ and the Church, in chaste espousal knit, this day we praise;
Thus man to God his spirit doth unite in yoke of grace;
Flesh to the Son of God in marriage high hath thus attained;
The peerless Son to deep humility did condescend.
The mightiest one of low estate did seek, and by his Word the bride, so dark and meek, made clean and white.
What he ordained he hath so fulfilled who the impure could make, if so he willed, all pure as light.
O handmaid, haste thy liberty to gain, that sceptred with thy husband thou may'st reign; Thy spouse consider; him whom types disguise true faith discerneth with unclouded eyes.
Octave of the Dedication of a Church.

Whosoever cometh . . . upon a rock.

Creed.

All shall be done as on the first day, with this Sequence:

Sequence.
The dwellings of the Lord of hosts how fair!
the master-builder's courts how sure they are!
Unharmed by winds, or floods, or rain,
for ever settled they remain.
How majestic their foundations!
shadowy prefigurations
they in mystic type portray.
Formed from sleeping Adam's side,
Eve of the approaching bride doeth a sign convey.
Framed of wood the ark doth save
Noah guided o'er the wave, when the world was drowned.
Sarah, stricken now in years, laughs when she an infant bears;
her joy doth ours expound.
Long widowed, veiled in robes unfitting, Thamar, by the wayside sitting,
to Judah twins doth bear.
The royal maiden doth deliver the infant Moses from the river, in bulrush ark laid near.
This is the male lamb sacrificed, with which all Israel was sufficed,
and by its blood brought nigh;
Of Sheba's utmost parts the queen in quest of wisdom here is seen, king Solomon to try:
Black, yet comely, see we her, perfumed with frankincense and myrrh,
    with balmy odours fraught.
Thus things to come which types concealed,
the day of grace hath now revealed,
    and illustration brought.
Now let us take our rest and sing,
with the beloved tarrying,
    the marriage hour is come;
The trumpets, as the guests go in,
with echoing tones the feast begin,
    the psaltery charms them home;
Ten thousand thousand voices raise with one consent the Bridegroom's praise, and Alleluia! Alleluia! cry, in everlasting joy, unceasingly.

And it was at Jerusalem ... are one.

The Creed is not said unless it be a Sunday. If the feast fall between Ash Wednesday and Maundy Thursday, notice shall be taken of the feast on the first day only, with the exception of the memory within the Octave, and on the Octave.
